NO STREET CAR FARE BOOST

TARIFF STANDS ALTHO TRACTION OWNERS WIN SUPREME COURT FIGHT

Officials Say Victory Over Wellsville in Highest Federal Tribunal, Which Upholds Zone Collection System, Will Have no Immediate Effect in East Liverpool District.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION MAY REGULATE INTRASTATE FARES

Hubbard as Well as Wellsville Involved in Legal Battle Which Began in November, 1921, When Federal Board Approved State Line, Kountz Avenue and Wooster Zones.

The Steubenville, East Liverpool and Beaver Valley Traction company's victory in the United States supreme court at Washington yesterday over the city of Wellsville on the so-called "zone system" of collecting car fares will have no immediate effect in the district, officials of the company declared today.

J. H. Maxwell, president, who expects an official copy today of the ruling in which the highest tribunal in the land upheld the government's contention that the interstate commerce commission has authority to regulate the intrastate rates of electric railways doing an interstate business, expressed the opinion after reading press reports that it would result in no change in the present tariffs.

Under the decision, which applies to Hubbard, Ohio, as well as Wellsville, for that city had brought suit against the Pennsylvania and Ohio Power and Light company, operators of a traction line there, the zone system, which became effective Christmas day, 1921, on the State Line-Wooster division of the Steubenville, East Liverpool and Beaver Valley Traction company's road, and which was knocked out by a federal court injunction order about a month later, is approved.

Reversal of Lower Court.

The zone system provided for a 15-cent fare between the Ohio-Pennsylvania border and Wooster's the westerly corporate limit of Wellsville. Three five-cent zones were established—State line to Diamond, Diamond to Kountz avenue and Kountz avenue to Wooster's stop, Wellsville.

Since the launching of the Wellsville fight against the zone system, the fare controversy was settled in the East Liverpool-Wellsville district. As a result, a 10-cent fare is now effective on the East Liverpool-Wellsville division, a 7-cent fare within the City of East Liverpool and a 5-cent fare within the corporate limits of Wellsville. A 10-cent fare for the through ride on the Chester division was previously in effect.

The supreme court decision was a reversal of the opinion rendered in the United States courts for the northern district of Ohio, but Associate Justice James C. McReynolds announced a minority opinion in line with the ruling of the lower court.

One Jurist Dissents.

The two Ohio municipalities brought action to have enjoined and set aside the order of the interstate commerce commission, which sought to bring the

ISAAC BROWN ROTARY GUEST

Steubenville Insurance Superintendent Speaks at Noon Meet.

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

This was the thought emphasized by Isaac Brown, Steubenville, district superintendent of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, in a health talk delivered at the noon-day luncheon of the Rotary club at the Y. M. C. A. today.

Mr. Brown, whose subject was "Working for Dear Life," discussed ways and means of keeping health without the assistance of a physician. He pointed out that since the Metropolitan company launched its welfare work, the average life of the policyholders has been increased eight and one-half years.

To illustrate his talk he used a one-reel motion picture, showing the necessity of frequent examinations and inspections of machinery, but very seldom, he declared, does the average person think of submitting himself to a physical examination.

"If a young person is given the right start in life there is no reason why he should not live to be a hundred years old," he said.

About 50 members of the club attended the meeting, which was in charge of President C. R. Boyce. Short talks were made by Frank Wehner, J. D. Thompson, Frederick Herche, Malcolm Thompson and others.

The speaker was introduced by G. Bendheim, Sixth street shoe dealer. D. M. Ogilvie will be chairman of next Tuesday's meeting.

ST. Dressed in her "Sunday best" she laughed and chatted with reporters who constituted a reception committee.

CHIEF OF POLICE URGES 12-MAN FORCE

WARREN MAY BE NAMED TO FILL HARLAN STONE'S CABINET PLACE

Detroit Man Favorite for Attorney General's Post.

OTHERS IN RACE

Coolidge Appoints New Yorker on Court Bench.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—President Coolidge today was facing the task of filling the fourth vacancy that has occurred in his cabinet since he came to the White House, and for the second time it is the attorney generalship.

Before him were a score of names from which to select the man who will succeed Harlan Fiske Stone in conducting the government's legal business. Announcement of his choice probably will not be made until the senate has acted upon Stone's nomination to the supreme bench, but that action is expected today or tomorrow.

The field of those whom the president has under serious consideration, it is said, has narrowed down to five with perhaps the leading figure that of Charles Beecher Warren of Detroit, former ambassador to Japan and Mexico, participant in the conference that resulted in the recognition of Mexico, chairman of the rules committee of the Cleveland Republican national convention, and nationally prominent lawyer.

OHIO SENATE TRIBUTE PAID LATE W. V. BLAKE

Resolution Offered by H. M. Carpenter is Adopted.

LAUDS SERVICE

Served as Member of 73rd General Assembly.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 6—High tribute was paid the memory of the late William V. Blake, of East Liverpool, former senator from the 20th-22nd. joint district, composed of Columbiana, Jefferson, Belmont and Harrison counties, by the senate of the Ohio legislature yesterday afternoon.

Appeals are Made To Italy's King to Act as Crisis Looms

LONDON, Jan. 6—Appeals were being made to King Victor Emmanuel III, as guardian of the nation's constitutional rights, to take steps to restore civil liberty throughout Italy, according to private advices received here.

Chevelters of St. Annanslata, who include Ziolitty, Orlando, Bonomi, Sporza, and Diaz, have intimated to the King that they feel the time has come for him to act.

It is understood that the King, however, is fearful that any effort of the throne to force Premier Mussolini to give up his power would result in serious conflicts, particularly in Northern Italy, between Facists and Regular troops.

Administration Leaders Rally Forces to Sustain White House Declaration That no Pay Boost Can be Allowed Without Necessary Revenue.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The Coolidge administration's policy of drastic economy was at issue in the senate today with a vote pending on the president's veto of the postal salary bill.

Administration leaders rallied their forces to save the president from being overridden and to sustain his declaration that no postal pay increases can be allowed without a direct provision for raising the necessary revenue. The administration was literally fighting with its "back to the wall" as its spokesmen have conceded the bill will be enacted by the house if the senate overrides the president.

A direct vote on the veto will be reached by the senate at 4 o'clock this afternoon under an unanimous consent agreement. The outcome is still in doubt. Supporters of the pay bill were three votes short of the required two thirds. Majority when they defeated an administration effort to recommit the bill to the Senate Postoffice committee.

Break in Administration Ranks.

On the test vote, 19 Republicans, including such administration spokesmen as Senators Reed, Republican of Pennsylvania, and Wadsworth, Republican of New York, opposed the president's viewpoint. Despite this big break in the administration ranks, the bill was not assured of passage. Its advocates, however, maintained they would win enough additional votes on the final roll call to override the veto.

Both Republican and Democratic senators attacked the president's position on the pay bill. They contended the bill should be acted upon on its own merits and pointed out that the president himself was now in favor of the postal wage increase.

"The only issue here," said Senator Hiram W. Johnson, Republican of California, "is whether the United States is big enough, generous enough

4,300 Auto Owners Must Obtain Tags Within 10 Days

Approximately 4,300 East Liverpool automobile owners must obtain their 1925 license plates within the next 10 days if they expect to drive their cars after January 20th.

According to Deputy Automobile Registrar, J. S. Hilbert, less than 700 sets of the new plates have been distributed here. Of this number 558 are for pleasure cars and the remainder for trucks.

Secretary of State Thad Brown has announced that there will be positively no time extension allowed after January 20th.

But one set of tags, issued here, has been returned to the local registrar for replacement. This set was issued to a farmer residing near the Boil School house. Deputy Hilbert has made requisition to the Secretary of State for substitute tags.

Motorists are urged to varnish their tags after attaching them to the car in order to protect the paint which on some tags is said to be defective.

Bandit Kills Ohio Woman When She Rejects Money Demand

COLUMBUS, Jan. 6.—Police are hunting for the unknown bandit who murdered Mrs. Ruth Kendrick, 30, here early today. The assassin fired a bullet through her chest when she rejected his demand for money shortly after midnight, it was claimed. The bullet passed through her body and Mrs. Kendrick died a short time afterward in Grant hospital.

The shooting occurred in front of Mrs. Kendrick's home in South Grant avenue upon her return from a taxicab trip about the city. After being questioned concerning the shooting, the police released W. F. Mitchell, Taxi driver, in whose machine Mrs. Kendrick had been riding, Fred Whitmer and Sam Clark, all of this city.

Authorities said Mrs. Kendrick first accused Whitmer of shooting her, but later denied he was the man. Police said Whitmer and a brother had been drinking with Mrs. Kendrick at Clark's home last night.

JASON H. BROOKES RE-ELECTED BOARD OF EDUCATION PRESIDENT AT ANNUAL RE-ORGANIZATION MEETING

D. F. White is Vice-President and Emmett Gaston, Secretary-treasurer — Manual Training and Domestic Science Discussed.

Attorney Jason H. Brookes was unanimously re-elected president of the board of education at a re-organization meeting in the high school building last evening.

D. F. White was re-elected vice president, while Emmett Gaston was named secretary-treasurer for a term of two years. Mr. Gaston's salary was increased from $900 to $925 per year, in order to cover the cost of his surety bond.

The board discussed the re-establishment of courses in manual training and domestic science in the high school, beginning with the fall term. The Building and grounds committee, consisting of members Wilhelm, Weaver and White, was authorized to devise a plan whereby three unoccupied rooms in the Central school building might be used for high school class work next year.

Expect Record Freshman Class.

According to figures gathered by the board, approximately $17,000 additional will be available for school work next year. This estimate is based upon the tax valuation and the present school board millage. With this money in prospect, it is thought sufficient funds will be available in the spring to re-establish manual training and domestic science.

Miss Florence Updegraff, high school principal, warned the school board in a communication that the high school building would be unable to accommodate the high school enrollment next year if the incoming Freshman class was as large as last years. Indications are that the Freshman class entering high school next fall will be a record breaker.

Rooms in the high school building, formerly used in the instruction of manual training and domestic science are now being used for class purposes. With the re-establishment of these courses in the schools, less room will be available.

Miss Updegraff declared that the three vacant rooms in the Central building might be used for academic work and a plan worked out whereby no students would be required to go from one building to the other except during the noon-hour recess.

As the rooms in the high school are specially fitted for manual training and domestic science work, it was felt that these departments should be utilized when the courses are re-established.

The board granted high school students from Madison township a time

DR. W. F. RITTMAN TO SPEAK HERE

Carnegie Tech Man Will be Guest of Rotarians.

Dr. Walter F. Rittman, head of the commercial engineering department at the Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh, will address members of the Rotary club at the weekly noon-day luncheon at the Y. M. C. A. on Tuesday, January 13. He will discuss the Dawes plan.

Dr. Rittman was formerly consulting engineer to the United States government and now is consulting engineer to the state of Pennsylvania. His work in the engineering field has stamped him as a national figure.

T. Stewart Brush was associated with Mr. Rittman in an engineering job at Tulsa, Oklahoma, for about 18 months, several years ago.

The speaker will divide his talk relative to the Dawes plan under three heads, first, the political situation in Europe, more particularly England, France and Germany, which made the plan possible; second, what the Dawes plan is and comprehends, and third, what will be the probable result of the Dawes plan on the economic and business life of the various countries involved.

interstate rates of the electric railways into line with their interstate rates, "so the discrimination against interstate business would cease."

Jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission over the intrastate rates of such carriers was denied by the municipalities, and the district court granted an injunction on the ground that the commission had no power to regulate intrastate rates on electric railways, except in cases where the interurban road was a part of a general steam railroad or engaged generally in the freight business.

"The question," the supreme court decided, "is the construction of the act to regulate commerce, and we have reached the conclusion that the lower court was wrong. That the commission has the power to regulate interurban railways as they affect interstate business it is unnecessary to pass upon."

"This court has held," said Justice McReynolds in his minority decision, "that the interstate commerce commission has no authority over street railways. By the same line of reasoning it has no authority over these carriers. Congress has had the opportunity if it wanted to do so to say in plain language that the power is extended to control of these. It had not done so."

History of Case.

A summary of the case follows:

In November, 1921, a little more than three years ago, the fare on the main line was five cents under the Wellsville franchise. Of the Steubenville, East Liverpool and Beaver Valley Traction Co.

The company, operating, it was said, at a loss, decided upon a three-zone system of collection between Wooster's and the state line.

The application was filed with the interstate commerce commission and at a hearing held in Columbus at which representatives of the car company and the city were present, the interstate commerce commission approved the fare increase under the zone system.

A bill in equity asking an injunction to restrain the traction company from making effective the zone system of fare collection was filed in federal court in Cleveland on December 14, 1921, by Attorney Charles Boyd, then city solicitor of Wellsville.

The federal court granted a temporary restraining order.

This was followed by a motion, filed by the traction company and the interstate commerce commission, asking that the city's petition be dismissed.

On January 1, 1922, Attorney James E. O'Grady became city solicitor of Wellsville and continued the case.

On November 19 and 20, 1922, the case was called for a hearing in federal court in Toledo before Judges Westenhaver, Killitts and Donohue, having been transferred from Cleveland.

New Ordinances Enacted.

Solicitor J. E. O'Grady represented the city of Wellsville in the Toledo court. There the temporary order granted during the regime of Solicitor Boyd was made permanent.

Then the interstate commerce commission and the traction company carried the case to the United States supreme court in Washington and hearings were held within the last six months. The city was represented in the supreme court by Attorney George D. Ingram, who became Wellsville's solicitor on January 1, 1924. The court upheld the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission and its authority to grant the car company power to operate under a three-zone system.

In the meantime, however, new ordinances drawn up by the city enabled the car company to collect 10 cents for a ride to East Liverpool, the fare that exists at the present time.

HOW TO END BLADDER TROUBLE

Remarkable results in quickly clearing up long-standing cases of bladder trouble and weak kidneys are being obtained with a remarkable remedy originally compounded many years ago by a famous Holland chemist. It goes direct to the overworked and congested kidneys and bladder, and tones them up and restores them to normal working order often in 24 hours. Physicians have known its value for years, but it is only recently that the genuine imported oil has been put up in easy-to take, tasteless capsule form, under the name of Red Mill Haarlem Oil. Bills in Hopper.

Nine bills and a joint resolution proposing an amendment to the state constitution were in the house hopper when the state legislature reconvened here this morning. No bills have been introduced in the senate.

The senate and house met in joint session at 10 a. m. today in the house chamber and canvassed the vote cast in Ohio at the election last November, verifying the result as previously officially announced by Secretary of State Brown. Another joint session will be held this afternoon when consideration will be given to the proposal that a new state office building be erected.

Proposed Legislation.

The house bills, introduced late Monday are:

By Representative Tallentire, Hamilton county, providing that chartered cities may by vote of the people fix their own tax limitations, and provides, also, for a complete budget system of municipal receipts and expenditures; by Wise, Summit, making Armistice Day (November 11) a legal holiday; Meyers, Lucus, providing for an angler's license measure with an annual fee of 50 cents; Rep. Madison, providing life imprisonment for robbery, unless mercy is recommended by jury or accused pleads guilty when sentence may be fixed at 5 to 30 years imprisonment; Rea, providing life imprisonment for assault with intent to kill, or commit robbery, or rape unless jury recommends mercy, or accused pleads guilty, when sentence may be fixed at 5 to 30 years; Mrs. Vanwye, Hamilson, exempting reasearch workers of state universities from civil service; Dempsey, Cuyahoga, providing for re-organization of cemetery associations; Mrs. Clapp, Cuyahoga, Extending to inmates of private children's homes the benefits of public school education; Brown, Champaign, amending county ditch laws, relative to cleaning up and repairing ditches.

Representative Lipp, Hamilton, offered a house joint resolution providing for an amendment to the state constitution, authorizing assessing of the entire cost of public improvements against owners of abutting property. The present law limits such assessment to 50 per cent. of the cost of improvement.

Drunks Head List.

Drunks headed the list for arrests the total being 410. Illegal possession of intoxicating liquors was next with 199, selling intoxicating liquors, 13; transportating intoxicating liquors, 10 and furnishing intoxicating liquors, 7, a grand total of 159 liquor violations. Other arrests included gambling, 91; suspicious persons, 53; disorderly conduct, 40; assault, 37; operating automobile while intoxicated, 31; violating traffic ordinance, 29; reckless driving, 28; fighting, 28; drunk and disorderly conduct. 22; breaking and entering, 21; loitering in disorderly house, 14; trespassing on railroad proneрty, 12; permitting gambling, 13. But one arrest was made for murder.

In a move to eliminate traffic hazards the chief recommends the installation of 18 automatic safety street lights in the business district.

"While our report for the past year will show an increase in the number of arrests as compared to the previous year, our city is more orderly and law-abiding than most communities of a similar size," the chief says. "When you consider the size of our police department we have not had many felonies, indicating that every man is on the job.

Collections in Mayor Brown's office for the year established a new high record, the chief executive's report indicates. Fines and license fees totaled $26,673.27, an average of $2,222 77 per month. During December, $1,584.80 was collected. All of this came in, however, on city cases. The biggest month of the year was in July, when $3,062.74 was reported.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—The stock market staged an impressive comeback in the early trading today.

Hesitating for only a short period to absorb the small volume of selling orders which had accumulated since the close of Monday's session, the whole market was once more in the grip of a bull movement in which the railroad, motor, oil, equipment and industrial shares moved forward vigorously.

Before the end of the first half hour American car and foundry had recovered six points, general electric 5, radio corporation 3, United States Steel 2 and a score of active stocks a point or less. New York Central resumed its spectacular advance and sold above 124 for the first time since 1910 thus scoring a new gain of nearly 3 points.

The market was active in this period and reports from the brokerage houses were to the effect that considerable short covering was being done by bearish traders who selling was partly responsible for the setback yesterday in industrial stock prices. The reaction was considered a healthy corrective, in view of the violent manner in which the pools marked up their favorite stocks since the turn of the year.

and decent enough to pay a living wage to its employes."

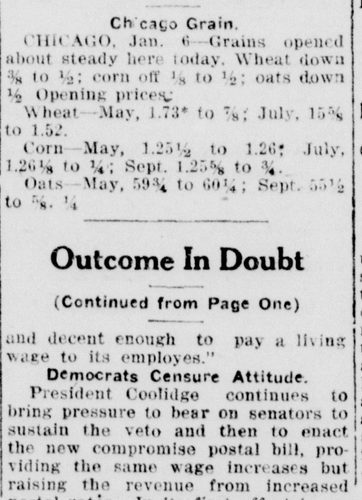

Democrats Censure Attitude.

President Coolidge continues to bring pressure to bear on senators to sustain the veto and then to enact the new compromise postal bill, providing the same wage increases but raising the revenue from increased postal rates. In its first effort to arrange this substitution, the administration lost by a vote of 51 to 30.

The president's attitude met with censure from Democrats, Senator Copeland, Democrat of New York, charging the executive with attempting to "becloud the real issue."

"There is no reason," said Copeland "for any senator to change his vote because he had buckwheat cakes and sausage at the White House. The only question here is whether the postal employeers are entitled to living wages."

extension upon the promise of their parents to pay the tuition charges for the current month. A member of the Madison township school board informed the local board that they would be unable to make a settlement of the tuition charges for the first part of the year until there had been a tax payment from the county treasurer. Another high school student from Belpre, Washington county, will be given the remainder of the present week to pay her tuition. The board did not regard as satisfactory an answer from her township board to a bill submitted for the tuition and advised that the amount be advanced by the child's relatives, pending a settlement by the township board.

of the speed with which Mr. Coolidge appointed Attorney General Stone to the vacancy on the supreme court, it is assumed that he had been forewarned of Justice McKenna's determination to retire and had already made a decision as to his successor.

Warren has rendered valuable service to the administration, both in the field of politics and diplomacy, and it is believed that should he desire a cambinet post his aspirations would receive the closest consideration.

Also prominently mentioned are Solicitor General James M. Beck, present acting head of the department; Robert Prentice Rugg, chief Justice of the Massachusetts supreme court, a personal friend of the president's; Frank S. Dietrich, United States District Judge for the district of Idaho, whom Senator Borah urged for the post last year; and secretary of the navy Wilbur.

Wilbur may be shifted over from navy to justice. He was chief justice of the California supreme court and an outstanding lawyer on the coast. And it is no secret that some high administration officials are not pleased with his administration of the navy department.

East Liverpool May Be Faced With Grip Epidemic

PNEUMONIA CHIEF DANGER

Grippe Attacks Weaken Body's Resistance to Germs of Pneumonia—All Colds Should be Treated Promptly.

Deep grippy colds have been unusually prevalent here this winter. The situation is fairly general throughout the States. In some sections these colds are called "influenza," but the majority of health officers report that they are much milder than the original epidemic and resemble more closely the old-fashioned la grippe. They are usually accompanied by a headache, burning eyeballs and aching scalp—and frequently by gastric and intestinal complications. such as hiccoughs, nausea, diarrhea, etc.

Colds are too often neglected until they have lowered the vitality sufficiently to permit the lurking germs, which cause pneumonia, bronchitis and influenza to attack the body.

Don't Take Chances.

The only safe plan is to attack a cold right at the beginning. A hot bath, a laxative, a sweat and a vigorous application of Vicks Vapo Rub at bedtime over throat and chest will often break up a cold over night.

For hours after Vicks is applied the Vapors of Camphor, Menthol, Eucalyptus, Thyme and Turpentine, released as vapors by the body heat, are inhaled directly into the infected air passages. At the same time Vicks is absorbed through the skin and also stimulates it like a poultice or plaster.

It is an obstinate cold indeed that can resist this direct, double action.

Vicks Vapor Steam.

If the air passages are badly stopped up, try the "Teakettle and Tent" treatment. This method—fully explained in the directions—consists, briefly, of vaporizing Vicks in a teakettle and arranging a newspaper "tent" over the patient's head so that the combined warm steam and medicated vapors can be inhaled.

Mothers especially appreciate Vicks for the frequent colds of children, as it can be used freely and often, without disturbing the digestion—you "just rub it on." Over 17 million jars are used yearly.

Sermon On Bible Delivered By Evangelist W. J. Lockhart

Prayer Service Precedes Discourse Monday Night in First Church of Christ.

Many of the downtown church members joined in the revival service at the First Church of Christ, last evening, marking the opening of the week of prayer observance.

Evangelist W. J. Lockhart of Des Doines, Iowa, in charge of the revivals, spoke on the subject, "Why I Believe the Bible." The early part of the service was devoted largely to prayer. The music was under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harbinson of Fairmont, Ind. Mr. Harbinson is a soloist and song director.

"Billy," 18-year-old son of Evangelist Lockhart, is in charge of the children's work. He has organized the young people of the church into an organization known as the "S. S. S." He will have charge of the service some evening in the near future.

Tonight Evangelist Lockhart will speak on the subject, "Backsliders."

"The reason some of you people look so glum and gloomy is that you do not enjoy your religious life, and the reason you don't enjoy your Christian life is because you have so little of it," said the speaker in his sermon. "A lot of you people are spiritually dead and don't know it.

"Jesus said: Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my word shall not pass away. You can go into the church and temples and synagogues and tabernacles and homes and libraries of earth and gather together every copy of the multiplied millions of Bibles that have been printed. You can pile them in a great pyramid until they reach toward heaven. You can then tap one of these oil arteries coming out of Kansas and Oklahoma and turn this stream of oil upon them until they have been thoroughly saturated and then apply the blazing torch, but you will not destroy the Bible.

"No, the Bible is not going to be destroyed and I am not here to defend it. It needs no defense, but I am here to arouse your interest in it and to give you a more vital faith in its message. I believe the Bible because of its wonderful origin. The Bible is not just one book; it is a library of sixty books written by about forty different writers, over a lapse of sixteen hundred years in different ages and at different places on the earth. But when all these books had been written and brought together and bound in one volume they make one book, with one message, and with one personality dominating the whole.

"This, I say, is a miracle, the unbelieving world can not answer. For I defy anyone to duplicate this miraculous book by gathering any other sixty-six books written by forty writers covering a period of sixteen hundred years and make anything like a unit.

"But this is not the convincing thing for in each locality. Write him today to my faith in the Bible, however strong it is. I believe the Bible because it is the only book that tells the story of Jesus' life.

"I tell you the mesage of that dear old book is its own great demonstrator. And I speak of its power over my own life that I may bring the greater message and that the truth of the Bible will meet the needs of every man and woman's life anywhere and in all ages.

"I am so glad that our Father in heaven tells of his love in this book he has given; wonderful things in the Bible I see, but dearest of these is Jesus loves me."

Bread and the Children's Welfare

IT may never have occurred to you that good bread, such as BETSY ROSS bread, contains every element needed for the proper diet of children. Yet, this most economical food is often considered lightly and is seldom eaten often enough.

It contains carbohydrates, protein, iron, mineral salts and the vitamins found in milk. Medical authorities say that a deficiency of these elements is the cause of the malnutrition among school children—a condition affecting one child out of every three.

Malnutrition is easily overcome by proper feeding. Give your children more BETSY ROSS bread. Serve it to them in various ways, as toast for breakfast, milk toast, with milk or in puddings. Write for our recipe book giving forty new ways for serving BETSY ROSS. When ordering get BETSY ROSS—always—for "there's a difference in bread".

1924 taxes became a lien April 13th, 1924, the day preceding the second Monday in April.

First Half must be paid not later than December 20th, 1924. Last Half must be paid not later than June 20th, 1925.

The correct way to pay a full year's tax without penalty is to pay in December for December and the following June.

Penalty on delinquent Real Estate and Personal Property is 10 per cent.

When writing for a statement of your taxes, remember property appears on the Treasurer's books in the name of the person having title on April 13, 1924, and that the law requires the Treasurer's books and receipts to be made out in the name of the party owning property when the lien took effect.

In writing for statement of taxes, always send last receipt, or give name of owner in April 1924, stating plainly in what city, town or township located, and whether real or personal property.

When you write for statement or pay by mail, enclose a self addressed stamped envelope for reply.

Special taxes are written separately on yellow slips. If you have Special tax, insist on getting the yellow receipt before leaving Treasurer's Office and avoid delinquent notices.

Examine your receipts and see that they are correct before you leave the Treasurer's Office.

Treasurer's Office will be open from 7 A. M. to 5 P. M.

From Blanket to Toga

Few Americans have realized that, on the passing of the famous Massachusetts aristocrat, Henry Cabot Lodge, his place as leader of the United States Senate was taken by a Kaw Indian who "once wore the blanket and received government rations." As told by a writer in the New York Times, Senator Curtis's life story looks like first-class material for either a patriotic or a movie thriller.

The senator is only one-fourth Indian, but looks more than that. His grandmother was a full-blooded Kaw, his grandfather a French Canadian and his father an American trader. The boy lived a normal Indian life on the reservation, west of Topeka, until he was 10 years old. Then, when the Cheyenne tribe swept down upon the Kaws and besieged their camp, little Charlie Curtis was sent through the lines alone, by night, to bring help from Topeka, 60 miles away. He made that hard trip safely on foot, sent relief and saved his tribe.

White friends he made in Topeka persuaded him to remain there. He became a jockey, and the pride of the cattle country, which loved racing. He won many famous races, and had many adventures. At one of his races the James brothers raided the gate and made off with all the receipts.

After five years of that, Charlie was persuaded by Old Indian friends visiting Topeka to return to the Reservation. On the way his old Indian grandmother told him he was making a mistake—that opportunity lay with the white, not the Indians. She gave him her best horse and set him back. The lad was ambitious. He went to school till his money gave out, then drove a night hack, and read law in his hack while waiting for fares. There followed his admission to the bar, local distinction in his profession, election to Congress, promotion to the Senate, and, at last, leadership of that powerful and exclusive body, with a big share in determining the destinies of the world.

Any American boy who things he "has no chance" should consider this story.

Art for License Plates

Something new in motor licenses may result from a plan now being considered in New Hampshire. That state is seriously contemplating placing a replica of the "Great Stone Face" on its automobile registration plates. The "old man of the mountain" or Great Stone Face has been a famous New Hampshire landmark for many generations. Hawthorne celebrated it in his beautiful story of the name. Daniel Webster once said, "Up in the mountains of New Hampshire, God Almighty has hung out a sign to show that there He makes men."

If art and objects of local pride are to be combined with license numbers there is no guessing how far the development will go. There are the falls of Niagara for New York state and the Grand Canyon for Arizona, to mention only two outstanding possibilities. In time it may be necessary to have license numbers and their accompanying illustrations painted across the backs of cars by skilled artists.

Jobs for the Airplane

The airplane has recently come of age. That is, December 17 was the twenty-first anniversary of Orville Wright's first flight in a power-driven, heavier-than-air machine at Kittyhawk, N. C.

Most of us, perhaps, think of the airplane as a pretty definitely established means of transportation. All that remains is to perfect it in a few details and to bring down its cost. Orville Wright, however, has a different view.

"The airplane," he declared, "on its twenty-first anniversary today, is like a young man just reaching his majority.

"Like the young man, it has developed through the years from an object of no practical usefulness, although of great interest, into an object of great latent possibilities. But like the young man it is, in a sense, now looking for a job.

"It possesses the necessary qualifications to be of great service to the world; but because of its youth and inexperience, it has a hard time getting a chance to demonstrate its abilities."

Well, as in the case of the young man there is plenty of work for the airplane to do. It is simply the usual matter of adjustment.

Haskin Letter

UNCLE SAM'S MANY ISLANDS—II

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Among the islands for which the United States navy is responsible is Guam. It is used as a naval station and, in these days of cable, wireless and airplanes, has become an important link in the trans-oceanic communications system. The commandant of the naval station there is also the island's governor.

To New Zealanders this island formerly was the mythical port for which vessels leaving their harbors would clear when sailing under sealed orders. These orders when opened at sea always contained instructions to proceed to some other part of the world. So much of a custom had th's become that many New Zealanders came to regard Guam as a place existing only in the imagination of ship owners.

Recently an American visiting New Zealand was questioned as to his next destination and named Guam. You can imagine his astonishment when his friends applauded him loudly for his excellent joke, not one of them believing that such a place existed.

The most remarkable occurence at Guam in recent months was the great typhoon and flood which swept the island on October 1. The storm caused one death, and wrecked thousands of dollars worth of property. But it made history chiefly because the rainfall broke almost all existing records. The rain gauges showed that in 15 hours 19 inches of rain had fallen over the island of Guam and in 48 hours there were 33 inches.

A mathematical shark has figured that, as the island covers 245 square miles, the rain which fell would amount to more than eighteen trillion cubic inches, or eighty billion gallons. Putting the figures into tons it would amount to 323 million tons of water.

This is about a year's rainfall in some of our states, and it is more than a year's allowance for 11 of the most arid states all put together.

From Guam it is not a great journey west to the 7,000 islands of the Philippines, which are inhabited by more than 13,000,000 people.

The Filipinos have a very old civilization which dates back beyond recorded history. They were being influenced by Indian and Chinese culture several centuries before Christ. They had a literature and records of their early history, but the manuscripts were made of palm leaves and bamboo and were kept in caves where the people gathered and worshipped.

The Spaniards, coming to the hPilippines in the sixteenth century, called these records "Books of the Devil," and ordered them burned, so that today there are only a few scattered bits of manuscript which have been found in corners of the caves on the islands.

UNIVERSITY OLDER THAN HARVARD

The Philippines had a university in 1611, 25 years before Harvard university was established.

The Filipinos are ambitious and in many ways very progressive. In the Far Eastern Olympic games they have more than held their own against Chinese and Japanese athletes.

In 1923 the Philippines came out first in baseball, volley ball and basketball, and second in track and field, swimming, tennis and football.

A Filipino sculptor in Rome has been attracting wide attention and winning prizes in competition with famous artists all over Europe.

Philippine women are becoming more independent just as American women are. Out of 46 graduates in pharmacy at the University of the Philippines 42 were women. In the same class four of the 11 doctor's degrees were granted to women, and out of 488 graduates 110 were women.

Philippine women are becoming nurses and lawyers and are going into trade and industry. Business is no new line to them because it has always been the custom for the women of the Philippines to manage their families' finances.

The United States paid Spain the sum of $20,000,000 for the Philippine islands, and today the trade of the islands for a single year is worth 15 times that amount.

The desire of the Filipinos for independence has not been lost sight of, and gradually the way has been paved for autonomy. The Jones act of 1916 promised the Filipinos independence when a stable government should be established on the island.

A particularly interesting phase of the Philippine situation is the Moro question. There are about 200,000 Moros who inhabit the southern islands of the Philippine group.

The Moros are a timely subject now because the sultan of the Moro tribes has asked that the Americans establish a school for girls like the industrial and agricultural school run by Americans for Moro boys at Jolo.

This is rather a sensational development in the history of the Philippine islands. The Moros have a world-wide reputation for being among the fiercest of all barbaric races. They are known as scalp collectors, and as people who know only one way of settling an argument—and that is by gun or knife. Besides this, they are Mohammedans, which implies the active antagonism of the follower of Mohammed toward all unbelievers.

NOT SAFE A DECADE AGO

Ten years ago the Moro settlements were no safe place for unguarded Americans. But ten years ago Bishop Charles H. Brent, then Protestant Episcopal bishop of the Philippines, together with Mrs. C. Lorillard Spencer, planned to open a school for Moro boys. They were told that they would only start a bloody religious war, because the suspicious Moro chiefs would warn the people that the Christians were trying to proselyte. The bishop admitted this danger, but he saw that the Moros were going round in a vicious circle of resentment, revenge and ignorance.

These people who never bowed the knee to Spain and never gave her a cent of tribute, even when she held the Philippines in her power, have respect for the American rule in the Philippines. But official positions in the southern islands are held by 250 Filipinos, and the Moros, who are a distinct race, distrust them.

Because Filipinos teach public school classes, Moro families send their children to school only by compulsion and only for the few years which are absolutely required. It looked as though the Moros would go on indefinitely resenting the conditions which surrounded them, because there was no way for them to get training to fit them to hold responsible positions themselves.

The American plan was to take a group of Moro boys and make them into trained leaders. Funds were raised among American philantropists, and the school was opened. Sons of the proud Moro nobility were especially invited, because such boys seemed most promising material for leadership, but children from families of fishermen and farmers were also admitted without class distinction. The Moro leaders agreed to give the offer a trial.

At first between 30 and 40 boys enrolled. The first morning a teacher who entered the dormitory found every boy up and dressed and sitting tensely on his cot with his barong, the native knife, on his knees.

Every boy was just waiting for an affront, real or imaginary, from his neighbor. The school took these young fighting cocks and kept them so busy and so interested that they soon forgot to be aggressive.

The boys are taught to respect the attainments of their people, but they are inspired to make progress. Until General Pershing ordered them to give up guns and knives, the Moro way of tilling a field was to upturn the surface of the ground, a bit at a time, with a barong, the same weapon which could quickly take off an enemy's scalp.

BOYS TRAINED PRACTICALLY

By slow labor in the broiling sun the Moro farmer raised a rice crop to feed his family. The school teaches its boys the most practical ways of raising rice, corn and suitable American vegetables. They also learn to cook and to build houses and to live more hygienically.

In three hours a day the boys cover the same course in English, arithmetic and other academic subjects as the public school students cover in a full day's session.

The religious war, which was ominously predicted, never took place. The policy of the school has been to avoid talk of special creeds or churches. Bishop Brent says:

"The school represents the first opportunity which a western nation has ever had of gaining official access to the minds and hearts of the boys and girls of a Moslem race. We aim to show the Moros a Christian life rather than a church covenant. Today our boys are merry, studious and industrious. They never think of fighting; they are too busy. Even the fathers of many of the lads, who had been for years cruel, blood-thirsty head hunters, have turned from war and have taken up agriculture. We have put plows where we found swords."

The girls' school requested by the sultan and the principals of the Moro tribes is to be established when sufficient funds are raised. Mrs. Thomas J. Emery, of Cincinnati, has just given $30,000 to erect a building for the school for girls, and the Moro Educational Foundation, as the organization in charge of the work is called, is forming local chapters in cities of the United States to raise $500,000 which would endow the foundation permanently and would finance its work among the Moros.

The Moros are not the only island people who are represented as being wild and barbarous, but who in reality are making as rapid progress as funds and assistance will permit.

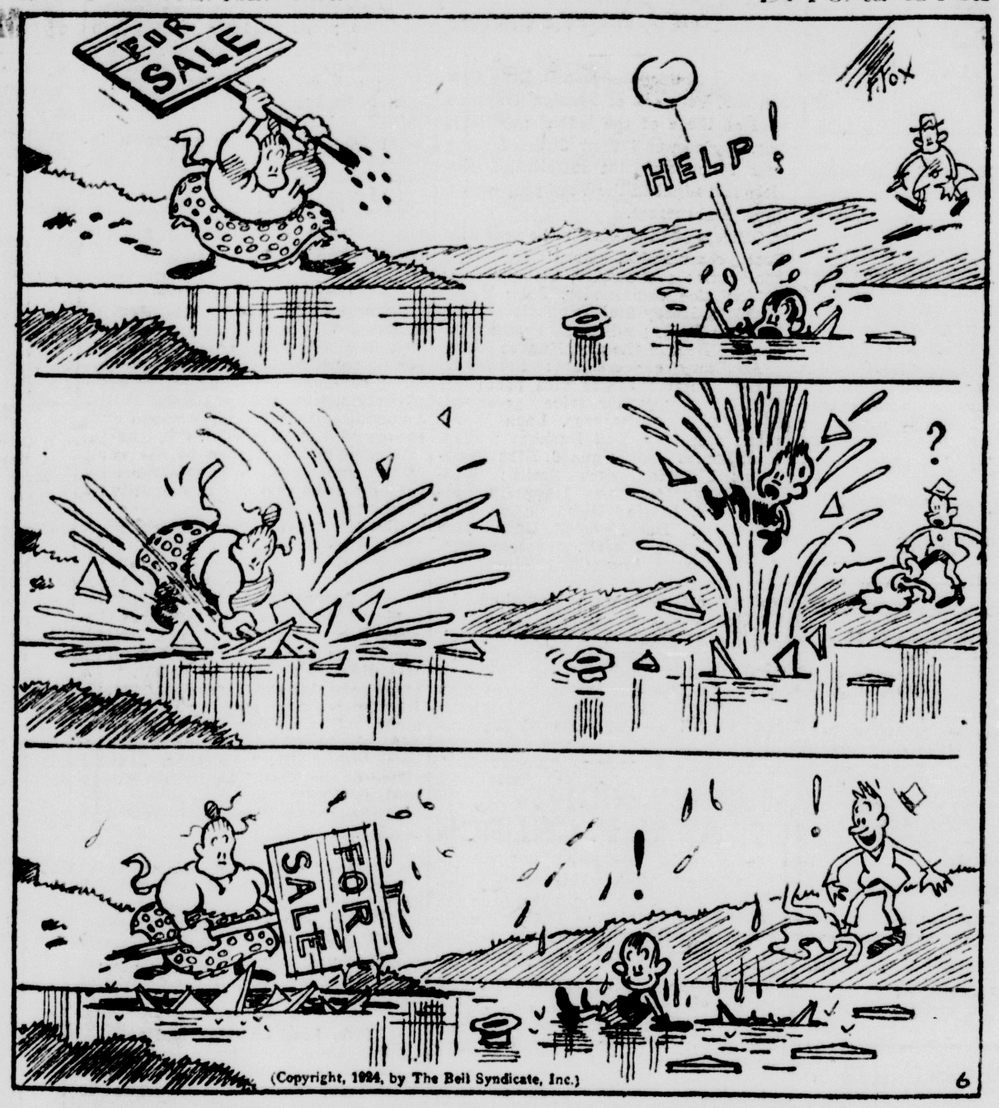

The Igorots of the Philippines are often regarded as unlettered savages. Yet, in a recent debate on Philippine independence, an Igorot boy attending Central high school in Washington, D. C., upheld the right of the Philippines to independence, and won the debate.

The islands over which the American flag is flying may seem far away from what we think of as our world of civilization, but they represent not only promise, but real achievement.

The Powerful Katrinka— By Fontaine Fox

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

MANILA, Ja. 6.—The Filipino woman is taking to pharmacy. The degrees in the University of the Philippines and the private colleges are filled with young ladies preparing to concost medicinal preparations in the little boticas, of drug stores, which dot the islands.

The chess champion of the Philippines is a Moro, Datu Alip, of Cotabato province. He can neither read nor write, but has easily cleaned up all comers among the Christian Filipinos. Alip's father—a sworn enemy of the Americans 20 years ago, but before his death an equally devoted friend—was chess champion of Moroland, so that the young man's ability runs in the family. Datu Alip sings Moro battle songs and chants from the Koran while playing. He claims the practice contributes much to his victories.

No more free speech or free press for the Filipinos! That is, if the drastic muzzling bill proposed by Representative Jesse Evangelista becomes a law at the next session of the Philippine legislature. He proposes to make it illegal for any person : : : "to use in public or in private, orally or in writing any expression detrimental to the good name of the Filipinos and their country, or to print, publish, possess, exhibit and send or circulate in the Philippines, or other countries, articles, manuscripts, photographs, postcards or cartoons, false or imaginary, which, directly or indirectly, express sentiments unfavorable to the natural aspirations of the Filipino people to be independent." A fine of not less than $25 nor more than $1,000, or subsidiary imprisonment, will be imposed on each violator of this law.

America has its hoof-and-mouth disease, and the Philippines have a somewhat allied disease, rinderpest, which is endemic in the islands, though it was stamped out in all except five municipalities about 10 years ago. But, in addition to the ever-present rinderpest, the islands are now faced with an epidemic of anthrax, more deadly than either of the other two diseases.

An epidemic last fall killed more than 10,000 carabaos, or native oxen, and was not put down until the Filipino government called on United States troops for assistance in enforcing the quarantine against moving animals from one place to another.

The United States forces have been away from the infested districts only six months, and the anthrax death rate is again increasing rapidly, especially around Manila. Five companies of native constabularly were assigned to patrol Bulacan and Bataan, nearby provinces; and several native governors and presidents (mayors have been called on the carpet by Governor General Wood.

Election comes next year, and the constituents of native elective officials complain of the drastic quarantine measures which have been imposed in order to keep the disease from spreading all over the islands. So when the constabulary arrest persons violating the quarantine and lodge them in municipal jails, the city officials let the violators out again as soon as the backs of the constabularly are turned. When an investigation ensues, the officials conveniently disappear and cannot be found. Three presidents were suspended last week, and the governor of Bulacan has been warned that his "head will fall' unless he co-operates with the insular officials in the enfocement of quarantine measures.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—I have just talked to a man whose life for 20 years has been pitched in the hurly burly of Broadway. He is a newspaperman and a shift of management sent the "old ball and chain" around the office and he found himself jobless.

There are not so many newspaper obs in New York these days, so he decided to try for a place on a newspaper he left in a little southern town to come to New York. There was an immediate reply for him to pack the kitbag and come on.

He was the most abject picture of woe I have ever seen. To him the world had come to an end. He could not garner one gleam of joy in returning to a peaceful community where he had real friends and could enjoy peace and happiness.

New York has a way of hypnotizing its sons and daughters. The bigness charms them as the snake charms the bird and after awhile they begin to believe there is no place else but Manhattan. It is the kingpin of foolish reasoning.

Once they get away and break the spell they rarely come back. They find there is more genuine living to the square inch in towns west of the metropolis than they ever found possible here. They have 10 real friends there to one fair weather friend here.

Unless a man has an enormous income it is almost impossible to own a home here unless he buys one out where the pavement ends in some straggling suburb. In the smaller city, if he is thrifty he soon becomes a home owner.

People there accept him for what he is and not because of a well-tailored suit or because he can call some stage star by first name—whether he knows him or not. As a place for the hustler to make money New York grades high, but as a place to live it total zero.

There is much talk of abandoning Manhattan Transfer—that odd place that boasts only a depot and which has given millions of newcomers the first thrill of arrival. It is only a few moments away from the big terminals. Manhattan transfer has long been the butt of comedians who refer to themselves as being may or of the place.

New York tailors are now making pickpocket proof clothes. They appeal especially to subway riders. Secret pockets are installed under the armpits in coats and are so devised that they cannot be found save by the owner. One man is said to have his pockets picked so much in the subway that for a year he has been wearing pocketless trousers.

Down in the Turkish quarter they sell native perfume for 10 cents a bottle. An it is the same perfume that a certain gilded perfumery on the avenue sells for $8 for the same sized bottle. On Allen street a lady of my acquaintance bought a dress for $65. She has a friend who bought the identical dress in the fashionable dressmaking district on West Fifty-seventh street for $282. Value in Manhattan are largely geographical. And as long as there continues to be suckers it will remain that way.

The other day with a New Yorker I had a bite to eat in one of those eat-and-run places. The waiter brought the change with a flourish and said. "Here you are, pal." The New Yorker was astounded. He could not understand why I did not rebuke him and also report him to the management. The waiter was merely being kind, according to his light. In fact I rather admired his friendliness.

And where is the old-timer who used to call the stranger "Buddie?"

HEALTHY AND WISE

Miss Inez Hardin, the Mississippi girl chosen as the healthiest girl in the country, is described as a bundle of sunshine. Health and sunshine go together.

The young girl is a bundle of common sense also, and says "I'll marry when I'm 30. Not until then."

Some healthy boy may change her mind, but she would be wise to stick to her plan.

Healthy mothers have their best babies after 30, and in fact, after 35. Plato knew it more than 2,000 years ago.

AMERICA ON WHEELS

We know that America rules the world in automobile use and production, having more automobiles than all the rest of the world combined, with millions of machines to spare. How much do we ride?

This country in 1924 manufactured 46,000,000 tires. Allowing an average mileage of 6,000 miles, which is low, and dividing by four, you find that tires enough were made in one year for more than sixty-seven and a half billion miles travel—twenty-seven hundred thousand times around the earth.

A WILD WALL STREET

It was a wild stock market last Saturday, dearly beloved. The crowd bought a million and a half shares in two hours. Many buyers were sad-eyed bears compelled to protect themselves after foolish short selling.

Many stocks are low, selling at half their value. But how is the little lamb to know which are which? "Conservative" Wall Street writers tell you, "such times as these always come before a serious reaction."

Are they trying to protect you, or trying to give their friends a chance to get in the market on a drop?

The only safe rule is don't gamble.

Do with stocks as with land. Select what you think good, buy only what you can pay for and keep. Last Saturday speculators bought stocks at the rate of $750,000 a minute. Some of that will never be paid for.

JOHNNY WAS ITALIAN

Johnny Dundee, featherweight prize fight champion of the world, has been much admired, and geese that would put the Nordic race above others found in Johnny another proof of their theory, "nobody can beat a Nordic," said they. "Celt or Saxon, or old Germanic blood, that's the stuff the best men are made of."

Then Johnny Dundee retired from his championship, goes to Rome, is blessed by the pope, and proud of being the first professional prize fighter to get a papal blessing.

And, lo! you learn that your fighting "Nordic" was born in Italy, that his real name is Giuseppe Carrora. He is no Saxon or Clet, but a pure-bred Latin, descended from the old fighters that followed Caesar and helped to build his roads.

The more you learn about the Italians, the more you realize that they possess power of every kind, from the brute force that creates a featherweight champion to the high intellect that produces a Marconi, Duse or Vedi.

What applies to Italy, applies to other countries. The super-great Jack Dempsey has an Irish name and an Irish father. But part of his blood is North American Indian, otherwise Mongolian from the long ago.

Congressman Anthony, of Kansas, chairman of the committee that drafted the war department supply bill, recommends one single united air service for the United States, under separate command, subject, of course, to the president's general authority.

That is common sense, and it ought not to take congress long to pass any necessary legislation. Air fighting is new, the respectable old gentlemen of the army and navy know nothing about it, never having flown, and many of them still living in the old battleship and hansom cab days.

An air service unified, and then a real air service, should be the program.

Cotton growers, cheer up. Science says the boll weevil can be conquered. Insects find their food by scent. Attract you boll weevil by the aroma of the food that he likes, then destroy him.

They kill tigers and leopards by sound. The bleating of a tethered kid attracts them, and a bullet does the rest.

The olfactory bait for the boll weevil is being perfected by scientists. It will be prepared synthetically. The mother boll weevil will follow her nose and die of poison, with her eggs unborn. And this, mind you, is serious. Once find how to attract insect pests by smell and they are done for.

It has been proved that insects, moths, for instance, have a sense of smell of incredibly wide range, far exceeding in keenness that of any bloodhound.

William Arbuthnot Lane, great and wise British surgeon, warns women that the craze for a silhouette figure is a menace to the race.

Sir William is wrong when he says, "women are much more monkey-like than men, and show it by imitation." He is right in denouncing the abnormal craze for skinniness.

RECOGNIZE OHIO LICENSE PLATES

Ohio 1924 license plates will be recognized in West Virginia until Jan. 15 and Michigan 1924 plates will be permitted until March 15. Both these states have encountered difficulties with their license distribution for the new year and the announcement comes as a result of an agreement with the neighboring states.

No extension of time has been allowed West Virginia motorists, however, since the ruling this year stated specifically that all cars operating on and after January 1, 1925, should bear the new license plates. A comparatively large number of autoists delayed their applications until the last few days of the year and arrests followed as a result after the advent of the new year.

FASHION KING SAYS AMERICAN GIRL IS DIANA; FRENCH MAIDEN VENUS

Certain Parisians Out of Sorts When Patou Brings Six Beautiful Mannequins From Land of Dollars.

PARIS—"The American girl is a Diana, her French sister a Venus," declared Jean Patou, the Prince of Paris dressmakers, upon his return from the United States.

Certain of old Parisians were out of sorts when they learned he had brought with him six beautiful mannequins from the land of dollars.

"Parbleu!"—which is a very polite swearing term in French—"why import American beauties to the salons of the rue de la Paix?" they exclaimed. "Does this mean that our lovely little Parisiennes no longer know how to wear the chic creations of our fashionable designers?"

"No, not at all," answered Patou. "I went to America for my mannequins for many technical reasons. In the first place, there is a great difference between the French and the American silhouette. Sport has made a great plastic difference. The French girl is a Venus and the American a Diana, with muscles well developed, short bust and long, fine legs. I am persuaded that on Olympus Venus was dressed like Diana, for Diana is the typical 'young demoiselle" and Venus the typical woman.

"Besides, there is a fact which is much more important—namely, that a large part of my clientele is made up of American women who come especially to Paris to buy smart clothes. People who are not in the business do not realize the importance of the role of mannequins, not only in the presentation of the models, but in their creation as well. We work on the mannequin herself, sometimes during hours at a time. She is our collaborator and inspiration. She is the one who suggests what is likely to please later among the buyers.

"Thus, naturally enough, among American women, American mannequins will have the greatest success. The American girl knows how to wear her clothes to the best advantage. She has a fresh clear complexion as a rule, and it is nearly always natural.' Her her is beautiful and wevy kept, and her form particularly agreeable to look upon."

Paris usually suffers from a "crise"—the lack of something or other. At present there is the dearth of mannequins. There are few of them to be found, and these few soon turn into selling clerks, or "premieres," whose position is far more important, as well as lucrative. Patou intends to raise the standard of the mannequin and make it a profitable as well as honorable profession. Among his twenty-five or thirty French girls there are several who are now earning 30,000 or 35,000 francs a year—a handsome salary for them, although it is a bare fifteen hundred dollars.

Grandparents Fight For Custody of Boy; Court Must Decide

PORT HURON, Mich. —The future home of Earl Froh, 4, is to be decided in court here. The child's parents are dead, and the four grandparents are fighting for his custody.

In 1922 the court entered an order that the child should be in the custody of Mr. and Mrs. August Schultz, parents of his mother, for six months, and in the care of Mr. and Mrs. John Froh, parents of the father, for the remainder of the time. The child is now at the Froh home, and Mr. and Mrs. Schultz claim the Frohs refuse to give him up.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Cheese Sauce — Melt two tablespoons of butter in the saucepan, add two tablespoons flour and mix smooth. Gradually add one cup or more of milk, stirring gradually, and cook until it is smooth and thick. Season with half a teaspoon of salt, a little paprika or pepepr and half a cup or more of grated cheese. Cook until cheese is melted and serve over the baked potatoes.

Orange Salad—Four oranges one-half cup finely cut celery, lettuce, dressing. Remove skins from oranges and cut in pieces, discarding all the white membrane. Mix with celery and moisten thoroughly with dressing. Arrange on lettuce and put a spoonful of French dressing over the top.

Oyster and Macaroni — One pint oysters, one pint boiled macaroni, one cup white sauce, one-half cup crackers, rolled. Break and boil macaroni in salt water. Into a well greased pudding dish place drained oysters, and add macaroni, cover with white sauce, which has some of the oyster liquor in it. Sprinkle with cracker crumbs and bits of butter. Bake until the crumbs are browned.

Sweet Potato Pie—Boil enough sweet potatoes to make two cupfuls when they are mashed. Add to the potatoes one and a half cupfuls of sugar, three eggs, two cupfuls of rich milk, a saltspoonful of salt, a teaspoonful of lemon juice or extract and a saltspoonful of ground ginger. Beat these ingredients well then turn them into a deep pie plate lined with a good rich crust that has been warmed. Bake the pie in a moderate oven.

Cabbage Salad — One small onion, one small head cabbage, boiled dressing. A few stalks of celery or half a cup of raisins or chopped apple will give variety to this salad.

Rice Soup—Three cups rice water, two cups carrots, two tablespoons drippings, one tablespoon chopped onion, one tablespoon chopped celery and one tablespoon flour. Cut the carrots into small pieces and cook until tender. Heat the drippings, add the onions and celery to it and cook them five minutes without browning. Stir in the flour, add this mixture to the carrots, then add the rice water with salt and pepper to taste.

Butter Scotch Apples—Five apples, one-half tablespoon of corn starch or flour, two-thirds cup brown sugar, one-half cup water, one-eighth teaspoon salt, three-fourth cup milk, one-half teaspoon vanilla, one-half to one tablespoon butter. Wash the apples, cut them into quarters, pare and core into a saucepan put the sugar and water and heat; when the syrup boils add the apples. Cover and boil gently until apples are tender. Remove the apples from the syrup with a skimmer or wire egg beater, placing the fruit in sherbet glasses or other suitable dishes for serving.

In another pan mix milk and corn starch thoroughly, stir and cook until the mixture reaches the boiling point, then add it to the syrup in which the apples have been cooked. Boil for a few minutes, add the salt, butter and vanilla. Stir these into the mixture, then pour the sauce over the apples. Serve either hoto r cold for a dessert.

IRONING HINT

Chiffon and crepe de chine dresses, etc., should be ironed directly on the surface on the wrong side, with a warm iron (not damped), and hung in the air for an hour before wearing or putting away—otherwise they will crease. Mauve and gray crepe de chine turn color while being ironed, but the natural color returns when they are cold.

SUGGESTIONS

Bristle brushes wash well if care is taken not to let them soak in hot water long enough to loosen the bristles from the handles. Brooms and brushbrooms also may be washed by dipping them in a pail of soapy ammonia water, then rinsing them in clean, cold water. Shake off the water and dry them, hanging them in the sunlight. Careful washing does not soften bristles.

One can save themselves a good deal of work in dishwashing if one is careful. For instance, the Dover egg beater need never be washed in the dishpan. Hold it under the cold water faucet in the sink as soon as you finish using it and then lay it on the top of the stove to dry with the heat of the oven. With care only the lower part of the beater will need washing. If allowed to stand it is usually very hard to wash.

To those who buy a whole ham at one time: After cutting what you wish for a meal spread the cut surface with a thin layer of lard. This keeps it fresh and prevents drying out, while the lard may be scraped off and used again.

Anyone who has picked the feathers from a duck knows how hard it is to get all the down off. First pick out the big feathers and pin feathers as you would a chicken. Then pour melted paraffin over the duck where it is fuzzy, and as soon as this is cool or set, peel it off, which will take off the fuzz nice and clean and leave the skin unbroken.

Ousted Tenants Take House as They Move; Owner Given Shock

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Mrs. Ida Ragsdale is trying to recover a home that she had rented out and which the renters lifted bodily out of her lot and placed on an adoining lot that they had purchased.

And the act, Mrs. Ragsdale said, had additional aggravating circumstances for the reason the house was moved after the occupants had failed to pay their rent and Mrs. Ragsdale secured an ouster against them. When the court ordered the renters to vacate they secured hired help to aid them in moving it.

New Laundry Danger Ctudied.

Modern laundry workers using gas heated ironing machines have been found to become affected by carbon monoxide poisoning such as in more serious form attacks garage workers when they work on an automobile in a closed area, when the motor is running. Indigestion and a metallic taste, headache and profuse sweating of some of the victims led to investigation which revealed the slow but steady effect of the carbon monoxide coming from the gas heated irons. Steps to remedy the situation are being taken and no great anxiety is felt.

Miss Mary L. Leary Becomes Bride of William J. Quigley

A pretty ceremony took place this morning at 9 o'clock in the Sacred Heart church of Chester, when Miss Mary Loretta Leary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Daniel Leary of Indiana avenue, Chester, became the bride of William J. Quigley Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Quigley Sr. of Gratz street, Philadelphia. Rev. William J. Sauer, pastor of the church, officiated.

To the strains of the wedding march, played by Mrs. C. P. Horrigan, the bridal party took their places before the altar banked with palms, ferns and flowers.

The bridesmaids were Miss Agnes Miskall of East Liverpool, who was gowned in orchid chiffon, wore a hat of black lace and carried a bouquet of pink rosebuds, and Miss Kathryn McDonnough of Parkersburg, W. Va., who was attired in pink crepe, with black lace hat and carried pink rosebuds. Joseph Walsh of Philadelphia and Bernard McDonnough of Parkersburg were the bridegroom's attendants.

Preceding and during the ceremony Miss Julia McDonnough of Parkersburg sang "Oh! Promise Me" and "At Dawning."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white panne velvet. Her veil was caught in place with orange blossoms and rhinestones. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

The bridegroom is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, with the class of 1924, and is a public accountant.

Following the ceremony a reception and wedding breakfast was served in the home of the bride's parents, covers being arranged for 20 persons.

Among the out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. William J. Quigley Sr. of Philadelphia, Pa.; Misses Delia, Julia and Katheryn McDonnough, P. J. McDonnough and Bernard McDonnough of Parkersburg, W. Va., and Joseph Walsh of Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. Quigley will leave this evening for a honeymoon in New York and Boston. After February 1 they will be at home to friends at 6647 North Twentieth street, Philadelphia.

Today's Cross-Word Puzzle

THE JEWELED CROWN—Twister No. 68

By J. C. BOYD

THIS cross word contraption is not one that you will get through with in a hurry. In fact, we rather think you will find a number of disturbing synonyms likely to cause you some annoyance. Tip For Beginners.

Solve this puzzle by comparing the synonyms listed in the "Horizontal" and "Vertical" columns with the number of spaces extending crosswise or downward on the diagram, as the case may be. If a word occurs to you meaning substantially the same as the synonym and the correct number of letters to fit in the spaces between its number and the first shaded stop following, write it in lightly. Work away the small words, the "easy" words, first, and they will give you plenty of clues to the difficult ones.

NEW OFFICIALS TAKE UP DUTIES

Commissioners Hold Long Session After Naming Officers.

The new board of county commissioners got a regular work-out after they were sworn in Monday. In fact more business was brought before them than the old board had to attend to for several months.

By way of levity, Patrick McNicol, of East Liverpool, one of the retiring members of the board, stood before the new board a minute after he left his chair and petitioned the new board for the improvement of the river road "extending from the eastern termini of East Liverpool and the Ohio-Pennsylvania state line to Midland, Pa."

"We have no money for a job like that," replied Commissioner J. C. Kelly.

"You were a member of this board of commissioners?" queried Commissioner Conrad Berg.

"Yes, I was," replied Mr. McNicol.

"Then why in the dickens didn't you improve the road while you were on the job?"

The old board of commissioners required about an hour to wind up all old business. A few minutes were spent in the new members of the board being congratulated upon their taking seats as public officers, the first to congratulate Mr. Kelly and Mr. Bye being County Commissioner Berg.

It was Mr. Kelly who made the motion that Mr. Berg be elected chairman of the board as the law provides.

Mr. Bye made the motion that Lemuel Johnson be continued as clerk of the board.

It was following these motions that Mr. McNicol went before the new board and asked that the "Midland road be improved."

It was a short while after Mr. McNicol had made this request, when John T. French, residing in the west section of West township was introduced to the new board and made the first protest. Mr. French declared that "60 per cent of the people of West township did not want the East Rochester-Georgetown road improved as it had been planned."

The commissioners seemed stunned.

"This is the first time that any objections has ever been made about the improvement of this road since I have been a member of this board," put in Mr. Berg. "This road has been graded for the last three years and never a voice has been raised against the surfacing of it. What's it all about?"

Mr. French explained that the people he represented did not oppose the surfacing of the 2.44 miles of the road north of East Rochester, but that his friends were opposed to the route north of that terminal point.

"You'll have to show us something more," continued Mr. Berg. "You'll have to get a petition asking for a relocation of the road before we can do anything. "You understand," Mr. Berg suggested, "that this road has been graded for more than three years. Not a voice has been raised against the surfacing."

"Well, you see that two of the old trustees of West township wanted an improved road past their property, and the new road would be of greater benefit to the township," said Mr. French.

"Bring in your petition and we'll give it every consideration," declared Mr. Kelly and the conference was at an end.

Then came along the trustees of Hanover township. Frank Cox of Kensington, a member of the board of trustees, explained to the commissioners that the trustees had $42,000 they wanted to put into the improvement of the Hanover-Salem road and wanted the commissioners to "come along."

"We'll do what we can, but what's the matter with taking this matter up with the state highway department and having a three-way agreement wherein the trustee, commissioners and state share in the cost," said Mr. Berg.

"Well we have the money and we want to do something," declared Mr. Cox.

Several years ago the state highway department approved the plans for the improvement of this road in Hanover township from Hanover north to the Butler township line. No grading on this road has been done in Hanover township, although the road had been graded in Butler township.

Mr. Cox was of the opinion that some grading and surfacing could be done on this road this year, but it was the opinion of the commissioners that grading should be done this year and the road surfaced its entire length next year.

The improvement of this road will be discussed between the commissioners and the Hanover trustees within a few weeks.

Another interesting road project looked with favor upon by the new commissioners is the improvement of the East Palestine-Negley road from Crum's hill to the East Palestine corporation line.

County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk has notified the commissioners that it will cost approximately $34,000 to improve this strip of highway with hillside paving block on an 8.6 per cent grade.

The commissioners were of the opinion that the road should be made on a grade of seven per cent and surfaced with concrete. Another estimate is sought by the commissioners on this basis.

However, it has been agreed that when this road is ready for letting, bids will be asked for both brick and concrete top. Should the road be graded to 7 per cent, about 5,000 additional yards of grading will be necessary, the additional grading being in limestone rock.

The improvement of the Elkton-Negley road is also on the program for improvement during the coming year, and also the resurfacing of the Elkton-Lisbon road.

Touching Reunion In "Life's Greatest Game" at Ceramic

A family reunion which for real pathos and drama has seldom been surpassed in the annals of motion picture production forms the big closing scene of Emory Johnson's sixth F. B. O. triumph, "Life's Greatest Game," at the Ceramic theatre Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. The picture, which is the high water mark of its brilliant director thus far, despite such previous successes as "The Third Alarm" and "The Spirit of the U. S. A.," is destined to set up new box office records, if its pre-views in Los Angeles and vicinity can be taken as a criterion.

The theme deals with the difficulties of Jack Donovan, his wife, and young son. Through the machinations of an unscrupulous gambler, Jack, who is a major league pitcher and star of the old-time Chicago Cubs, becomes estranged from his family. On the eve of their departure for Europe, the husband is brought to believe his wife unfaithful, and departs from the house in anger. The Titanic, on which Mrs. Donovan and Jackie Jr. sail, is lost at sea, and the names of the mother and child appear on the casualty list.

For 20 years Jack Donovan goes on with his baseball career, always mourning the loss of his family. Meanwhile young Jack grows up, becomes a college baseball star, and is picked up by a big team scout. Eventually he lands as a rookie with the team his father manages, the New York Giants. Eventually, he, too wins a world's series, and turns apparent defeat into victory.

It is then that father and son come to know their real relation, for the boy has been playing under an assumed name. Subsequent developments form a most engrossing tale.

Cleared Land For Freedom

Many American negroes did not wait for the Civil War to gain their freedom, but they hired out to northern land owners to chop down trees on wooded area in exchange for their freedom. Many acres of land now under farming crops in the northern states as far north as the Canadian boundary were thus cleared by slaves, as early as 1800.

Cod Liver Oil Now in Tasteless Tablets

Greatest Flesh Builder

No more will weak, thin, unfortunate children cry in protest when the nasty, fishy-tasting, horrible-smelling cod liver oil is brought out.

Medical science progresses rapidly, and now you can get at your druggist's real, genuine cod liver oil in sugar-coated tablets that young and old can take with ease and pleasure.

Even the run-down and skinny grown-ups, who ought to take cod liver oil, because it really is the greatest vitamine food and builder of healthy flesh in the world, will feel extremely joyful when they read this welcome news.

Of course, doctors have been prescribing cod liver oil in tablets under another name for several years, but it is only of late that one can walk into a drug store and get a box of these flesh-producing tablets just as easy as a bottle of cough syrup.

Thin, run-down, anaemic men, women and children who need to grow strong and take on flesh are advised to get a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, and if you don't gain 5 pounds in 30 days just get your money back.

One woman gained fifteen pounds in five weeks, according to her own doctor — another ten pounds in three weeks. A very sickly child, aged nine, twelve pounds in seven months, and now plays with other children and has a good appetite.

Jus task for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets. Anderson, Larkin, Carnahan and Mathew's Medicine store or any good druggist will tell you that they are wonderful flesh and health builders. Only 60 cents for 60 tablets, and don't forget that they are wonder workers for feeble old folks.

THE DOUBLE HOUSE

By Elizabeth Dejeans

He looked down, stood in profound thought. When he looked up, he was smiling faintly, his vivid eyes half appealing, half dominant; it was the expression which had brought him bushels of feminine notes when she had starred in "Bachelors' Quarters;" the expression which would make him beloved of women always. "Kara, dear, let us forget it," he pleaded. "We each have something to forgive, and it will make love the sweeter. Give me a chance—let me win you again. Let us assume that we are as free as on the day when we first met each other—do you remember it? By the Hakidoshi lily pond? I am a better sort than I was, dear. I haven't lived badly these five years. Forgive me what I've said and done in anger—all these years I've both loved you and been angry with you. Hasn't it been the same with you? It must have been." There was earnest pleading in every word. "I'll ask nothing, only the privilege of seeing you often, no more than you gave me before we were married. I shall try to persuade you to marry me all over again." He took her hand and kissed it, laid his cheek against it. "Will you, dear?"

"How can I?" she pleaded. "You don't realize. I have lived a whole lifetime in these five years. I'm not the same girl you knew. I had been sheltered and guarded always—now I am an experienced woman. When I left you, I went to Honolulu. When I didn't hear from you, I went to Russia, to the Karesia. We starved, Rand—not a cent of my income reached me. Oh, I learned all about life! I am not the girl you knew—you would only be disappointed."

"And you emerged Sonya Karesia, a talented woman. I love success, Kara—what you have made of yourself makes me want you the more."

"But I think and feel so differently."

"You just told me that you had been sorry—many times," he objected.

"I have been sorry—that I never really loved you. If I had, I could never have left you. I have wanted love and a husband and children and a home—I have been lonely enough to die, often and often. But I had rather go on to the end of my days, as I am, than to make another mistake, disappoint you, hurt you more than I have."

Rossiter kept her hand in his clasp. "And you come to it by degrees, didn't you—the intention to free yourself if you could and look for all those things that lie right here, now, in your little hand?" He smiled at her, a fugitive sort of smile.

"Yes," she confessed.

"Well, I've told you to consider yourself free and myself as a suitor. Nobody knows, there will be no embarrassment to you. You can hardly refuse me that small favor, Kara?"

Karesia realized how well he knew her; how utterly impossible it would be for her to refuse. He knew what had kept her as she was all these years, the feeling of a duty thrown aside in an hour of anger and disgust, deep in her the feeling that she had no right to seek freedom.

"If you wish it," she said. "But I can promise nothing."

He caught her to him and kissed her. "There is nothing on earth I wish more! I am not asking you to promise anything—I'm going to make you love me. I want you to see my house, your house—and meet my friends. They'll be interested to meet Sonya Karesia—they like people who do things well. And I am as proud as a king of you." He started for the door, turned, and looked at her. "There will be no violence, I promise you, Kara. John Dascome thinks twice before he shoots—before he does anything. You'll know all about it in time."

XXI

After the door had closed on Rositer, Karesia breathed herself back to calmness; to utter weariness and depression, rather. She had done the best she could, and as honestly and as wisely as she could; why think of it? There was the girl upstairs to be considered.

Karesia smoothed her hair and went up to her. Mary Bliss was kneeling beside the bed, changing the damp cloths on Clarice's forehead. She lifted her filmed gaze to Karesia. "She's so pretty," she mumbled softly. "She's getting better." For the first time, Karesia saw what might be taken for a smile on Mary Bliss' twisted face.

Even in her flushed stupor, a limp thing in their hands when she and Mary Bliss had undressed her, Karesia had been struck by the girl's beauty. Clarice was less flushed now and ser slightly parted lips were lovely in line and color. Rich auburn hair, wavy and bobbed, formed a halo about a face whose features were as clear-cut as those of a cameo, exquisitely chiselled features, a face classic in outline, wonderfully beautiful. Her brows and lashes extremely thick and long. She was a slim young thing, very young, not more than seventeen or eighteen, Karesia judged, and as lovely of body as she was of feature, as exquisitely fair as an opening rose. Had her mother been as beautiful? Karesia wondered. . . . And her child drunk! Like any bedraggled woman of the street! The pity of it! "She is suffering for the sins of her parents," Dascome had said, and for the first time Karesia thought definitely of Dascome's wife—another ache added to her collection.

Karesia asked Mary Bliss, "Are you tired? Shall I do that now?"

The woman clung closer to the bed. "I want to stay here," she begged. "She's getting better."

Karesia brought her a footstool to sit on. Then she moved about lightly, made a place in her closet for Clarice's clothes, and selected a neglige for her use. On a chair lay the diamond-studded locket with a slender hain attached which they had removed when they undressed her; the girl had the locket next her bosom—it had not been worn for ornament. Karesia took it to her dressing table. Then a suddenly formulated desire, a swift longing to know what Dascome's wife had been like, urged her to open the locket.

It was not a woman's face she saw framed in the gold; it was Rossiter's face, faintly smiling, expressive eyes appealing yet dominant, the look that had brought her to him when she was somewhat older than Clarice but less experienced. As Rossiter had looked at her only a few moments before.

BIG MINSTREL SHOW TONIGHT

Al G. Field Galaxy of Stars at Ceramic Theatre.

"An African Barber Shop," with Nick Hufford, Harry Frankel, Harry Shunk, Jack Kennedy and Johnny Healy, is one of the features of the Thirty-eighth annual edition of the Al. G. Field Minstrel show, which comes to the Ceramic theatre Tuesday evening.

These clever comedians are known throughout the country, and their comedy keeps the audience in a constant uproar. Nick Hufford has been with the Field organization for many years, and is billed as "a loose page from the book of fun." Harry Frankel has gained fame in vaudeville and musical comedy, and Harry Shunk doubled for Heath and McIntyre in "Hello Alexander," last season. Johnny Healy is the original "Old Black Joe," and hischaracterization is one of the most appealing ever seen on the stage.

The Al. G. Field Minstrels come to East Liverpool with all the old favorites who have become famous on the minstrel stage.

Grand Opera Really Combination of Drama, Tragedy and Comedy

What is Grand Opera?

That is the question asked by thousands each year. Mainly by those who have never attended a complete performance of a lyric masterpiece. Is grand opera "a lot of noise, shouted in a foreign tongue by a bunch of Wop singers who can keep going by the week?" as one man described it. Is it highbrow entertainment, for the select few who know—or think they know something about musical technique?

Grand opera is drama, tragedy and comedy, the same as is seen in any theatre where legitimate performances of plays are presented. It is the setting of naratives based on age-old situations of love, hate, jealousy, and greed, to immortal music, which for sheer beauty, cannot be duplicated elsewhere. Itis a human, gripping, exquisitely lovely production, which combines the arts which please the eye, delight the ear and satisfy the imagination. That is grand opera.

Barriers of language fall before the perfection that is insisted upon in grand opera. It matters little what the exact words of the French or Italian opera are, when the artists so clearly portray the story that a child of ten would understand it.

It is not exclusive entertainment for the "highbrow." Do not the little cobblers, the bootblacks, the newspaper vendors throng to hear the opera? Are not the galleries of the great opera houses packed by the middle and poorer classes of every community, whose souls appreciate the beauty of the performances? And are they not just as well entertained as the gorgeously gowned matrons, the sleek men of the Diamond Horeshoe and the parquet floor? Grand opera is universal; it is the entertainment for everyone. There is no one, irrespective of station, position of mentality who does not respond to sheer beauty of scene or tone, and therefore the opera appeals to all.

Fortune Gallo, impresario of the San Carlo Grand Opera company, which is engaged for a brief local visit at the Ceramic theatre Thursday, January 15th, affords an eloquent example of the almost unlimited possibilities that exist in this country. Of Italian birth he came to the United States as an immigrant at the age of seventeen with exactly twenty-nine cents in the world. Love of music led his activities in that direction, first in association with bands and later with lyric organizations. Today the San Carlo Company, the greatest touring grand opera organization in the world, exists as a monument to his tireless efforts.

Past and present owners of Al. G. Field's Minstrels. at the Ceramic tonight.

Radium Is Restoring Health to Thousands

The wonderful curative power of Radium has been known for years. However, the benefits of this precious healthgiving substance have in the past been only within the means of persons of wealth.

Since the invention of Degnen's Radio-Active Solar Pad, any man or woman, poor or rich, can afford this treatment which offers so much relief from suffering and disease.

Degnen's Radio-Active Solar Pad is worn next to the body day and night. It pours a constant stream of radio-active energy into the system while you work, play or sleep, helping to build up weakened nerves and tissues to a strong, healthy condition. It creates a vigorous circulation of blood, thus removing congestion, which is the real cause of most diseases.

Runyon Says

Fred Merkle Is Probably Smiling. Baseball Now Wants His WISDOM. One He Was Called Game's Dunce. Here's That "Greatest" Argument. The Value of Amateur Boxing.

Copyright, 1925, International Feature Service, Inc.

BY DAMON RUNYON

FRED MERKLE may return to the big leagues as a coach. A coach is supposed to be a man of superior baseball knowledge—a wise man.

Merkle, now with Rochester, in the International League, is wanted by the New York Yankees to handle young pitchers, to direct base running and to perform the other duties assigned to a coach.

Fred Merkle, as a youngster, gained vast notoriety sixteen years ago as a sort of baseball dunce. In an important game between the New York Giants and the Chicago Cubs Merkle, then a member of the Giants, failed to touch second.

If you are too young to remember the incident your father can tell you all about it. It was the chief topic of baseball discussion at the time.

For years Merkle traveled the National League circuit with the reputation, quite undeserved, as baseball's most stupid player.

He was called "bonehead." In fact, Merkle and his play produced this term—now a common expression. To "Merkle" was to commit a dumb act.

Merkle must have undergone the keenest mental torture and humiliation all those years. The average man would have been driven into obscurity, perhaps to some rash behavior. Of course, Merkle's mistake was greatly exaggerated. The same play had been made time and again in big league baseball and gone unnoticed.

It is an unfortunate fact that mistakes is sport are often grossly magnified.

A young football player may muff a punt in a big college game and be recalled years afterward only by that one incident. An error of this sort has even been known to seriously affect a sensitive soul in later life.

SPORT IS NOT THAT IMPORTANT.

Markle, rather a thoughtful man, is perhaps smiling ironically over the Yankees' effort to secure him for his baseball wisdom, and recalling the words of Friedrich Von Logan:

"Though the mills of God grind slowly,
yet they grind exceedingly small;
Though with patience He stands waiting, with exactness grinds He all."

You can always stir up an argument in sport by an expression of opinion.

That's what makes sport interesting. Everybody has an opinion.

Mr. T. E. Higgins, of Orange, N. J., isn't a tall in accord with the opinion put forward in this column that Christy Mathewson was the greatest pitcher of all time.

Mr. Higgins says a pitcher should be judged from every angle—his endurance, number of runs earned against him, individual feats, percentage of victories.

On this basis Mr. Harding thinks Denton T. Young, called "Cy," is entitled to the distinction of being called the all-time greatest.

Many old-timers will probably agree with Mr. Higgins. "Cy" Young, long since retired from the game, but still alive, was a tremendous pitcher.

The writer long ago, musing on the scarcity of Jewish heavyweights, said he could name but three—Yale Okun, Dan Lieber and Dan Bright, the Englishman.

He forgot a fourth, Murray Gitlitz, of New Haven, a member of the Olympic team of 1924, who has turned professional. Gitlitz holds

Attempt to Force Landis to Expose Scandal 'Dope'

PRESBYTERIANS ARE VICTORS

Junior and Senior Teams Win Games From Baptists.

First Presbyterian basketball fives were victorious over the First Baptist aggregation in Sunday school league contests played last night on the First M. E. floor.

The Presbyterian Juniors had an easy time with the Baptist Juniors, winning 41 to 6, while the Presbyterians won the main game from the Baptists by the score of 25 to 11.

The game between Seniors was rough at times.

The Baptists found the Presbyterians defense hard to penetrate for the Baptists could only toss the ball in the nets three times during the contest for double pointers.

The Presbyterians took the lead at the start and held it all through the game, the first quarter ending 11 to 5.

In the second quarter the Presbyterians increased their lead, adding five more points to their tally while their opponents failed to score, the count standing 16 to 5 at the end of the first half.

During the third quarter the Presbyterians slightly increased their lead over their opponnets, leading 21 to 8 at the close of the period.

The playing in final quarter was just as rough as the other three, the Presbyterians finding the basket for four more points while their opponents was making three. Both fives were off in their chances to score from the foul line, the Baptists missing 23 out of 28 chances while the Presbyterians could not make good only five out of 19.

Mutt Cooper, the dimutive forward for the Presbyterians, was the scoring star of the game, tossing the ball in the nets six times for field goals.

Bough and Todd were the other important factors in the Presbyterians victory.

G. Mackey, Wilson, and Kittridge were the outstanding players for the First Baptists.

In the Junior contest, Feit, Wildblood, Todd and Swaney were the stars for the Presbyterian Juniors, while Parsons, Kittridge, and Fugate played the best for the Baptists.

100,000 Signatures Expected to Petition Calling Upon "Czar" of Baseball to Reveal Details to Public.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—The O'Connell-Dolan skeleton in baseball's closet was playing castanets with its knee caps today as a result of the action of George Kelly and Sammy Bohne, of the Giants and Reds, respectively, in attempting to team up with the discredited Jimmy O'Connell on a Pacific coast basketball team.

The action indicated that all is not eau de cologne in Denmark and crystallized sentiment in favor of Judge Landis making public the complete testimony in baseball's latest scandal, something he has declined to do to date.

Several minor leaguers were involved in the venture, but that is of slight consequence. Neither is the fact that an attempt was made to evade the issue by having Kelly and O'Connell play alternate games nor that O'Connell was subsequently let out by the coast management in order to save Kelly further embarrassment.

The thing that has smote the public right between the eyebrows is that Kelly was one of three players absolved of complicity in the O'Connell business and that some 15 months ago Bohne was called upon the carpet to explain a story that appeared in a Chicago publication, charging him with attempted game jugglery at the behest of gamblers. Pat Duncan also was involved in the charges. He has been wafted out of the major leagues in the last month or so, for reasons not altogether clear.

These are the men who planned to identify themselves with what John A. Heydler terms "a self-confessed fakir.". If John has his way, both will suffer suspension, even though it was only the spirit and not the letter of baseball's dignity that was flouted. But the end is not yet.

Only a few hours before this latest development of the scandal was aired, a local newspaper had started a campaign by which it was hoped the fans would force Landis' hand in the matter of the O'Connell-Dolan testimony. The publication in question is printing a petition to the judge to be signed by fans who wish to know about the matter. The petition reads in part:

"As a baseball fan who supports the game at the box office, I feel that I am entitled to all the evidence you may have discovered in the Dolan-O'Connell bribery scandal. I realize that you may be withholding some of the evidence in order to further your investigations into the matter but believe that the time has come when all the testimony pretaining to the scandal be laid before the public."

Those behind the campaign frankly state that they expect to obtain 100,000 signatures, no less, to the petition.

It may or may not, however, have an effect on Landis' policy of dignified silence, the judge being a man of granite, right or wrong. But it would seem to indicate the temper of the public provided that uncertain medium of sentiment responds in the manner expected.

If the public does respond, it will indicate that it is far from satisfied that Judge Landis was justified in blacklisting Cozy Dolan on O'Connell's testimony and giving absolution to Kelly, Frank Frisch and Ross Young, charged by the same man with having guilty knowledge of the attempted bribery.

NURMI READY TO HIT BOARDS

New Records Anticipated in Tonight's Races.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—Paavo Nurmi, featuring the finest set of running legs in the history of athletics, will display his flying shanks before the American public for the first time tonight at Madison Square Garden in what has been tremed "the race of the century." Just what race is referred to is not made clear. Nurmi will go to the post in two races, a mile and five thousand metre event, and in each he will take on the greatest runners this side of the Atlantic.

He will be a lone Finn against the flower of America's athletic colony, yet the man who won four races at the Paris olympics will have the crowd with him. The pro-Nurmi sentiment has been fostered not only on account of his great ability but because the cards seem stacked against him. He will find the board floor tracks just as difficult to negotiate as did Josef Guillemot, the Frenchman, several years ago.

He will also find Willia Ritola, a fellow countryman, waiting for the gun in the five thousand metre race but not with the extended hand of friendship. The compatriots are bitter enemies.

On form alone, Nurmi would be an odds—on favorite to win both events. But with the existing conditions, the critics give Ritola better than an outside chance to defeat Nurmi at five thousand metres and also look for the rejuvenated Joie Ray to give the Finn the race of his life at the mile. Jimmy Connolly, Lloyd Hahn, Walter Higgins, Leo Larrivee and Lowendahl, a second rate field, make up the rest of the field in this race.

Nurmi has been declared to be in excellent condition for his American debut and has requested that special timers be placed at 1,500 metres and three miles during the two races. This indicates that he hopes to break no less than four records during the evening.

Will Devote Entire Time to Gym Classes and Athletic Teams

Move Made by Board of Education to Promote Physical Program as Well as Mental; Plan Expected to Boost Sports in General.

O. V. Boone, of Hookstown, former New Castle high school sports mentor, who, since the fall of 1923 has been coaching East Liverpool scholastic squads, will be placed in charge of all school athletics here as director of physical education, beginning with the second semester which starts the latter part of the month.

His appointment was made by members of the board of education last night.

Up until the present time, Mr. Boone has been coaching athletic squads at the local school and, in addition, instructing students in scholastic work.

Under the new order he will drop his work as class instructor and devote all his time to the promotion of physicial education.

Superintendent of Schools F. P. Geiger was instructed by the school board to secure another teacher who will take Mr. Boone's place in the class rooms.

Tentative plans of the board of education call for the organization, by Mr. Boone and school officials, of classes in gymnasium work, where physicial education will share attention with the mental. These classes will be for both girls and boys and undoubtedly will call for as much attention from the student as his regular course of studies.

Under the new plan, Boone will also keep a watchful eye on the upper grades, encouraging athletics among the future high school students. His advice will be sought in the organiztion of football, baseball basketball and other teams in grades. This method is expected to improve high school athletics thru the preparation of potential stars of the gridiron or cage while they are still in the grade departments.

O. V. Boone.

In the opinion of members of the board of education the gymnasium, under present conditions, is practically useless, excepting for basketball. They asserted that it should be used more for balancing of physical development with mental instruction. In order to put into effect their plans it was necessary to engage a full time instructor.

Boone first took charge of the football squad in the fall of 1923 after joining the local school staff. He later handled the basketball and other squads. He continued with a similar program at the start of the 1924 term, handling both football and basketball squads.

RACE SCHEDULE STILL SECRET

Atlanta and Aurora, Ill., May Land Dates, However.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 6.—Aurora, Ill., and Atlanta will be granted racing dates in the Grand Circuit, when the stewards announce their schedules, it was authoritatively learned today. Atlanta will probably see the trotters and pacers for one week, beginning October 12, while Aurora may be given dates between Columbus and Kalamazoo. The schedule is still a carefully guarded secret, and may not be announced today.

A veil of secrecy was also thrown about the proposed changes in the rules, which would provide for claiming races in the slower classes, classification of horses upon the "win race" basis, rather than time as at present, and registration of trotters and pacers in a manner similar to that now used for running horses. Prediction was made, however, that probably all of these innovations, marking radical changes in the Grand Circuit rules, would be adopted.

MEEHAN ACCEPTS NEW YORK OFFER

NEW YORK, Jan. 6—Although John F. "Chick" Meehan, Syracuse football coach, is said to have been in receipt of offers from Nebraska and Southern California, a definite report was in circulation today that he had accepted the offer of New York university and had even gone so far as to lease a house for his family on University Heights, this city.

Notification to this effect is said to have been wired Harry Sthuhldreher, all-American quarterback at Notre Dame, and other candidates for the post, made vacant by the resignation of Tom Thorp.

two decisions over his contemporary of the amateurs, Yale Okun.

Gitlitz showed considerable promise as an amateur. The writer has not seen him in action since he turned professional. He is twenty-three years old, weighs around 175 pounds and is six feet tall. He should get much heavier.

Gitlitz's record would indicate that he hasn't had much luck as a professional so far. He has had two six-round bouts and lost the decisions in both—one to Fred Mace, the other to Al. Rood.

However, early defeats may be more profitable than victories to a youngster. They may teach him a certain humility, may prevent him from getting "swelled head" over his prowess.

Gitlitz as the writer recalls him from the amateurs, has plenty of natural ability. With proper experience he should become a real good fighter,

Speaking of amateur boxing, Mr. Charles L. Ornstein, of Baltimore, calls attention to the fact that the National Amateur Athletic Union's junior boxing championships will be held in that city March 11 and 12.

This is a most important torunament in amateur circles. It will draw contestants from Detroit, New York, Boston, New Haven, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, St. Louis, New Orelans, Buffalo and Cleveland. There will be bouts in every class.

Baltimore had its first experience with amateur boxing three years ago, when the South Atlantic A. A. U. championships were held there. For three nights One Hundred and Fourth Medical Regiment Armory was packed.

The South Atlantic A. A. U. includes Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, and the District of Columbia. The last tournament produced Sergeant Lester Mayle, heavyweight, and Adolph Lefkowitch, middleweight, who were members of the Olympic team with Gitlitz.

In New York amateur boxing has gradually taken hold of public pugilistic interest, until now the tournament held at Madison Square Garden are always well attended.

The New York "ringworms" have learned that they see more actual fighting in one night at an amateur tournament than in a month of professional boxing.

Many of the best known and most promising professionals of the day came from the New York amateur tournaments, among them Paul Berlenbach and Larry Estridge, whose recent battle drew over $50,000 in the Garden. A couple of years ago these young fellows often apeared in the same ring for prizes.

You cannot discount the value of experience in the amateur bouts to a young boxer.

He meets all varieties of pugilistic style. It is a great training school.

A successful amateur does not always make a successful professional but the writer is inclined to think the amateur schooled boxer has the same advantage over the ordinary youngster starting out in pugilistic professional life as the collegian over the boy without any education.

The growth of amateur boxing is such that the writer will not be surprised if in the next ten years ALL the professional champions will have come from the amateur tournaments.

TOWNSHIPS SEEK HIGHWAY FUNDS

Beaver county commissioners will be called upon soon to act on requests for road improvement funds as a result of the passage of the bond issue for roads and bridges last November.

Several sections of the county have announced that funds will be sought for improvements and the number of requests will likely be increased before the advent of spring.

Aid Society Meeting.

Ladies Aid society of the Boyce Methodist Episcopal church will meet this evening with Mrs. Forest Harmon at her home in Island avenue. Mrs. Clarence Bailey will assist the hostess.

Plants Resume.

To Enforce Auto Law.

State police have been instructed to arrest automobile owners who operate their cars without having secured new licenses. The state highway department has turned down requests for a time extension and directed that arrests be made if the law is violated.

DR. HUMPHREYS' "77" BEST FOR COLDS GRIP INFLUENZA

"Pancakes and Plenty Of Them;" Popular American Slogan

"Pancakes And Plenty of Them."

This is an American slogan that seems to become more and more popular every year, judging from the number of pancakes consumed in this country. According to the Aunt Jemima Mills Company, one of the largest manufacturers of pancake flour, the sales last year on their brand alone provided the public with 500,000,000 pancakes, figuring 24 to the package.

Pancakes are no longer seasonal, either, according to Aunt Jemima. Buckwheat Cakes still reach the height of popularity in winter, but other pancakes are eaten the year round. There is also a tendency to serve pancakes at other meals than breakfast. Lunch, supper and "between meals" all come in for a share. Even as a dessert, pancakes, with plenty of syrup, are a growing favorite.

The uniformly good results to be obtained, and the ease and simplicity of preparing pancakes from ready mixed, self-rising flour, largely accounts for the increase, according to Aunt Jemima.

MORRISTOWN—William Walker, local farmer, is mourning the loss of his Airdale puppy, along with 700 feet of lumber. The dog, it is thought, submitted to capture, without sounding an alarm, when thieves took the lumber.

Dangerous Coughs Go Quickly With Old-Time Pine-Tar Honey

Perhaps the best remedy ever discovered for a persistent cough that has hung on and on, and which may develop into a more serious condition, is that old-time tried and proved medicine that our parents and grandparents relied on—Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar Honey. The prompt relief is almost magical, and a day's use will often break up a bad cough or chest cold entirely. Doctors say the pine tar quickly loosens and removes the phlegm and congestion which are the direct cause of the cough, also healing soreness, while the honey both soothes irritation and gives a pleasant taste.

But be sure you get the genuine and original Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar Honey, and no other. There have been many imitations, but the original is still the best, as it is scientifically compounded of just the right proportions of pine-tar, honey and other healing ingredients which the best doctors have found to aid in quick relief. For coughs, chest colds, bronchitis and almost every other throat irritation, including children's spasmodic croup. Often stops a severe cough overnight. Dr. Bell's is only 30c at any good druggists.

That Was the Life of Mrs. Hollister Until she Began Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Wyandotte, Michigan. — "After my baby was born I did not do my own work for six months and could hardly take care of my own baby. I always had a pain in my right side and it was so bad I was getting round shoulders. I would feel well one day and then feel so bad for three or four days that I would be in bed. One Sunday my mother came to see how I was, and she said a friend told her to tell me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So the next day I got a bottle and before it was half taken I got relief. After I was well again I went to the doctor and he asked me how I was getting along. I told him I was taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and he said it did not hurt any one to take it. I am always recommending the Vegetable Compound to others and I always have a bottle of it on hand."—Mrs. HENRY HOLLISTER, R. F. D. No. 1, Box 7, Wyandotte, Mich.

NO STREET CAR FARE BOOST

TARIFF STANDS ALTHO TRACTION OWNERS WIN SUPREME COURT FIGHT

Officials Say Victory Over Wellsville in Highest Federal Tribunal, Which Upholds Zone Collection System, Will Have no Immediate Effect in East Liverpool District.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION MAY REGULATE INTRASTATE FARES

Hubbard as Well as Wellsville Involved in Legal Battle Which Began in November, 1921, When Federal Board Approved State Line, Kountz Avenue and Wooster Zones.

The Steubenville, East Liverpool and Beaver Valley Traction company's victory in the United States supreme court at Washington yesterday over the city of Wellsville on the so-called "zone system" of collecting car fares will have no immediate effect in the district, officials of the company declared today.

J. H. Maxwell, president, who expects an official copy today of the ruling in which the highest tribunal in the land upheld the government's contention that the interstate commerce commission has authority to regulate the intrastate rates of electric railways doing an interstate business, expressed the opinion after reading press reports that it would result in no change in the present tariffs.

Under the decision, which applies to Hubbard, Ohio, as well as Wellsville, for that city had brought suit against the Pennsylvania and Ohio Power and Light company, operators of a traction line there, the zone system, which became effective Christmas day, 1921, on the State Line-Wooster division of the Steubenville, East Liverpool and Beaver Valley Traction company's road, and which was knocked out by a federal court injunction order about a month later, is approved.

Reversal of Lower Court.

The zone system provided for a 15-cent fare between the Ohio-Pennsylvania border and Wooster's the westerly corporate limit of Wellsville. Three five-cent zones were established—State line to Diamond, Diamond to Kountz avenue and Kountz avenue to Wooster's stop, Wellsville.

Since the launching of the Wellsville fight against the zone system, the fare controversy was settled in the East Liverpool-Wellsville district. As a result, a 10-cent fare is now effective on the East Liverpool-Wellsville division, a 7-cent fare within the City of East Liverpool and a 5-cent fare within the corporate limits of Wellsville. A 10-cent fare for the through ride on the Chester division was previously in effect.

The supreme court decision was a reversal of the opinion rendered in the United States courts for the northern district of Ohio, but Associate Justice James C. McReynolds announced a minority opinion in line with the ruling of the lower court.

One Jurist Dissents.

The two Ohio municipalities brought action to have enjoined and set aside the order of the interstate commerce commission, which sought to bring the

ISAAC BROWN ROTARY GUEST

Steubenville Insurance Superintendent Speaks at Noon Meet.

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

This was the thought emphasized by Isaac Brown, Steubenville, district superintendent of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, in a health talk delivered at the noon-day luncheon of the Rotary club at the Y. M. C. A. today.

Mr. Brown, whose subject was "Working for Dear Life," discussed ways and means of keeping health without the assistance of a physician. He pointed out that since the Metropolitan company launched its welfare work, the average life of the policyholders has been increased eight and one-half years.

To illustrate his talk he used a one-reel motion picture, showing the necessity of frequent examinations and inspections of machinery, but very seldom, he declared, does the average person think of submitting himself to a physical examination.

"If a young person is given the right start in life there is no reason why he should not live to be a hundred years old," he said.

About 50 members of the club attended the meeting, which was in charge of President C. R. Boyce. Short talks were made by Frank Wehner, J. D. Thompson, Frederick Herche, Malcolm Thompson and others.

The speaker was introduced by G. Bendheim, Sixth street shoe dealer. D. M. Ogilvie will be chairman of next Tuesday's meeting.

WARREN MAY BE NAMED TO FILL HARLAN STONE'S CABINET PLACE

Detroit Man Favorite for Attorney General's Post.

OTHERS IN RACE

Coolidge Appoints New Yorker on Court Bench.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—President Coolidge today was facing the task of filling the fourth vacancy that has occurred in his cabinet since he came to the White House, and for the second time it is the attorney generalship.

Before him were a score of names from which to select the man who will succeed Harlan Fiske Stone in conducting the government's legal business. Announcement of his choice probably will not be made until the senate has acted upon Stone's nomination to the supreme bench, but that action is expected today or tomorrow.

The field of those whom the president has under serious consideration, it is said, has narrowed down to five with perhaps the leading figure that of Charles Beecher Warren of Detroit, former ambassador to Japan and Mexico, participant in the conference that resulted in the recognition of Mexico, chairman of the rules committee of the Cleveland Republican national convention, and nationally prominent lawyer.

Outcome In Doubt As Senate Awaits Vote On Coolidge Veto Of Postal Salary Bill

BRITAIN SEEKS GOLD STANDARD

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Negotiations looking to the re-establishment of the bringing the pound sterling back to par gold standard for british currency and have been started in New York by Sir Montague Norman, governor of the Bank of England, according to official information received by the government today.

Administration Leaders Rally Forces to Sustain White House Declaration That no Pay Boost Can be Allowed Without Necessary Revenue.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The Coolidge administration's policy of drastic economy was at issue in the senate today with a vote pending on the president's veto of the postal salary bill.

Administration leaders rallied their forces to save the president from being overridden and to sustain his declaration that no postal pay increases can be allowed without a direct provision for raising the necessary revenue. The administration was literally fighting with its "back to the wall" as its spokesmen have conceded the bill will be enacted by the house if the senate overrides the president.

A direct vote on the veto will be reached by the senate at 4 o'clock this afternoon under an unanimous consent agreement. The outcome is still in doubt. Supporters of the pay bill were three votes short of the required two thirds. Majority when they defeated an administration effort to recommit the bill to the Senate Postoffice committee.

Break in Administration Ranks.

On the test vote, 19 Republicans, including such administration spokesmen as Senators Reed, Republican of Pennsylvania, and Wadsworth, Republican of New York, opposed the president's viewpoint. Despite this big break in the administration ranks, the bill was not assured of passage. Its advocates, however, maintained they would win enough additional votes on the final roll call to override the veto.

Both Republican and Democratic senators attacked the president's posotion on the pay bill. They contended the bill should be acted upon on its own merits and pointed out that the president himself was now in favor of the postal wage increase.

"The only issue here," said Senator Hiram W. Johnson, Republican of California, "is whether the United States is big enough, generous enough

4,300 Auto Owners Must Obtain Tags Within 10 Days

Approximately 4,300 East Liverpool automobile owners must obtain their 1925 license plates within the next 10 days if they expect to drive their cars after January 20th.

According to Deputy Automobile Registrar, J. S. Hilbert, less than 700 sets of the new plates have been distributed here. Of this number 558 are for pleasure cars and the remainder for trucks.

Secretary of State Thad Brown has announced that there will be positively no time extension allowed after January 20th.

But one set of tags, issued here, has been returned to the local registrar for replacement. This set was issued to a farmer residing near the Beil School house. Deputy Hilbert has made requisition to the Secretary of State for substitute tags.

Motorists are urged to varnish their tags after attaching them to the car in order to protect the paint which on some tags is said to be defective.

Bandit Kills Ohio Woman When She Rejects Money Demand

COLUMBUS, Jan. 6.—Police are hunting for the unknown bandit who murdered Mrs. Ruth Kendrick, 30, here early today. The assassin fired a bullet through her chest when she rejected his demand for money shortly after midnight, it was claimed. The bullet passed through her body and Mrs. Kendrick died a short time afterward in Grant hospital.

The shooting occurred in front of Mrs. Kendrick's home in South Grant avenue upon her return from a taxicab trip about the city. After being questioned concerning the shooting, the police released W. F. Mitchell, Taxi driver, in whose machine Mrs. Kendrick had been riding, Fred Whitmer and Sam Clark, all of this city.

Authorities said Mrs. Kendrick first accused Whitmer of shooting her, but later denied he was the man. Police said Whitmer and a brother had been drinking with Mrs. Kendrick at Clark's home last night.

Two Arrests Made As Midland Squad Raids Five Places

Beaver county detectives, assisted by three members of the State Constabulary and the Midland police raided five places, suspected of liquor violations in Midland, yesterday afternoon, making two arrests and confiscating about a gallon and a half of moonshine liquor.

Both of the prisoners were foreign women, residing at 625 Midland avenue and 632 Penn avenue. They were charged with the illegal possession of intoxicating liquors and were held under $2,000 bail when arraigned before Justice Addison Courtney at West Bridgewater today.

The raid was directed by County Detective Dan Baker, assisted by his assistant, William A. Davidson and Constable B. F. Kidd. Armed with warrants for five places, the raiders found liquor in but two of them. The raids were conducted simultaneously.

JASON H. BROOKES RE-ELECTED BOARD OF EDUCATION PRESIDENT AT ANNUAL RE-ORGANIZATION MEETING

D. F. White is Vice-President and Emmett Gaston, Secretary-treasurer — Manual Training and Domestic Science Discussed.

Attorney Jason H. Brookes was unanimously re-elected president of the board of education at a re-organization meeting in the high school building last evening.

D. F. White was re-elected vice president, while Emmett Gaston was named secretary-treasurer for a term of two years. Mr. Gaston's salary was increased from $900 to $925 per year, in order to cover the cost of his surety bond.

The board discussed the re-establishment of courses in manual training and domestic science in the high school, beginning with the fall term. The building and grounds committee, consisting of members Wilhelm, Weaver and White, was authorized to devise a plan whereby three unoccupied rooms in the Central school building might be used for high school class work next year.

Expect Record Freshman Class.

According to figures gathered by the board, approximately $17,000 additional will be available for school work next year. This estimate is based upon the tax valuation and the present school board millage. With this money in prospect, it is thought sufficient funds will be available in the spring to re-establish manual training and domestic science.

Miss Florence Updegraff, high school principal, warned the school board in a communication that the high school building would be unable to accommodate the high school enrollment next year if the incoming Freshman class was as large as last years. Indications are that the Freshman class entering high school next fall will be a record breaker.

Rooms in the high school building, formerly used in the instruction of manual training and domestic science are now being used for class purposes. With the re-establishment of these courses in the schools, less room will be available.

Miss Updegraff declared that the three vacant rooms in the Central building might be used for academic work and a plan worked out whereby no students would be required to go from one building to the other except during the noon-hour recess.

As the rooms in the high school are specially fitted for manual training and domestic science work, it was felt that these departments should be utilized when the courses are re-established.

The board granted high school students from Madison township a time

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION MAY REGULATE INTRASTATE FARES

The Steubenville, East Liverpool and Beaver Valley Traction company's victory in the United States supreme court at Washington yesterday over the city of Wellsville on the so-called "zone system" of collecting car fares will have no immediate effect in the district, officials of the company declared today.

Reversal of Lower Court.

The zone system provided for a 15-cent fare between the Ohio-Pennsylvania border and Wooster's the westerly corporate limit of Wellsville. Three five-cent zones were established—State line to Diamond, Diamond to Kountz avenue and Kountz avenue to Wooster's stop, Wellsville.

As a result, a 10-cent fare is now effective on the East Liverpool-Wellsville division, a 7-cent fare within the City of East Liverpool and a 5-cent fare within the corporate limits of Wellsville. ISAAC BROWN ROTARY GUEST

Steubenville Insurance Superintendent Speaks at Noon Meet.

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

This was the thought emphasized by Isaac Brown, Steubenville, district superintendent of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, in a health talk delivered at the noon-day luncheon of the Rotary club at the Y. M. C. A. today.

Mr. Brown, whose subject was "Working for Dear Life," discussed ways and means of keeping health without the assistance of a physician. He pointed out that since the Metropolitan company launched its welfare work, the average life of the policyholders has been increased eight and one-half years.

To illustrate his talk he used a one-reel motion picture, showing the necessity of frequent examinations and inspections of machinery, but very seldom, he declared, does the average person think of submitting himself to a physical examination.

"If a young person is given the right start in life there is no reason why he should not live to be a hundred years old," he said.

About 50 members of the club attended the meeting, which was in charge of President C. R. Boyce. Short talks were made by Frank Wehner, J. D. Thompson, Frederick Herche, Malcolm Thompson and others.

The speaker was introduced by G. Bendheim, Sixth street shoe dealer. D. M. Ogilvie will be chairman of next Tuesday's meeting.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 6. — Joliet's gray walls that loomed in the offing for 35 years had no depressing effect upon Mrs. Elsie Sweetin, convicted poisoner of her husband, Wilford, when she stopped in St. Louis for 20 minutes between trains today on the way to the penitentiary in custody of Sheriff Grant Holcomb of Mont Vernon.

Dressed in her "Sunday best" she laughed and chatted with reporters who constituted a reception committee.

WARREN MAY BE NAMED TO FILL HARLAN STONE'S CABINET PLACE

Detroit Man Favorite for Attorney General's Post.

OTHERS IN RACE

Coolidge Appoints New Yorker on Court Bench.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—President Coolidge today was facing the task of filling the fourth vacancy that has occurred in his cabinet since he came to the White House, and for the second time it is the attorney generalship.

Before him were a score of names from which to select the man who will succeed Harlan Fiske Stone in conducting the government's legal business. Announcement of his choice probably will not be made until the senate has acted upon Stone's nomination to the supreme bench, but that action is expected today or tomorrow.

The field of those whom the president has under serious consideration, it is said, has narrowed down to five with perhaps the leading figure that of Charles Beecher Warren of Detroit, former ambassador to Japan and Mexico, participant in the conference that resulted in the recognition of Mexico, chairman of the rules committee of the Cleveland Republican national convention, and nationally prominent lawyer.

Union Secretary Shot to Death in Strike of Miners

PITTSTON, Pa., Jan 6.—Bloodshed marked the strike of the 12,000 miners of the Pennsylvania Coal company today when Sam Pace, 31, secretary of a local union, was shot to death as he returned home here after attending a meeting of the miners' union, according to police. Residents in the neighborhood who heard the shots rushed into the street in time to see two men running away. Pace was found dead in the snow with 14 bullets in his body. Pace is a World war veteran and one of the miners on strike in this district for more than four weeks.

Outcome In Doubt As Senate Awaits Vote On Coolidge Veto Of Postal Salary Bill

Administration Leaders Rally Forces to Sustain White House Declaration That no Pay Boost Can be Allowed Without Necessary Revenue.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The Coolidge administration's policy of drastic economy was at issue in the senate today with a vote pending on the president's veto of the postal salary bill.

Administration leaders rallied their forces to save the president from being overridden and to sustain his declaration that no postal pay increases can be allowed without a direct provision for raising the necessary revenue. The administration was literally fighting with its "back to the wall" as its spokesmen have conceded the bill will be enacted by the house if the senate overrides the president.

A direct vote on the veto will be reached by the senate at 4 o'clock this afternoon under an unanimous consent agreement. The outcome is still in doubt. Supporters of the pay bill were three votes short of the required two thirds. Majority when they defeated an administration effort to recommit the bill to the Senate Postoffice committee.

Break in Administration Ranks.

On the test vote, 19 Republicans, including such administration spokesmen as Senators Reed, Republican of Pennsylvania, and Wadsworth, Republican of New York, opposed the president's viewpoint. Despite this big break in the administration ranks, the bill was not assured of passage. Its advocates, however, maintained they would win enough additional votes on the final roll call to override the veto.

Both Republican and Democratic senators attacked the president's position on the pay bill. They contended the bill should be acted upon on its own merits and pointed out that the president himself was now in favor of the postal wage increase.

"The only issue here," said Senator Hiram W. Johnson, Republican of California, "is whether the United States is big enough, generous enough

Appeals are Made To Italy's King to Act as Crisis Looms

LONDON, Jan. 6—Appeals were being made to King Victor Emmanuel III, as guardian of the nation's constitutional rights, to take steps to restore civil liberty throughout Italy, according to private advices received here.

Chevelters of St. Annansiata, who include Ziolitty, Orlando, Bonomi, Sporza, and Diaz, have intimated to the King that they feel the time has come for him to act.

It is understood that the King, however, is fearful that any effort of the throne to force Premier Mussolini to give up his power would result in serious conflicts, particularly in Northern Italy, between Facists and Regular troops.

4,300 Auto Owners Must Obtain Tags Within 10 Days

Approximately 4,300 East Liverpool automobile owners must obtain their 1925 license plates within the next 10 days if they expect to drive their cars after January 20th.

According to Deputy Automobile Registrar, J. S. Hilbert, less than 700 sets of the new plates have been distributed here. Of this number 558 are for pleasure cars and the remainder for trucks.

Secretary of State Thad Brown has announced that there will be positively no time extension allowed after January 20th.

But one set of tags, issued here, has been returned to the local registrar for replacement. This set was issued to a farmer residing near the Boil School house. Deputy Hilbert has made requisition to the Secretary of State for substitute tags.

Motorists are urged to varnish their tags after attaching them to the car in order to protect the paint which on some tags is said to be defective.

Bandit Kills Ohio Woman When She Rejects Money Demand

COLUMBUS, Jan. 6.—Police are hunting for the unknown bandit who murdered Mrs. Ruth Kendrick, 30, here early today. The assassin fired a bullet through her chest when she rejected his demand for money shortly after midnight, it was claimed. The bullet passed through her body and Mrs. Kendrick died a short time afterward in Grant hospital.

The shooting occurred in front of Mrs. Kendrick's home in South Grant avenue upon her return from a taxicab trip about the city. After being questioned concerning the shooting, the police released W. F. Mitchell, Taxi driver, in whose machine Mrs. Kendrick had been riding, Fred Whitmer and Sam Clark, all of this city.

Authorities said Mrs. Kendrick first accused Whitmer of shooting her, but later denied he was the man. Police said Whitmer and a brother had been drinking with Mrs. Kendrick at Clark's home last night.

Unable to pay his fine of $2,000 assessed upon him for violation of the Crabbe act, Daum Appell, of the Camp Ground road, was taken to the county jail at Lisbon, Tuesday morning, by Sheriff George Wright and Deputy Lawrence Kindsvatter.

Local authorities offered to release Appell Monday night upon payment of $500 of his fine, with the provision that he settle the remainder on the installment plan, but the prisoner said he had no funds. Mayor Brown ordered the destruction of the 25-gallon still and other equipment seized by the raiders.

Both of the prisoners were foreign women, residing at 625 Midland avenue and 632 Penn avenue. They were charged with the illegal possession of intoxicating liquors and were held under $2,000 bail when arraigned before Justice Addison Courtney at West Bridgewater today.

JASON H. BROOKES RE-ELECTED BOARD OF EDUCATION PRESIDENT AT ANNUAL RE-ORGANIZATION MEETING

D. F. White is Vice-President and Emmett Gaston, Secretary-treasurer — Manual Training and Domestic Science Discussed.

Attorney Jason H. Brookes was unanimously re-elected president of the board of education at a re-organization meeting in the high school building last evening.

D. F. White was re-elected vice president, while Emmett Gaston was named secretary-treasurer for a term of two years. Mr. Gaston's salary was increased from $900 to $925 per year, in order to cover the cost of his surety bond.

The board discussed the re-establishment of courses in manual training and domestic science in the high school, beginning with the fall term. The Building and grounds committee, consisting of members Wilhelm, Weaver and White, was authorized to devise a plan whereby three unoccupied rooms in the Central school building might be used for high school class work next year.

Expect Record Freshman Class.

According to figures gathered by the board, approximately $17,000 additional will be available for school work next year. This estimate is based upon the tax valuation and the present school board millage. With this money in prospect, it is thought sufficient funds will be available in the spring to re-establish manual training and domestic science.

Miss Florence Updegraff, high school principal, warned the school board in a communication that the high school building would be unable to accommodate the high school enrollment next year if the incoming Freshman class was as large as last years. Indications are that the Freshman class entering high school next fall will be a record breaker.

Rooms in the high school building, formerly used in the instruction of manual training and domestic science are now being used for class purposes. With the re-establishment of these courses in the schools, less room will be available.

Miss Updegraff declared that the three vacant rooms in the Central building might be used for academic work and a plan worked out whereby no students would be required to go from one building to the other except during the noon-hour recess.

As the rooms in the high school are specially fitted for manual training and domestic science work, it was felt that these departments should be utilized when the courses are re-established.

The board granted high school students from Madison township a time

DR. W. F. RITTMAN TO SPEAK HERE

Carnegie Tech Man Will be Guest of Rotarians.

Dr. Walter F. Rittman, head of the commercial engineering department at the Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh, will address members of the Rotary club at the weekly noon-day luncheon at the Y. M. C. A. on Tuesday, January 13. He will discuss the Dawes plan.

Dr. Rittman was formerly consulting engineer to the United States government and now is consulting engineer to the state of Pennsylvania. His work in the engineering field has stamped him as a national figure.

T. Stewart Brush was associated with Mr. Rittman in an engineering job at Tulsa, Oklahoma, for about 18 months, several years ago.

The speaker will divide his talk relative to the Dawes plan under three heads, first, the political situation in Europe, more particularly England, France and Germany, which made the plan possible; second, what the Dawes plan is and comprehends, and third, what will be the probable result of the Dawes plan on the economic and business life of the various countries involved.

interstate rates of the electric railways into line with their interstate rates, "so the discrimination against interstate business would cease."

Jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission over the intrastate rates of such carriers was denied by the municipalities, and the district court granted an injunction on the ground that the commission had no power to regulate intrastate rates on electric railways, except in cases where the interurban road was a part of a general steam railroad or engaged generally in the freight business.

"The question," the supreme court decided, "is the construction of the act to regulate commerce, and we have reached the conclusion that the lower court was wrong. That the commission has the power to regulate interurban railways as they affect interstate business it is unnecessary to pass upon."

"This court has held," said Justice McReynolds in his minority decision, "that the interstate commerce commission has no authority over street railways. By the same line of reasoning it has no authority over these carriers. Congress has had the opportunity if it wanted to do so to say in plain language that the power is extended to control of these. It had not done so."

History of Case.

A summary of the case follows:

In November, 1921, a little more than three years ago, the fare on the main line was five cents under the Wellsville franchise. Of the Steubenville, East Liverpool and Beaver Valley Traction Co.

The company, operating, it was said, at a loss, decided upon a three-zone system of collection between Wooster's and the state line.

The application was filed with the interstate commerce commission and at a hearing held in Columbus at which representatives of the car company and the city were present, the interstate commerce commission approved the fare increase under the zone system.

A bill in equity asking an injunction to restrain the traction company from making effective the zone system of fare collection was filed in federal court in Cleveland on December 14, 1921, by Attorney Charles Boyd, then city solicitor of Wellsville.

The federal court granted a temporary restraining order.

This was followed by a motion, filed by the traction company and the interstate commerce commission, asking that the city's petition be dismissed.

On January 1, 1922, Attorney James E. O'Grady became city solicitor of Wellsville and continued the case.

On November 19 and 20, 1922, the case was called for a hearing in federal court in Toledo before Judges Westenhaver, Killitts and Donohue, having been transferred from Cleveland.

New Ordinances Enacted.

Solicitor J. E. O'Grady represented the city of Wellsville in the Toledo court. There the temporary order granted during the regime of Solicitor Boyd was made permanent.

Then the interstate commerce commission and the traction company carried the case to the United States supreme court in Washington and hearings were held within the last six months. The city was represented in the supreme court by Attorney George D. Ingram, who became Wellsville's solicitor on January 1, 1924. The court upheld the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission and its authority to grant the car company power to operate under a three-zone system.

In the meantime, however, new ordinances drawn up by the city enabled the car company to collect 10 cents for a ride to East Liverpool, the fare that exists at the present time.

HOW TO END BLADDER TROUBLE

Remarkable results in quickly clearing up long-standing cases of bladder trouble and weak kidneys are being obtained with a remarkable remedy originally compounded many years ago by a famous Holland chemist. It goes direct to the overworked and congested kidneys and bladder, and tones them up and restores them to normal working order often in 24 hours. Physicians have known its value for years, but it is only recently that the genuine imported oil has been put up in easy-to take, tasteless capsule form, under the name of Red Mill Haarlem Oil. "Be it further resolved, That an engrossed copy of this resolution be forwarded to the bereaved family by the clerk of the senate, and that as a particular mark of respect to the memory of Honorable William Vincent Blake the senate shall now stand adjourned until Tuesday."

Bills in Hopper.

Nine bills and a joint resolution proposing an amendment to the state constitution were in the house hopper when the state legislature reconvened here this morning. No bills have been introduced in the senate.

The senate and house met in joint session at 10 a. m. today in the house chamber and canvassed the vote cast in Ohio at the election last November, verifying the result as previously officially announced by Secretary of State Brown. Another joint session will be held this afternoon when consideration will be given to the proposal that a new state office building be erected.

Proposed Legislation.

The house bills, introduced late Monday are:

By Representative Tallentire, Hamilton county, providing that chartered cities may by vote of the people fix their own tax limitations, and provides, also, for a complete budget system of municipal receipts and expenditures; by Wise, Summit, making Armistice Day (November 11) a legal holiday; Meyers, Lucus, providing for an angler's license measure with an annual fee of 50 cents; Rep. Madison, providing life imprisonment for robbery, unless mercy is recommended by jury or accused pleads guilty when sentence may be fixed at 5 to 30 years imprisonment; Rea, providing life imprisonment for assault with intent to kill, or commit robbery, or rape unless jury recommends mercy, or accused pleads guilty, when sentence may be fixed at 5 to 30 years; Mrs. Vanwye, Hamilson, exempting reasearch workers of state universities from civil service; Dempsey, Cuyahoga, providing for re-organization of cemetery associations; Mrs. Clapp, Cuyahoga, Extending to inmates of private children's homes the benefits of public school education; Brown, Champaign, amending county ditch laws, relative to cleaning up and repairing ditches.

Representative Lipp, Hamilton, offered a house joint resolution providing for an amendment to the state constitution, authorizing assessing of the entire cost of public improvements against owners of abutting property. The present law limits such assessment to 50 per cent. of the cost of improvement.

Drunks Head List.

Drunks headed the list for arrests the total being 410. Illegal possession of intoxicating liquors was next with 199, selling intoxicating liquors, 13; transportating intoxicating liquors, 10 and furnishing intoxicating liquors, 7, a grand total of 159 liquor violations. Other arrests included gambling, 91; suspicious persons, 53; disorderly conduct, 40; assault, 37; operating automobile while intoxicated, 31; violating traffic ordinance, 29; reckless driving, 28; fighting, 28; drunk and disorderly conduct. 22; breaking and entering, 21; loitering in disorderly house, 14; trespassing on railroad property, 12; permitting gambling, 13. But one arrest was made for murder.

In a move to eliminate traffic hazards the chief recommends the installation of 18 automatic safety street lights in the business district.

"While our report for the past year will show an increase in the number of arrests as compared to the previous year, our city is more orderly and law-abiding than most communities of a similar size," the chief says. "When you consider the size of our police department we have not had many felonies, indicating that every man is on the job.

Collections in Mayor Brown's office for the year established a new high record, the chief executive's report indicates. Fines and license fees totaled $26,673.27, an average of $2,222.77 per month. During December, $1,584.80 was collected. All of this came in, however, on city cases. The biggest month of the year was in July, when $3,062.74 was reported.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—The stock market staged an impressive comeback in the early trading today.

Hesitating for only a short period to absorb the small volume of selling orders which had accumulated since the close of Monday's session, the whole market was once more in the grip of a bull movement in which the railroad, motor, oil, equipment and industrial shares moved forward vigorously.

Before the end of the first half hour American car and foundry had recovered six points, general electric 5, radio corporation 3, United States Steel 2 and a score of active stocks a point or less. New York Central resumed its spectacular advance and sold above 124 for the first time since 1910 thus scoring a new gain of nearly 3 points.

The market was active in this period and reports from the brokerage houses were to the effect that considerable short covering was being done by bearish traders who selling was partly responsible for the setback yesterday in industrial stock prices. The reaction was considered a healthy corrective, in view of the violent manner in which the pools marked up their favorite stocks since the turn of the year.

Democrats Censure Attitude.

President Coolidge continues to bring pressure to bear on senators to sustain the veto and then to enact the new compromise postal bill, providing the same wage increases but raising the revenue from increased postal rates. In its first effort to arrange this substitution, the administration lost by a vote of 51 to 30.

The president's attitude met with censure from Democrats, Senator Copeland, Democrat of New York, charging the executive with attempting to "becloud the real issue."

"There is no reason," said Copeland "for any senator to change his vote because he had buckwheat cakes and sausage at the White House. The only question here is whether the postal employeers are entitled to living wages."

A member of the Madison township school board informed the local board that they would be unable to make a settlement of the tuition charges for the first part of the year until there had been a tax payment from the county treasurer. Another high school student from Belpre, Washington county, will be given the remainder of the present week to pay her tuition. The board did not regard as satisfactory an answer from her township board to a bill submitted for the tuition and advised that the amount be advanced by the child's relatives, pending a settlement by the township board.

of the speed with which Mr. Coolidge appointed Attorney General Stone to the vacancy on the supr me court, it is assumed that he had been forewarned of Justice McKenna's determination to retire and had already made a decision as to his successor.

Warren has rendered valuable service to the administration, both in the field of politics and diplomacy, and it is believed that should he desire a cambinet post his aspirations would receive the closest consideration.

Also prominently mentioned is Solicitor General James M. Beck, present acting head of the department; Robert Prentice Rugg, chief Justice of the Massachusetts supreme court, a personal friend of the president's; Frank S. Dietrich, United States District Judge for the district of Idaho, whom Senator Borah urged for the post last year; and secretary of the Navy Wilbur.

Wilbur may be shifted over from navy to justice. He was chief justice of the California supreme court and an outstanding lawyer on the coast. And it is no secret that some high administration officials are not pleased with his administration of the navy department.

East Liverpool May Be Faced With Grip Epidemic

PNEUMONIA CHIEF DANGER

Grippe Attacks Weaken Body's Resistance to Germs of Pneumonia—All Colds Should be Treated Promptly.

Deep grippy colds have been unusually prevalent here this winter. The situation is fairly general throughout the States. In some sections these colds are called "influenza," but the majority of health officers report that they are much milder than the original epidemic and resemble more closely the old-fashioned la grippe. They are usually accompanied by a headache, burning eyeballs and aching scalp—and frequently by gastric and intestinal complications such as hiccoughs, nausea, diarrhea, etc.

Colds are too often neglected until they have lowered the vitality sufficiently to permit the lurking germs, which cause pneumonia, bronchitis and influenza to attack the body.

Don't Take Chances.

The only safe plan is to attack a cold right at the beginning. A hot bath, a laxative, a sweat and a vigorous application of Vicks Vapo Rub at bedtime over throat and chest will often break up a cold over night.

For hours after Vicks is applied the vapors of Camphor, Menthol, Eucalyptus, Thyme and Turpentine, released as vapors by the body heat, are inhaled directly into the infected air passages. At the same time Vicks is absorbed through the skin and also stimulates it like a poultice or plaster.

It is an obstinate cold indeed that can resist this direct, double action.

Vicks Vapor Steam.

If the air passages are badly stopped up, try the "Teakettle and Tent" treatment. This method—fully explained in the directions—consists, briefly, of vaporizing Vicks in a teakettle and arranging a newspaper "tent" over the patient's head so that the combined warm steam and medicated vapors can be inhaled.

Mothers especially appreciate Vicks for the frequent colds of children, as it can be used freely and often, without disturbing the digestion—you "just rub it on." Over 17 million jars are used yearly.

Sermon On Bible Delivered By Evangelist W. J. Lockhart

Prayer Service Precedes Discourse Monday Night in First Church of Christ.

Many of the downtown church members joined in the revival service at the First Church of Christ, last evening, marking the opening of the week of prayer observance.

Evangelist W. J. Lockhart of Des Doines, Iowa, in charge of the revivals, spoke on the subject, "Why I Believe the Bible." The early part of the service was devoted largely to prayer. The music was under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harbinson of Fairmont, Ind. Mr. Harbinson is a soloist and song director.

"Billy," 18-year-old son of Evangelist Lockhart, is in charge of the children's work. He has organized the young people of the church into an organization known as the "S. S. S." He will have charge of the service some evening in the near future.

Tonight Evangelist Lockhart will speak on the subject, "Backsliders."

"The reason some of you people look so glum and gloomy is that you do not enjoy your religious life, and the reason you don't enjoy your Christian life is because you have so little of it," said the speaker in his sermon. "A lot of you people are spiritually dead and don't know it.

"Jesus said: Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my word shall not pass away. You can go into the church and temples and synagogues and tabernacles and homes and libraries of earth and gather together every copy of the multiplied millions of Bibles that have been printed. You can pile them in a great pyramid until they reach toward heaven. You can then tap one of these oil arteries coming out of Kansas and Oklahoma and turn this stream of oil upon them until they have been thoroughly saturated and then apply the blazing torch, but you will not destroy the Bible.

"No, the Bible is not going to be destroyed and I am not here to defend it. It needs no defense, but I am here to arouse your interest in it and to give you a more vital faith in its message. I believe the Bible because of its wonderful origin. The Bible is not just one book; it is a library of sixty books written by about forty different writers, over a lapse of sixteen hundred years in different ages and at different places on the earth. But when all these books had been written and brought together and bound in one volume they make one book, with one message, and with one personality dominating the whole.

"This, I say, is a miracle, the unbelieving world can not answer. For I defy anyone to duplicate this miraculous book by gathering any other sixty-six books written by forty writers covering a period of sixteen hundred years and make anything like a unit. ing to send one free to one auto own-to my faith in the Bible, however strong it is. I believe the Bible because it is the only book that tells the story of Jesus' life.

"I tell you the mesage of that dear old book is its own great demonstrator. And I speak of its power over my own life that I may bring the greater message and that the truth of the Bible will meet the needs of every man and woman's life anywhere and in all ages.

"I am so glad that our Father in heaven tells of his love in this book he has given; wonderful things in the Bible I see, but dearest of these is Jesus loves me."

DR. W. F. RITTMAN TO SPEAK HERE

Carnegie Tech Man Will be Guest of Rotarians.

Dr. Walter F. Rittman, head of the commercial engineering department at the Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh, will address members of the Rotary club at the weekly noon-day luncheon at the Y. M. C. A. on Tuesday, January 13. He will discuss the Dawes plan.

Dr. Rittman was formerly consulting engineer to the United States government and now is consulting engineer to the state of Pennsylvania. His work in the engineering field has stamped him as a national figure.

T. Stewart Brush was associated with Mr. Rittman in an engineering job at Tulsa, Oklahoma, for about 18 months, several years ago.

The speaker will divide his talk relative to the Dawes plan under three heads, first, the political situation in Europe, more particularly England, France and Germany, which made the plan possible; second, what the Dawes plan is and comprehends, and third, what will be the probable result of the Dawes plan on the economic and business life of the various countries involved.

interstate rates of the electric railways into line with their interstate rates, "so the discrimination against interstate business would cease."

Jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission over the intrastate rates of such carriers was denied by the municipalities, and the district court granted an injunction on the ground that the commission had no power to regulate intrastate rates on electric railways, except in cases where the interurban road was a part of a general steam railroad or engaged generally in the freight business.

"The question," the supreme court decided, "is the construction of the act to regulate commerce, and we have reached the conclusion that the lower court was wrong. That the commission has the power to regulate interurban railways as they affect interstate business it is unnecessary to pass upon."

"This court has held," said Justice McReynolds in his minority decision, "that the interstate commerce commission has no authority over street railways. By the same line of reasoning it has no authority over these carriers. Congress has had the opportunity if it wanted to do so to say in plain language that the power is extended to control of these. It had not done so."

History of Case.

A summary of the case follows:

In November, 1921, a little more than three years ago, the fare on the main line was five cents under the Wellsville franchise. Of the Steubenville, East Liverpool and Beaver Valley Traction Co.

The company, operating, it was said, at a loss, decided upon a three-zone system of collection between Wooster's and the state line.

The application was filed with the interstate commerce commission and at a hearing held in Columbus at which representatives of the car company and the city were present, the interstate commerce commission approved the fare increase under the zone system.

A bill in equity asking an injunction to restrain the traction company from making effective the zone system of fare collection was filed in federal court in Cleveland on December 14, 1921, by Attorney Charles Boyd, then city solicitor of Wellsville.

The federal court granted a temporary restraining order.

This was followed by a motion, filed by the traction company and the interstate commerce commission, asking that the city's petition be dismissed.

On January 1, 1922, Attorney James E. O'Grady became city solicitor of Wellsville and continued the case.

On November 19 and 20, 1922, the case was called for a hearing in federal court in Toledo before Judges Westenhaver, Killitts and Donohue, having been transferred from Cleveland.

New Ordinances Enacted.

Solicitor J. E. O'Grady represented the city of Wellsville in the Toledo court. There the temporary order granted during the regime of Solicitor Boyd was made permanent.

Then the interstate commerce commission and the traction company carried the case to the United States supreme court in Washington and hearings were held within the last six months. The city was represented in the supreme court by Attorney George D. Ingram, who became Wellsville's solicitor on January 1, 1924. The court upheld the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission and its authority to grant the car company power to operate under a three-zone system.

In the meantime, however, new ordinances drawn up by the city enabled the car company to collect 10 cents for a ride to East Liverpool, the fare that exists at the present time.

HOW TO END BLADDER TROUBLE

Remarkable results in quickly clearing up long-standing cases of bladder trouble and weak kidneys are being obtained with a remarkable remedy originally compounded many years ago by a famous Holland chemist. It goes direct to the overworked and congested kidneys and bladder, and tones them up and restores them to normal working order often in 24 hours. Physicians have known its value for years, but it is only recently that the genuine imported oil has been put up in easy-to take, tasteless capsule form, under the name of Red Mill Haarlem Oil. Bills in Hopper.

Nine bills and a joint resolution proposing an amendment to the state constitution were in the house hopper when the state legislature reconvened here this morning. No bills have been introduced in the senate.

The senate and house met in joint session at 10 a. m. today in the house chamber and canvassed the vote cast in Ohio at the election last November, verifying the result as previously officially announced by Secretary of State Brown. Another joint session will be held this afternoon when consideration will be given to the proposal that a new state office building be erected.

Proposed Legislation.

The house bills, introduced late Monday are:

By Representative Tallentire, Hamilton county, providing that chartered cities may by vote of the people fix their own tax limitations, and provides, also, for a complete budget system of municipal receipts and expenditures; by Wise, Summit, making Armistice Day (November 11) a legal holiday; Meyers, Lucus, providing for an angler's license measure with an annual fee of 50 cents; Rep. Madison, providing life imprisonment for robbery, unless mercy is recommended by jury or accused pleads guilty when sentence may be fixed at 5 to 30 years imprisonment; Rea, providing life imprisonment for assault with intent to kill, or commit robbery, or rape unless jury recommends mercy, or accused pleads guilty, when sentence may be fixed at 5 to 30 years; Mrs. Vanwye, Hamilson, exempting reasearch workers of state universities from civil service; Dempsey, Cuyahoga, providing for re-organization of cemetery associations; Mrs. Clapp, Cuyahoga, Extending to inmates of private children's homes the benefits of public school education; Brown, Champaign, amending county ditch laws, relative to cleaning up and repairing ditches.

Representative Lipp, Hamilton, offered a house joint resolution providing for an amendment to the state constitution, authorizing assessing of the entire cost of public improvements against owners of abutting property. The present law limits such assessment to 50 per cent. of the cost of improvement.

Drunks Head List.

Drunks headed the list for arrests the total being 410. Illegal possession of intoxicating liquors was next with 109, selling intoxicating liquors, 13; transportating intoxicating liquors, 10 and furnishing intoxicating liquors, 7, a grand total of 159 liquor violations. Other arrests included gambling, 91; suspicious persons, 53; disorderly conduct, 40; assault, 37; operating automobile while intoxicated, 31; violating traffic ordinance, 29; reckless driving, 28; fighting, 28; drunk and disorderly conduct, 22; breaking and entering, 21; loitering in disorderly house, 14; trespassing on railroad property, 12; permitting gambling, 13. But one arrest was made for murder.

In a move to eliminate traffic hazards the chief recommends the installation of 18 automatic safety street lights in the business district.

"While our report for the past year will show an increase in the number of arrests as compared to the previous year, our city is more orderly and law-abiding than most communities of a similar size," the chief says. "When you consider the size of our police department we have not had many felonies, indicating that every man is on the job.

Collections in Mayor Brown's office for the year established a new high record, the chief executive's report indicates. Fines and license fees totaled $26,673.27, an average of $2,222.77 per month. During December, $1,584.80 was collected. All of this came in, however, on city cases. The biggest month of the year was in July, when $3,062.74 was reported.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—The stock market staged an impressive comeback in the early trading today.

Hesitating for only a short period to absorb the small volume of selling orders which had accumulated since the close of Monday's session, the whole market was once more in the grip of a bull movement in which the railroad, motor, oil, equipment and industrial shares moved forward vigorously.

Before the end of the first half hour American car and foundry had recovered six points, general electric 5, radio corporation 3, United States Steel 2 and a score of active stocks a point or less. New York Central resumed its spectacular advance and sold above 124 for the first time since 1910 thus scoring a new gain of nearly 3 points.

The market was active in this period and reports from the brokerage houses were to the effect that considerable short covering was being done by bearish traders who selling was partly responsible for the setback yesterday in industrial stock prices. The reaction was considered a healthy corrective, in view of the violent manner in which the pools marked up their favorite stocks since the turn of the year.

Warren May Be

of the speed with which Mr. Coolidge appointed Attorney General Stone to the vacancy on the supreme court, it is assumed that he had been forewarned of Justice McKenna's determination to retire and had already made a decision as to his successor.

Warren has rendered valuable service to the administration, both in the field of politics and diplomacy, and it is believed that should he desire a cambinet post his aspirations would receive the closest consideration.

Also prominently mentioned are Solicitor General James M. Beck, present acting head of the department; Robert Prentice Rugg, chief Justice of the Massachusetts supreme court, a personal friend of the president's; Frank S. Dietrich, United States District Judge for the district of Idaho, whom Senator Borah urged for the post last year; and secretary of the navy Wilbur.

Wilbur may be shifted over from navy to justice. He was chief justice of the California supreme court and an outstanding lawyer on the coast. And it is no secret that some high administration officials are not pleased with his administration of the navy department.

East Liverpool May Be Faced With Grip Epidemic

PNEUMONIA CHIEF DANGER

Grippe Attacks Weaken Body's Resistance to Germs of Pneumonia—All Colds Should be Treated Promptly.

Deep grippy colds have been unusually prevalent here this winter. The situation is fairly general throughout the States. In some sections these colds are called "influenza," but the majority of health officers report that they are much milder than the original epidemic and resemble more closely the old-fashioned la grippe. They are usually accompanied by a headache, burning eyeballs and aching scalp—and frequently by gastric and intestinal complications such as hiccoughs, nausea, diarrhea, etc.

Colds are too often neglected until they have lowered the vitality sufficiently to permit the lurking germs, which cause pneumonia, bronchitis and influenza to attack the body.

Don't Take Chances.

The only safe plan is to attack a cold right at the beginning. A hot bath, a laxative, a sweat and a vigorous application of Vicks Vapo Rub at bedtime over throat and chest will often break up a cold over night.

For hours after Vicks is applied the Vapors of Camphor, Menthol, Eucalyptus, Thyme and Turpentine, released as vapors by the body heat, are inhaled directly into the infected air passages. At the same time Vicks is absorbed through the skin and also stimulates it like a poultice or plaster.

It is an obstinate cold indeed that can resist this direct, double action.

Vicks Vapor Steam.

If the air passages are badly stopped up, try the "Teakettle and Tent" treatment. This method—fully explained in the directions—consists, briefly, of vaporizing Vicks in a teakettle and arranging a newspaper "tent" over the patient's head so that the combined warm steam and medicated vapors can be inhaled.

Mothers especially appreciate Vicks for the frequent colds of children, as it can be used freely and often, without disturbing the digestion—you "just rub it on." Over 17 million jars are used yearly.

Sermon On Bible Delivered By Evangelist W. J. Lockhart

Prayer Service Precedes Discourse Monday Night in First Church of Christ.

Many of the downtown church members joined in the revival service at the First Church of Christ, last evening, marking the opening of the week of prayer observance.

Evangelist W. J. Lockhart of Des Doines, Iowa, in charge of the revivals, spoke on the subject, "Why I Believe the Bible." The early part of the service was devoted largely to prayer. The music was under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harbinson of Fairmont, Ind. Mr. Harbinson is a soloist and song director.

"Billy," 18-year-old son of Evangelist Lockhart, is in charge of the children's work. He has organized the young people of the church into an organization known as the "S. S. S." He will have charge of the service some evening in the near future.

Tonight Evangelist Lockhart will speak on the subject, "Backsliders."

"The reason some of you people look so glum and gloomy is that you do not enjoy your religious life, and the reason you don't enjoy your Christian life is because you have so little of it," said the speaker in his sermon. "A lot of you people are spiritually dead and don't know it.

"Jesus said: Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my word shall not pass away. You can go into the church and temples and synagogues and tabernacles and homes and libraries of earth and gather together every copy of the multiplied millions of Bibles that have been printed. You can pile them in a great pyramid until they reach toward heaven. You can then tap one of these oil arteries coming out of Kansas and Oklahoma and turn this stream of oil upon them until they have been thoroughly saturated and then apply the blazing torch, but you will not destroy the Bible.

"No, the Bible is not going to be destroyed and I am not here to defend it. It needs no defense, but I am here to arouse your interest in it and to give you a more vital faith in its message. I believe the Bible because of its wonderful origin. The Bible is not just one book; it is a library of sixty books written by about forty different writers, over a lapse of sixteen hundred years in different ages and at different places on the earth. But when all these books had been written and brought together and bound in one volume they make one book, with one message, and with one personality dominating the whole.

"This, I say, is a miracle, the unbelieving world can not answer. For I defy anyone to duplicate this miraculous book by gathering any other sixty-six books written by forty writers covering a period of sixteen hundred years and make anything like a unit.

"But this is not the convincing thing to my faith in the Bible, however strong it is. I believe the Bible because it is the only book that tells the story of Jesus' life.

"I tell you the mesage of that dear old book is its own great demonstrator. And I speak of its power over my own life that I may bring the greater message and that the truth of the Bible will meet the needs of every man and woman's life anywhere and in all ages.

"I am so glad that our Father in heaven tells of his love in this book he has given; wonderful things in the Bible I see, but dearest of these is Jesus loves me."

1924 taxes became a lien April 13th, 1924, the day preceding the second Monday in April.

First Half must be paid not later than December 20th, 1924. Last Half must be paid not later than June 20th, 1925.

The correct way to pay a full year's tax without penalty is to pay in December for December and the following June.

Penalty on delinquent Real Estate and Personal Property is 10 per cent.

When writing for a statement of your taxes, remember property appears on the Treasurer's books in the name of the person having title on April 13, 1924, and that the law requires the Treasurer's books and receipts to be made out in the name of the party owning property when the lien took effect.

In writing for statement of taxes, always send last receipt, or give name of owner in April 1924, stating plainly in what city, town or township located, and whether real or personal property.

When you write for statement or pay by mail, enclose a self addressed stamped envelope for reply.

Special taxes are written separately on yellow slips. If you have Special tax, insist on getting the yellow receipt before leaving Treasurer's Office and avoid delinquent notices.

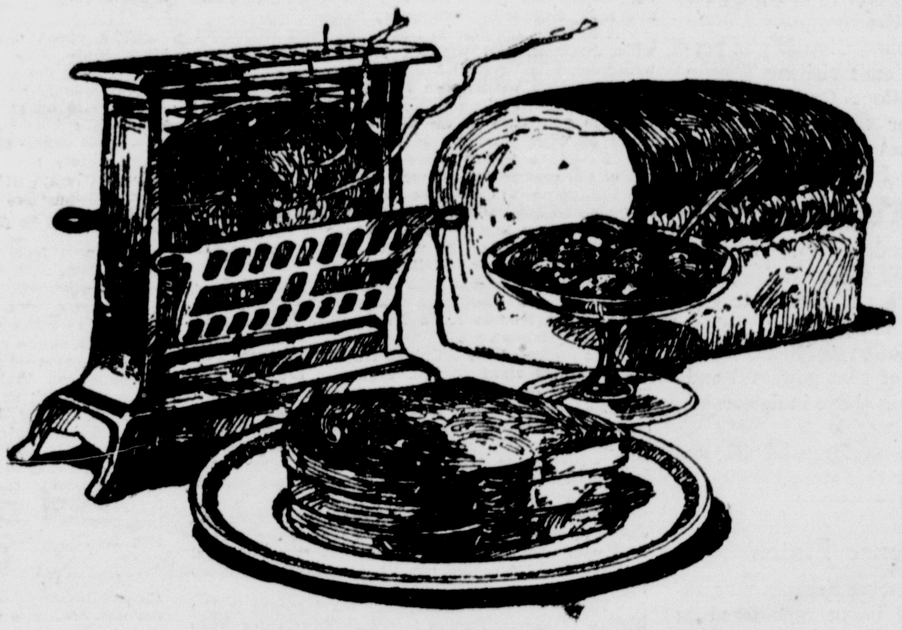

Examine your receipts and see that they are correct before you leave the Treasurer's Office.

Treasurer's Office will be open from 7 A. M. to 5 P. M.

Bread and the Children's Welfare

IT may never have occurred to you that good bread, such as BETSY ROSS bread, contains every element needed for the proper diet of children. Yet, this most economical food is often considered lightly and is seldom eaten often enough.

It contains carbohydrates, protein, iron, mineral salts and the vitamins found in milk. Medical authorities say that a deficiency of these elements is the cause of the malnutrition among school children—a condition affecting one child out of every three.

Malnutrition is easily overcome by proper feeding. Give your children more BETSY ROSS bread. Serve it to them in various ways, as toast for breakfast, milk toast, with milk or in puddings. Write for our recipe book giving forty new ways for serving BETSY ROSS. When ordering get BETSY ROSS—always—for "there's a difference in bread".

From Blanket to Toga

Few Americans have realized that, on the passing of the famous Massachusetts aristocrat, Henry Cabot Lodge, his place as leader of the United States Senate was taken by a Kaw Indian who "once wore the blanket and received government rations." As told by a writer in the New York Times, Senator Curtis's life story looks like first-class material for either a patriotic or a movie thriller.

The senator is only one-fourth Indian, but looks more than that. His grandmother was a full-blooded Kaw, his grandfather a French Canadian and his father an American trader. The boy lived a normal Indian life on the reservation, west of Topeka, until he was 10 years old. Then, when the Cheyenne tribe swept down upon the Kaws and besieged their camp, little Charlie Curtis was sent through the lines alone, by night, to bring help from Topeka, 60 miles away. He made that hard trip safely on foot, sent relief and saved his tribe.

White friends he made in Topeka persuaded him to remain there. He became a jockey, and the pride of the cattle country, which loved racing. He won many famous races, and had many adventures. At one of his races the James brothers raided the gate and made off with all the receipts.

After five years of that, Charlie was persuaded by Old Indian friends visiting Topeka to return to the Reservation. On the way his old Indian grandmother told him he was making a mistake—that opportunity lay with the white, not the Indians. She gave him her best horse and set him back. The lad was ambitious. He went to school till his money gave out, then drove a night hack, and read law in his hack while waiting for fares. There followed his admission to the bar, local distinction in his profession, election to Congress, promotion to the Senate, and, at last, leadership of that powerful and exclusive body, with a big share in determining the destinies of the world.

Any American boy who things he "has no chance" should consider this story.

UNCLE SAM'S MANY ISLANDS—II

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Among the islands for which the United States navy is responsible is Guam. It is used as a naval station and, in these days of cable, wireless and airplanes, has become an important link in the trans-oceanic communications system. The commandant of the naval station there is also the island's governor.

To New Zealanders this island formerly was the mythical port for which vessels leaving their harbors would clear when sailing under sealed orders. These orders when opened at sea always contained instructions to proceed to some other part of the world. So much of a custom had this become that many New Zealanders came to regard Guam as a place existing only in the imagination of ship owners.

Recently an American visiting New Zealand was questioned as to his next destination and named Guam. You can imagine his astonishment when his friends applauded him loudly for his excellent joke, not one of them believing that such a place existed.

The most remarkable occurence at Guam in recent months was the great typhoon and flood which swept the island on October 1. The storm caused one death, and wrecked thousands of dollars worth of property. But it made history chiefly because the rainfall broke almost all existing records. The rain gauges showed that in 15 hours 19 inches of rain had fallen over the island of Guam and in 48 hours there were 33 inches.

A mathematical shark has figured that, as the island covers 245 square miles, the rain which fell would amount to more than eighteen trillion cubic inches, or eighty billion gallons. Putting the figures into tons it would amount to 323 million tons of water.

This is about a year's rainfall in some of our states, and it is more than a year's allowance for 11 of the most arid states all put together.

From Guam it is not a great journey west to the 7,000 islands of the Philippines, which are inhabited by more than 13,000,000 people.

The Filipinos have a very old civilization which dates back beyond recorded history. They were being influenced by Indian and Chinese culture several centuries before Christ. They had a literature and records of their early history, but the manuscripts were made of palm leaves and bamboo and were kept in caves where the people gathered and worshipped.

The Spaniards, coming to the hPilippines in the sixteenth century, called these records "Books of the Devil," and ordered them burned, so that today there are only a few scattered bits of manuscript which have been found in corners of the caves on the islands.

UNIVERSITY OLDER THAN HARVARD

The Philippines had a university in 1611, 25 years before Harvard university was established.

The Filipinos are ambitious and in many ways very progressive. In the Far Eastern Olympic games they have more than held their own against Chinese and Japanese athletes.

In 1923 the Philippines came out first in baseball, volley ball and basketball, and second in track and field, swimming, tennis and football.

A Filipino sculptor in Rome has been attracting wide attention and winning prizes in competition with famous artists all over Europe.

Philippine women are becoming more independent just as American women are. Out of 46 graduates in pharmacy at the University of the Philippines 42 were women. In the same class four of the 11 doctor's degrees were granted to women, and out of 488 graduates 110 were women.

Philippine women are becoming nurses and lawyers and are going into trade and industry. Business is no new line to them because it has always been the custom for the women of the Philippines to manage their families' finances.

The United States paid Spain the sum of $20,000,000 for the Philippine islands, and today the trade of the islands for a single year is worth 15 times that amount.

The desire of the Filipinos for independence has not been lost sight of, and gradually the way has been paved for autonomy. The Jones act of 1916 promised the Filipinos independence when a stable government should be established on the island.

A particularly interesting phase of the Philippine situation is the Moro question. There are about 200,000 Moros who inhabit the southern islands of the Philippine group.

The Moros are a timely subject now because the sultan of the Moro tribes has asked that the Americans establish a school for girls like the industrial and agricultural school run by Americans for Moro boys at Jolo.

This is rather a sensational development in the history of the Philippine islands. The Moros have a world-wide reputation for being among the fiercest of all barbaric races. They are known as scalp collectors, and as people who know only one way of settling an argument—and that is by gun or knife. Besides this, they are Mohammedans, which implies the active antagonism of the follower of Mohammed toward all unbelievers.

NOT SAFE A DECADE AGO

Ten years ago the Moro settlements were no safe place for unguarded Americans. But ten years ago Bishop Charles H. Brent, then Protestant Episcopal bishop of the Philippines, together with Mrs. C. Lorillard Spencer, planned to open a school for Moro boys. They were told that they would only start a bloody religious war, because the suspicious Moro chiefs would warn the people that the Christians were trying to proselyte. The bishop admitted this danger, but he saw that the Moros were going round in a vicious circle of resentment, revenge and ignorance.

These people who never bowed the knee to Spain and never gave her a cent of tribute, even when she held the Philippines in her power, have respect for the American rule in the Philippines. But official positions in the southern islands are held by 250 Philipinos, and the Moros, who are a distinct race, distrust them.

Because Filipinos teach public school classes, Moro families send their children to school only by compulsion and only for the few years which are absolutely required. It looked as though the Moros would go on indefinitely resenting the conditions which surrounded them, because there was no way for them to get training to fit them to hold responsible positions themselves.

The American plan was to take a group of Moro boys and make them into trained leaders. Funds were raised among American philantropists, and the school was opened. Sons of the proud Moro nobility were especially invited, because such boys seemed most promising material for leadership, but children from families of fishermen and farmers were also admitted without class distinction. The Moro leaders agreed to give the offer a trial.

At first between 30 and 40 boys enrolled. The first morning a teacher who entered the dormitory found every boy up and dressed and sitting tensely on his cot with his barong, the native knife, on his knees.

Every boy was just waiting for an affront, real or imaginary, from his neighbor. The school took these young fighting cocks and kept them so busy and so interested that they soon forgot to be aggressive.

The boys are taught to respect the attainments of their people, but they are inspired to make progress. Until General Pershing ordered them to give up guns and knives, the Moro way of tilling a field was to upturn the surface of the ground, a bit at a time, with a barong, the same weapon which could quickly take off an enemy's scalp.

BOYS TRAINED PRACTICALLY

By slow labor in the broiling sun the Moro farmer raised a rice crop to feed his family. The school teaches its boys the most practical ways of raising rice, corn and suitable American vegetables. They also learn to cook and to build houses and to live more hygienically.

In three hours a day the boys cover the same course in English, arithmetic and other academic subjects as the public school students cover in a full day's session.

The religious war, which was ominously predicted, never took place. The policy of the school has been to avoid talk of special creeds or churches. Bishop Brent says:

"The school represents the first opportunity which a western nation has ever had of gaining official access to the minds and hearts of the boys and girls of a Moslem race. We aim to show the Moros a Christian life rather than a church covenant. Today our boys are merry, studious and industrious. They never think of fighting; they are too busy. Even the fathers of many of the lads, who had been for years cruel, blood-thirsty head hunters, have turned from war and have taken up agriculture. We have put plows where we found swords."

The girls' school requested by the sultan and the principals of the Moro tribes is to be established when sufficient funds are raised. Mrs. Thomas J. Emery, of Cincinnati, has just given $30,000 to erect a building for the school for girls, and the Moro Educational Foundation, as the organization in charge of the work is called, is forming local chapters in cities of the United States to raise $500,000 which would endow the foundation permanently and would finance its work among the Moros.

The Moros are not the only island people who are represented as being wild and barbarous, but who in reality are making as rapid progress as funds and assistance will permit.

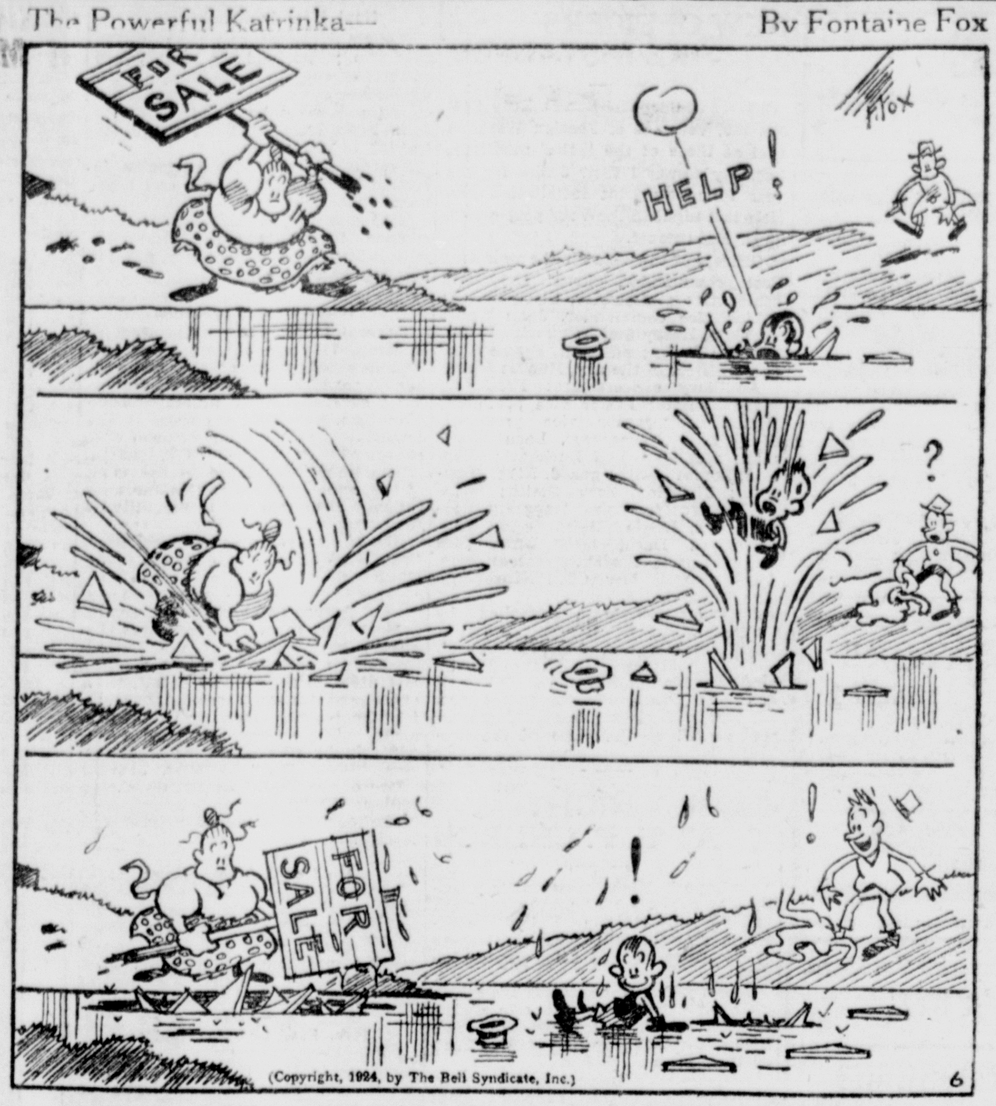

The Igorots of the Philippines are often regarded as unlettered savages. Yet, in a recent debate on Philippine independence, an Igorot boy attending Central high school in Washington, D. C., upheld the right of the Philippines to independence, and won the debate.

The islands over which the American flag is flying may seem far away from what we think of as our world of civilization, but they represent not only promise, but real achievement.

The Powerful Katrinka— By Fontaine Fox

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

MANILA, Ja. 6.—The Filipino woman is taking to pharmacy. The degrees in the University of the Philippines and the private colleges are filled with young ladies preparing to concost medicinal preparations in the little boticas, of drug stores, which dot the islands.

The chess champion of the Philippines is a Moro, Datu Alip, of Cotabato province. He can neither read nor write, but has easily cleaned up all comers among the Christian Filipinos. Alip's father—a sworn enemy of the Americans 20 years ago, but before his death an equally devoted friend—was chess champion of Moroland, so that the young man's ability runs in the family. Datu Alip sings Moro battle songs and chants from the Koran while playing. He claims the practice contributes much to his victories.

No more free speech or free press for the Filipinos! That is, if the drastic muzzling bill proposed by Representative Jesse Evangelista becomes a law at the next session of the Philippine legislature. He proposes to make it illegal for any person : : : "to use in public or in private, orally or in writing any expression detrimental to the good name of the Filipinos and their country, or to print, publish, possess, exhibit and send or circulate in the Philippines, or other countries, articles, manuscripts, photographs, postcards or cartoons, false or imaginary, which, directly or indirectly, express sentiments unfavorable to the natural aspirations of the Filipino people to be independent." A fine of not less than $25 nor more than $1,000, or subsidiary imprisonment, will be imposed on each violator of this law.

America has its hoof-and-mouth disease, and the Philippines have a somewhat allied disease, rinderpest, which is endemic in the islands, though it was stamped out in all except five municipalities about 10 years ago. But, in addition to the ever-present rinderpest, the islands are now faced with an epidemic of anthrax, more deadly than either of the other two diseases.

An epidemic last fall killed more than 10,000 carabaos, or native oxen, and was not put down until the Filipino government called on United States troops for assistance in enforcing the quarantine against moving animals from one place to another.

The United States forces have been away from the infested districts only six months, and the anthrax death rate is again increasing rapidly, especially around Manila. Five companies of native constabularly were assigned to patrol Bulacan and Bataan, nearby provinces; and several native governors and presidents (mayors have been called on the carpet by Governor General Wood.

Election comes next year, and the constituents of native elective officials complain of the drastic quarantine measures which have been imposed in order to keep the disease from spreading all over the islands. So when the constabulary arrest persons violating the quarantine and lodge them in municipal jails, the city officials let the violators out again as soon as the backs of the constabularly are turned. When an investigation ensues, the officials conveniently disappear and cannot be found. Three presidents were suspended last week, and the governor of Bulacan has been warned that his "head will fall' unless he co-operates with the insular officials in the enfocement of quarantine measures.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—I have just talked to a man whose life for 20 years has been pitched in the hurly burly of Broadway. He is a newspaperman and a shift of management sent the "old ball and chain" around the office and he found himself jobless.

There are not so many newspaper obs in New York these days, so he decided to try for a place on a newspaper he left in a little southern town to come to New York. There was an immediate reply for him to pack the kitbag and come on.

He was the most abject picture of woe I have ever seen. To him the world had come to an end. He could not garner one gleam of joy in returning to a peaceful community where he had real friends and could enjoy peace and happiness.

New York has a way of hypnotizing its sons and daughters. The bigness charms them as the snake charms the bird and after awhile they begin to believe there is no place else but Manhattan. It is the kingpin of foolish reasoning.

Once they get away and break the spell they rarely come back. They find there is more genuine living to the square inch in towns west of the metropolis than they ever found possible here. They have 10 real friends there to one fair weather friend here.

Unless a man has an enormous income it is almost impossible to own a home here unless he buys one out where the pavement ends in some straggling suburb. In the smaller city, if he is thrifty he soon becomes a home owner.

People there accept him for what he is and not because of a well-tailored suit or because he can call some stage star by first name—whether he knows him or not. As a place for the hustler to make money New York grades high, but as a place to live it total zero.

There is much talk of abandoning Manhattan Transfer—that odd place that boasts only a depot and which has given millions of newcomers the first thrill of arrival. It is only a few moments away from the big terminals. Manhattan transfer has long been the butt of comedians who refer to themselves as being may or of the place.

New York tailors are now making pickpocket proof clothes. They appeal especially to subway riders. Secret pockets are installed under the armpits in coats and are so devised that they cannot be found save by the owner. One man is said to have his pockets picked so much in the subway that for a year he has been wearing pocketless trousers.

Down in the Turkish quarter they sell native perfume for 10 cents a bottle. An it is the same perfume that a certain gilded perfumery on the avenue sells for $8 for the same sized bottle. On Allen street a lady of my acquaintance bought a dress for $65. She has a friend who bought the identical dress in the fashionable dressmaking district on West Fifty-seventh street for $282. Value in Manhattan are largely geographical. And as long as there continues to be suckers it will remain that way.

The other day with a New Yorker I had a bite to eat in one of those eat-and-run places. The waiter brought the change with a flourish and said, "Here you are, pal." The New Yorker was astounded. He could not understand why I did not rebuke him and also report him to the management. The waiter was merely being kind, according to his light. In fact I rather admired his friendliness.

HEALTHY AND WISE

Miss Inez Hardin, the Mississippi girl chosen as the healthiest girl in the country, is described as a bundle of sunshine. Health and sunshine go together.

The young girl is a bundle of common sense also, and says "I'll marry when I'm 30. Not until then."

Some healthy boy may change her mind, but she would be wise to stick to her plan.

Healthy mothers have their best babies after 30, and in fact, after 35. Plato knew it more than 2,000 years ago.

AMERICA ON WHEELS

We know that America rules the world in automobile use and production, having more automobiles than all the rest of the world combined, with millions of machines to spare. How much do we ride?

This country in 1924 manufactured 46,000,000 tires. Allowing an average mileage of 6,000 miles, which is low, and dividing by four, you find that tires enough were made in one year for more than sixty-seven and a half billion miles travel—twenty-seven hundred thousand times around the earth.

A WILD WALL STREET

It was a wild stock market last Saturday, dearly beloved. The crowd bought a million and a half shares in two hours. Many buyers were sad-eyed bears compelled to protect themselves after foolish short selling.

Many stocks are low, selling at half their value. But how is the little lamb to know which are which? "Conservative" Wall Street writers tell you, "such times as these always come before a serious reaction."

Are they trying to protect you, or trying to give their friends a chance to get in the market on a drop?

The only safe rule is don't gamble.

Do with stocks as with land. Select what you think good, buy only what you can pay for and keep. Last Saturday speculators bought stocks at the rate of $750,000 a minute. Some of that will never be paid for.

JOHNNY WAS ITALIAN

Johnny Dundee, featherweight prize fight champion of the world, has been much admired, and geese that would put the Nordic race above others found in Johnny another proof of their theory, "nobody can beat a Nordic," said they. "Celt or Saxon, or old Germanic blood, that's the stuff the best men are made of."

Then Johnny Dundee retired from his championship, goes to Rome, is blessed by the pope, and proud of being the first professional prize fighter to get a papal blessing.

And, lo! you learn that your fighting "Nordic" was born in Italy, that his real name is Giuseppe Carrora. He is no Saxon or Clet, but a pure-bred Latin, descended from the old fighters that followed Caesar and helped to build his roads.

The more you learn about the Italians, the more you realize that they possess power of every kind, from the brute force that creates a featherweight champion to the high intellect that produces a Marconi, Duse or Vedi.

What applies to Italy, applies to other countries. The super-great Jack Dempsey has an Irish name and an Irish father. But part of his blood is North American Indian, otherwise Mongolian from the long ago.

Congressman Anthony, of Kansas, chairman of the committee that drafted the war department supply bill, recommends one single united air service for the United States, under separate command, subject, of course, to the president's general authority.

That is common sense, and it ought not to take congress long to pass any necessary legislation. Air fighting is new, the respectable old gentlemen of the army and navy know nothing about it, never having flown, and many of them still living in the old battleship and hansom cab days.

An air service unified, and then a real air service, should be the program.

Cotton growers, cheer up. Science says the boll weevil can be conquered. Insects find their food by scent. Attract you boll weevil by the aroma of the food that he likes, then destroy him.

They kill tigers and leopards by sound. The bleating of a tethered kid attracts them, and a bullet does the rest.

The olfactory bait for the boll weevil is being perfected by scientists. It will be prepared synthetically. The mother boll weevil will follow her nose and die of poison, with her eggs unborn. And this, mind you, is serious. Once find how to attract insect pests by smell and they are done for.

It has been proved that insects, moths, for instance, have a sense of smell of incredibly wide range, far exceeding in keenness that of any bloodhound.

William Arbuthnot Lane, great and wise British surgeon, warns women that the craze for a silhouette figure is a menace to the race.

Sir William is wrong when he says, "women are much more monkey-like than men, and show it in imitation." He is right in denouncing the abnormal craze for skinniness.

The Philippines had a university in 1611, 25 years before Harvard university was established.

The Filipinos are ambitious and in many ways very progressive. In the Far Eastern Olympic games they have more than held their own against Chinese and Japanese athletes.

In 1923 the Philippines came out first in baseball, volley ball and basketball, and second in track and field, swimming, tennis and football.

A Filipino sculptor in Rome has been attracting wide attention and winning prizes in competition with famous artists all over Europe.

Philippine women are becoming more independent just as American women are. Out of 46 graduates in pharmacy at the University of the Philippines 42 were women. In the same class four of the 11 doctor's degrees were granted to women, and out of 488 graduates 110 were women.

Philippine women are becoming nurses and lawyers and are going into trade and industry. Business is no new line to them because it has always been the custom for the women of the Philippines to manage their families' finances.

The United States paid Spain the sum of $20,000,000 for the Philippine islands, and today the trade of the islands for a single year is worth 15 times that amount.

The desire of the Filipinos for independence has not been lost sight of, and gradually the way has been paved for autonomy. The Jones act of 1916 promised the Filipinos independence when a stable government should be established on the island.

A particularly interesting phase of the Philippine situation is the Moro question. There are about 200,000 Moros who inhabit the southern islands of the Philippine group.

The Moros are a timely subject now because the sultan of the Moro tribes has asked that the Americans establish a school for girls like the industrial and agricultural school run by Americans for Moro boys at Jolo.

This is rather a sensational development in the history of the Philippine islands. The Moros have a world-wide reputation for being among the fiercest of all barbaric races. They are known as scalp collectors, and as people who know only one way of settling an argument—and that is by gun or knife. Besides this, they are Mohammedans, which implies the active antagonism of the follower of Mohammed toward all unbelievers.

NOT SAFE A DECADE AGO

Ten years ago the Moro settlements were no safe place for unguarded Americans. But ten years ago Bishop Charles H. Brent, then Protestant Episcopal bishop of the Philippines, together with Mrs. C. Lorillard Spencer, planned to open a school for Moro boys. They were told that they would only start a bloody religious war, because the suspicious Moro chiefs would warn the people that the Christians were trying to proselyte. The bishop admitted this danger, but he saw that the Moros were going round in a vicious circle of resentment, revenge and ignorance.

These people who never bowed the knee to Spain and never gave her a cent of tribute, even when she held the Philippines in her power, have respect for the American rule in the Philippines. But official positions in the southern islands are held by 250 Filipinos, and the Moros, who are a distinct race, distrust them.

Because Filipinos teach public school classes, Moro families send their children to school only by compulsion and only for the few years which are absolutely required. It looked as though the Moros would go on indefinitely resenting the conditions which surrounded them, because there was no way for them to get training to fit them to hold responsible positions themselves.

The American plan was to take a group of Moro boys and make them into trained leaders. Funds were raised among American philantropists, and the school was opened. Sons of the proud Moro nobility were especially invited, because such boys seemed most promising material for leadership, but children from families of fishermen and farmers were also admitted without class distinction. The Moro leaders agreed to give the offer a trial.

At first between 30 and 40 boys enrolled. The first morning a teacher who entered the dormitory found every boy up and dressed and sitting tensely on his cot with his barong, the native knife, on his knees.

Every boy was just waiting for an affront, real or imaginary, from his neighbor. The school took these young fighting cocks and kept them so busy and so interested that they soon forgot to be aggressive.

The boys are taught to respect the attainments of their people, but they are inspired to make progress. Until General Pershing ordered them to give up guns and knives, the Moro way of tilling a field was to upturn the surface of the ground, a bit at a time, with a barong, the same weapon which could quickly take off an enemy's scalp.

BOYS TRAINED PRACTICALLY

By slow labor in the broiling sun the Moro farmer raised a rice crop to feed his family. The school teaches its boys the most practical ways of raising rice, corn and suitable American vegetables. They also learn to cook and to build houses and to live more hygienically.

In three hours a day the boys cover the same course in English, arithmetic and other academic subjects as the public school students cover in a full day's session.

The religious war, which was ominously predicted, never took place. The policy of the school has been to avoid talk of special creeds or churches. Bishop Brent says:

"The school represents the first opportunity which a western nation has ever had of gaining official access to the minds and hearts of the boys and girls of a Moslem race. We aim to show the Moros a Christian life rather than a church covenant. Today our boys are merry, studious and industrious. They never think of fighting; they are too busy. Even the fathers of many of the lads, who had been for years cruel, blood-thirsty head hunters, have turned from war and have taken up agriculture. We have put plows where we found swords."

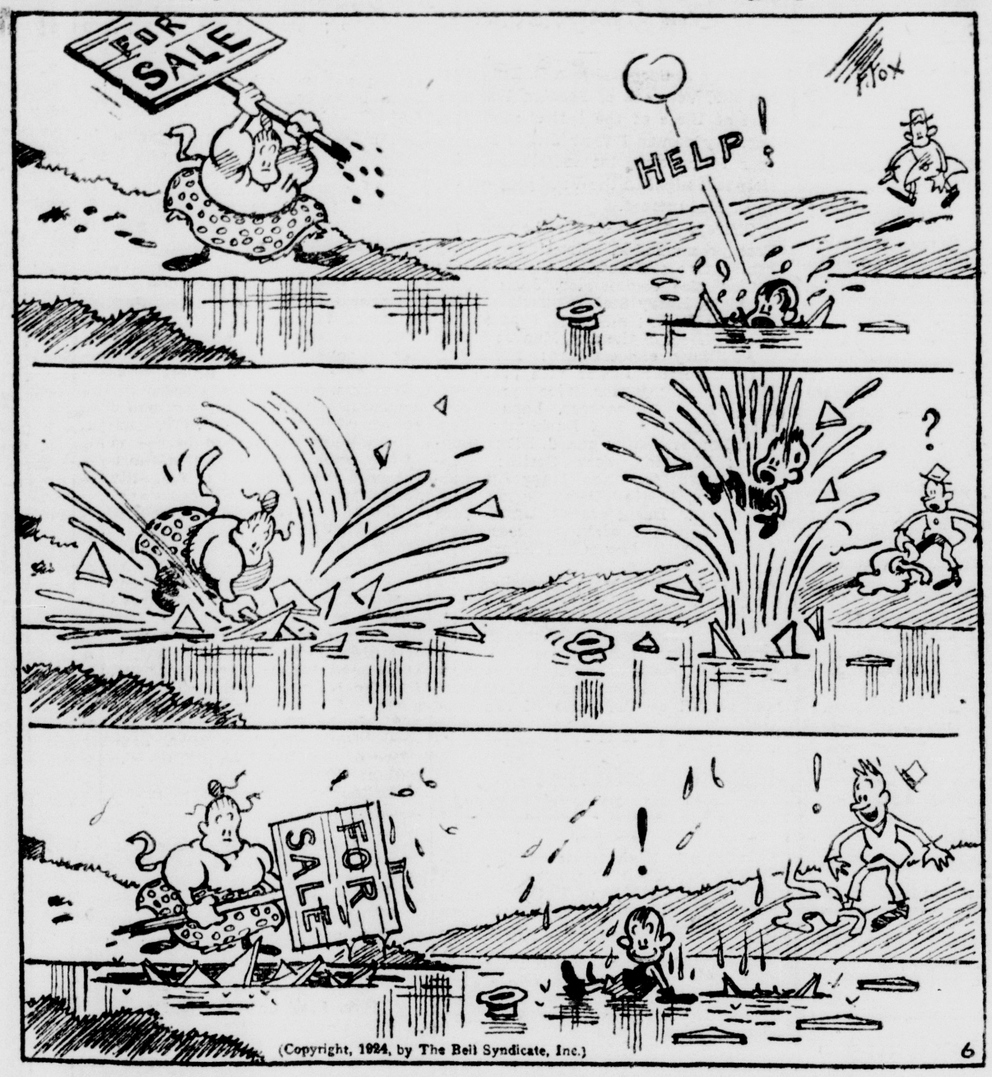

The girls' school requested by the sultan and the principals of the Moro tribes is to be established when sufficient funds are raised. Mrs. Thomas J. Emery, of Cincinnati, has just given $30,000 to erect a building for the school for girls, and the Moro Educational Foundation, as the organization in charge of the work is called, is forming local chapters in cities of the United States to raise $500,000 which would endow the foundation permanently and would finance its work among the Moros.

The Moros are not the only island people who are represented as being wild and barbarous, but who in reality are making as rapid progress as funds and assistance will permit.

The Igorots of the Philippines are often regarded as unlettered savages. Yet, in a recent debate on Philippine independence, an Igorot boy attending Central high school in Washington, D. C., upheld the right of the Philippines to independence, and won the debate.

The islands over which the American flag is flying may seem far away from what we think of as our world of civilization, but they represent not only promise, but real achievement.

The Powerful Katrinka— By Fontaine Fox

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

MANILA, Ja. 6.—The Filipino woman is taking to pharmacy. The degrees in the University of the Philippines and the private colleges are filled with young ladies preparing to concoct medicinal preparations in the little boticas, of drug stores, which dot the islands.

The chess champion of the Philippines is a Moro, Datu Alip, of Cotabato province. He can neither read nor write, but has easily cleaned up all comers among the Christian Filipinos. Alip's father—a sworn enemy of the Americans 20 years ago, but before his death an equally devoted friend—was chess champion of Moroland, so that the young man's ability runs in the family. Datu Alip sings Moro battle songs and chants from the Koran while playing. He claims the practice contributes much to his victories.

No more free speech or free press for the Filipinos! That is, if the drastic muzzling bill proposed by Representative Jesse Evangelista becomes a law at the next session of the Philippine legislature. He proposes to make it illegal for any person : : : "to use in public or in private, orally or in writing any expression detrimental to the good name of the Filipinos and their country, or to print, publish, possess, exhibit and send or circulate in the Philippines, or other countries, articles, manuscripts, photographs, postcards or cartoons, false or imaginary, which, directly or indirectly, express sentiments unfavorable to the natural aspirations of the Filipino people to be independent." A fine of not less than $25 nor more than $1,000, or subsidiary imprisonment, will be imposed on each violator of this law.

America has its hoof-and-mouth disease, and the Philippines have a somewhat allied disease, rinderpest, which is endemic in the islands, though it was stamped out in all except five municipalities about 10 years ago. But, in addition to the ever-present rinderpest, the islands are now faced with an epidemic of anthrax, more deadly than either of the other two diseases.

An epidemic last fall killed more than 10,000 carabaos, or native oxen, and was not put down until the Filipino government called on United States troops for assistance in enforcing the quarantine against moving animals from one place to another.

The United States forces have been away from the infested districts only six months, and the anthrax death rate is again increasing rapidly, especially around Manila. Five companies of native constabularly were assigned to patrol Bulacan and Bataan, nearby provinces; and several native governors and presidents (mayors have been called on the carpet by Governor General Wood.

Election comes next year, and the constituents of native elective officials complain of the drastic quarantine measures which have been imposed in order to keep the disease from spreading all over the islands. So when the constabulary arrest persons violating the quarantine and lodge them in municipal jails, the city officials let the violators out again as soon as the backs of the constabularly are turned. When an investigation ensues, the officials conveniently disappear and cannot be found. Three presidents were suspended last week, and the governor of Bulacan has been warned that his "head will fall' unless he co-operates with the insular officials in the enfocement of quarantine measures.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—I have just talked to a man whose life for 20 years has been pitched in the hurly burly of Broadway. He is a newspaperman and a shift of management sent the "old ball and chain" around the office and he found himself jobless.

There are not so many newspaper obs in New York these days, so he decided to try for a place on a newspaper he left in a little southern town to come to New York. There was an immediate reply for him to pack the kitbag and come on.

He was the most abject picture of woe I have ever seen. To him the world had come to an end. He could not garner one gleam of joy in returning to a peaceful community where he had real friends and could enjoy peace and happiness.

New York has a way of hypnotizing its sons and daughters. The bigness charms them as the snake charms the bird and after awhile they begin to believe there is no place else but Manhattan. It is the kingpin of foolish reasoning.

Once they get away and break the spell they rarely come back. They find there is more genuine living to the square inch in towns west of the metropolis than they ever found possible here. They have 10 real friends there to one fair weather friend here.

Unless a man has an enormous income it is almost impossible to own a home here unless he buys one out where the pavement ends in some straggling suburb. In the smaller city, if he is thrifty he soon becomes a home owner.

People there accept him for what he is and not because of a well-tailored suit or because he can call some stage star by first name—whether he knows him or not. As a place for the hustler to make money New York grades high, but as a place to live it total zero.

There is much talk of abandoning Manhattan Transfer—that odd place that boasts only a depot and which has given millions of newcomers the first thrill of arrival. It is only a few moments away from the big terminals. Manhattan transfer has long been the butt of comedians who refer to themselves as being may or of the place.

New York tailors are now making pickpocket proof clothes. They appeal especially to subway riders. Secret pockets are installed under the armpits in coats and are so devised that they cannot be found save by the owner. One man is said to have his pockets picked so much in the subway that for a year he has been wearing pocketless trousers.

Down in the Turkish quarter they sell native perfume for 10 cents a bottle. An it is the same perfume that a certain gilded perfumery on the avenue sells for $8 for the same sized bottle. On Allen street a lady of my acquaintance bought a dress for $65. She has a friend who bought the identical dress in the fashionable dressmaking district on West Fifty-seventh street for $282. Value in Manhattan are largely geographical. And as long as there continues to be suckers it will remain that way.

The other day with a New Yorker I had a bite to eat in one of those eat-and-run places. The waiter brought the change with a flourish and said. "Here you are, pal." The New Yorker was astounded. He could not understand why I did not rebuke him and also report him to the management. The waiter was merely being kind, according to his light. In fact I rather admired his friendliness.

TODAY

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

HEALTHY AND WISE

Miss Inez Hardin, the Mississippi girl chosen as the healthiest girl in the country, is described as a bundle of sunshine. Health and sunshine go together.

The young girl is a bundle of common sense also, and says "I'll marry when I'm 30. Not until then."

Some healthy boy may change her mind, but she would be wise to stick to her plan.

Healthy mothers have their best babies after 30, and in fact, after 35. Plato knew it more than 2,000 years ago.

AMERICA ON WHEELS

We know that America rules the world in automobile use and production, having more automobiles than all the rest of the world combined, with millions of machines to spare. How much do we ride?

This country in 1924 manufactured 46,000,000 tires. Allowing an average mileage of 6,000 miles, which is low, and dividing by four, you find that tires enough were made in one year for more than sixty-seven and a half billion miles travel—twenty-seven hundred thousand times around the earth.

A WILD WALL STREET

It was a wild stock market last Saturday, dearly beloved. The crowd bought a million and a half shares in two hours. Many buyers were sad-eyed bears compelled to protect themselves after foolish short selling.

Many stocks are low, selling at half their value. But how is the little lamb to know which are which? "Conservative" Wall Street writers tell you, "such times as these always come before a serious reaction."

Are they trying to protect you, or trying to give their friends a chance to get in the market on a drop?

The only safe rule is don't gamble.

Do with stocks as with land. Select what you think good, buy only what you can pay for and keep. Last Saturday speculators bought stocks at the rate of $750,000 a minute. Some of that will never be paid for.

JOHNNY WAS ITALIAN

Johnny Dundee, featherweight prize fight champion of the world, has been much admired, and geese that would put the Nordic race above others found in Johnny another proof of their theory, "nobody can beat a Nordic," said they. "Celt or Saxon, or old Germanic blood, that's the stuff the best men are made of."

Then Johnny Dundee retired from his championship, goes to Rome, is blessed by the pope, and proud of being the first professional prize fighter to get a papal blessing.

And, lo! you learn that your fighting "Nordic" was born in Italy, that his real name is Giuseppe Carrora. He is no Saxon or Clet, but a pure-bred Latin, descended from the old fighters that followed Caesar and helped to build his roads.

The more you learn about the Italians, the more you realize that they possess power of every kind, from the brute force that creates a featherweight champion to the high intellect that produces a Marconi, Duse or Vedi.

What applies to Italy, applies to other countries. The super-great Jack Dempsey has an Irish name and an Irish father. But part of his blood is North American Indian, otherwise Mongolian from the long ago.

Congressman Anthony, of Kansas, chairman of the committee that drafted the war department supply bill, recommends one single united air service for the United States, under separate command, subject, of course, to the president's general authority.

That is common sense, and it ought not to take congress long to pass any necessary legislation. Air fighting is new, the respectable old gentlemen of the army and navy know nothing about it, never having flown, and many of them still living in the old battleship and hansom cab days.

An air service unified, and then a real air service, should be the program.

Cotton growers, cheer up. Science says the boll weevil can be conquered. Insects find their food by scent. Attract you boll weevil by the aroma of the food that he likes, then destroy him.

They kill tigers and leopards by sound. The bleating of a tethered kid attracts them, and a bullet does the rest.

The olfactory bait for the boll weevil is being perfected by scientists. It will be prepared synthetically. The mother boll weevil will follow her nose and die of poison, with her eggs unborn. And this, mind you, is serious. Once find how to attract insect pests by smell and they are done for.

It has been proved that insects, moths, for instance, have a sense of smell of incredibly wide range, far exceeding in keenness that of any bloodhound.

William Arbuthnot Lane, great and wise British surgeon, warns women that the craze for a silhouette figure is a menace to the race.

RECOGNIZE OHIO LICENSE PLATES

Ohio 1924 license plates will be recognized in West Virginia until Jan. 15 and Michigan 1924 plates will be permitted until March 15. Both these states have encountered difficulties with their license distribution for the new year and the announcement comes as a result of an agreement with the neighboring states.

No extension of time has been allowed West Virginia motorists, however, since the ruling this year stated specifically that all cars operating on and after January 1, 1925, should bear the new license plates. A comparatively large number of autoists delayed their applications until the last few days of the year and arrests followed as a result after the advent of the new year.

FASHION KING SAYS AMERICAN GIRL IS DIANA; FRENCH MAIDEN VENUS

PARIS—"The American girl is a Diana, her French sister a Venus," declared Jean Patou, the Prince of Paris dressmakers, upon his return from the United States.

Certain of old Parisians were out of sorts when they learned he had brought with him six beautiful mannequins from the land of dollars.

"Parbleu!"—which is a very polite swearing term in French—"why import American beauties to the salons of the rue de la Paix?" they exclaimed. "Does this mean that our lovely little Parisiennes no longer know how to wear the chic creations of our fashionable designers?"

"No, not at all," answered Patou. "I went to America for my mannequins for many technical reasons. In the first place, there is a great difference between the French and the American silhouette. Sport has made a great plastic difference. The French girl is a Venus and the American a Diana, with muscles well developed, short bust and long, fine legs. I am persuaded that on Olympus Venus was dressed like Diana, for Diana is the typical 'young demoiselle" and Venus the typical woman.

"Besides, there is a fact which is much more important—namely, that a large part of my clientele is made up of American women who come especially to Paris to buy smart clothes. People who are not in the business do not realize the importance of the role of mannequins, not only in the presentation of the models, but in their creation as well. We work on the mannequin herself, sometimes during hours at a time. She is our collaborator and inspiration. She is the one who suggests what is likely to please later among the buyers.

"Thus, naturally enough, among American women, American mannequins will have the greatest success. The American girl knows how to wear her clothes to the best advantage. She has a fresh clear complexion as a rule, and it is nearly always natural.' Her her is beautiful and wevy kept, and her form particularly agreeable to look upon."

Paris usually suffers from a "crise"—the lack of something or other. At present there is the dearth of mannequins. There are few of them to be found, and these few soon turn into selling clerks, or "premieres," whose position is far more important, as well as lucrative. Patou intends to raise the standard of the mannequin and make it a profitable as well as honorable profession. Among his twenty-five or thirty French girls there are several who are now earning 30,000 or 35,000 francs a year—a handsome salary for them, although it is a bare fifteen hundred dollars.

RECOGNIZE OHIO LICENSE PLATES

Ohio 1924 license plates will be recognized in West Virginia until Jan. 15 and Michigan 1924 plates will be permitted until March 15. Both these states have encountered difficulties with their license distribution for the new year and the announcement comes as a result of an agreement with the neighboring states.

No extension of time has been allowed West Virginia motorists, however, since the ruling this year stated specifically that all cars operating on and after January 1, 1925, should bear the new license plates. A comparatively large number of autoists delayed their applications until the last few days of the year and arrests followed as a result after the advent of the new year.

FASHION KING SAYS AMERICAN GIRL IS DIANA; FRENCH MAIDEN VENUS

PARIS—"The American girl is a Diana, her French sister a Venus," declared Jean Patou, the Prince of Paris dressmakers, upon his return from the United States.

Certain of old Parisians were out of sorts when they learned he had brought with him six beautiful mannequins from the land of dollars.

"Parbleu!"—which is a very polite swearing term in French—"why imBport American beauties to the salons of the rue de la Paix?" they exclaimed. "Does this mean that our lovely little Parisiennes no longer know how to wear the chic creations of our fashionable designers?"

"No, not at all," answered Patou. "I went to America for my mannequins for many technical reasons. In the first place, there is a great difference between the French and the American silhouette. Sport has made a great plastic difference. The French girl is a Venus and the American a Diana, with muscles well developed, short bust and long, fine legs. I am persuaded that on Olympus Venus was dressed like Diana, for Diana is the typical 'young demoiselle" and Venus the typical woman.

"Besides, there is a fact which is much more important—namely, that a large part of my clientele is made up of American women who come especially to Paris to buy smart clothes. People who are not in the business do not realize the importance of the role of mannequins, not only in the presentation of the models, but in their creation as well. We work on the mannequin herself, sometimes during hours at a time. She is our collaborator and inspiration. She is the one who suggests what is likely to please later among the buyers.

"Thus, naturally enough, among American women, American mannequins will have the greatest success. The American girl knows how to wear her clothes to the best advantage. She has a fresh clear complexion as a rule, and it is nearly always natural.' Her her is beautiful and wevy kept, and her form particularly agreeable to look upon."

Paris usually suffers from a "crise"—the lack of something or other. At present there is the dearth of mannequins. There are few of them to be found, and these few soon turn into selling clerks, or "premieres," whose position is far more important, as well as lucrative. Patou intends to raise the standard of the mannequin and make it a profitable as well as honorable profession. Among his twenty-five or thirty French girls there are several who are now earning 30,000 or 35,000 francs a year—a handsome salary for them, although it is a bare fifteen hundred dollars.

Grandparents Fight For Custody of Boy; Court Must Decide

PORT HURON, Mich. —The future home of Earl Froh, 4, is to be decided in court here. The child's parents are dead, and the four grandparents are fighting for his custody.

In 1922 the court entered an order that the child should be in the custody of Mr. and Mrs. August Schultz, parents of his mother, for six months, and in the care of Mr. and Mrs. John Froh, parents of the father, for the remainder of the time. The child is now at the Froh home, and Mr. and Mrs. Schultz claim the Frohs refuse to give him up.

Cheese Sauce — Melt two tablespoons of butter in the saucepan, add two tablespoons flour and mix smooth. Gradually add one cup or more of milk, stirring gradually, and cook until it is smooth and thick. Season with half a teaspoon of salt, a little paprika or pepepr and half a cup or more of grated cheese. Cook until cheese is melted and serve over the baked potatoes.

Orange Salad—Four oranges one-half cup finely cut celery, lettuce, dressing. Remove skins from oranges and cut in pieces, discarding all the white membrane. Mix with celery and moisten thoroughly with dressing. Arrange on lettuce and put a spoonful of French dressing over the top.

Oyster and Macaroni — One pint oysters, one pint boiled macaroni, one cup white sauce, one-half cup crackers, rolled. Break and boil macaroni in salt water. Into a well greased pudding dish place drained oysters, and add macaroni, cover with white sauce, which has some of the oyster liquor in it. Sprinkle with cracker crumbs and bits of butter. Bake until the crumbs are browned.

Sweet Potato Pie—Boil enough sweet potatoes to make two cupfuls when they are mashed. Add to the potatoes one and a half cupfuls of sugar, three eggs, two cupfuls of rich milk, a saltspoonful of salt, a teaspoonful of lemon juice or extract and a saltspoonful of ground ginger. Beat these ingredients well then turn them into a deep pie plate lined with a good rich crust that has been warmed. Bake the pie in a moderate oven.

Cabbage Salad — One small onion, one small head cabbage, boiled dressing. A few stalks of celery or half a cup of raisins or chopped apple will give variety to this salad.

Rice Soup—Three cups rice water, two cups carrots, two tablespoons drippings, one tablespoon chopped onion, one tablespoon chopped celery and one tablespoon flour. Cut the carrots into small pieces and cook until tender. Heat the drippings, add the onions and celery to it and cook them five minutes without browning. Stir in the flour, add this mixture to the carrots, then add the rice water with salt and pepper to taste.

Butter Scotch Apples—Five apples, one-half tablespoon of corn starch or flour, two-thirds cup brown sugar, one-half cup water, one-eighth teaspoon salt, three-fourth cup milk, one-half teaspoon vanilla, one-half to one tablespoon butter. Wash the apples, cut them into quarters, pare and core. Into a saucepan put the sugar and water and heat; when the syrup boils add the apples. Cover and boil gently until apples are tender. Remove the apples from the syrup with a skimmer or wire egg beater, placing the fruit in sherbet glasses or other suitable dishes for serving.

In another pan mix milk and corn starch thoroughly, stir and cook until the mixture reaches the boiling point, then add it to the syrup in which the apples have been cooked. Boil for a few minutes, add the salt, butter and vanilla. Stir these into the mixture, then pour the sauce over the apples. Serve either hoto r cold for a dessert.

IRONING HINT

Chiffon and crepe de chine dresses, etc., should be ironed directly on the surface on the wrong side, with a warm iron (not damped), and hung in the air for an hour before wearing or putting away—otherwise they will crease. Mauve and gray crepe de chine turn color while being ironed, but the natural color returns when they are cold.

SUGGESTIONS

Bristle brushes wash well if care is taken not to let them soak in hot water long enough to loosen the bristles from the handles. Brooms and brushbrooms also may be washed by dipping them in a pail of soapy ammonia water, then rinsing them in clean, cold water. Shake off the water and dry them, hanging them in the sunlight. Careful washing does not soften bristles.

One can save themselves a good deal of work in dishwashing if one is careful. For instance, the Dover egg beater need never be washed in the dishpan. Hold it under the cold water faucet in the sink as soon as you finish using it and then lay it on the top of the stove to dry with the heat of the oven. With care only the lower part of the beater will need washing. If allowed to stand it is usually very hard to wash.

To those who buy a whole ham at one time: After cutting what you wish for a meal spread the cut surface with a thin layer of lard. This keeps it fresh and prevents drying out, while the lard may be scraped off and used again.

Anyone who has picked the feathers from a duck knows how hard it is to get all the down off. First pick out the big feathers and pin feathers as you would a chicken. Then pour melted paraffin over the duck where it is fuzzy, and as soon as this is cool or set, peel it off, which will take off the fuzz nice and clean and leave the skin unbroken.

Ousted Tenants Take House as They Move; Owner Given Shock

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Mrs. Ida Ragsdale is trying to recover a home that she had rented out and which the renters lifted bodily out of her lot and placed on an adoining lot that they had purchased.

And the act, Mrs. Ragsdale said, had additional aggravating circumstances for the reason the house was moved after the occupants had failed to pay their rent and Mrs. Ragsdale secured an ouster against them. When the court ordered the renters to vacate they secured hired help to aid them in moving it.

New Laundry Danger Studied.

Modern laundry workers using gas heated ironing machines have been found to become affected by carbon monoxide poisoning such as in more serious form attacks garage workers when they work on an automobile in a closed area, when the motor is running. Indigestion and a metallic taste, headache and profuse sweating of some of the victims led to investigation which revealed the slow but steady effect of the carbon monoxide coming from the gas heated irons. Steps to remedy the situation are being taken and no great anxiety is felt.

A pretty ceremony took place this morning at 9 o'clock in the Sacred Heart church of Chester, when Miss Mary Loretta Leary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Daniel Leary of Indiana avenue, Chester, became the bride of William J. Quigley Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Quigley Sr. of Gratz street, Philadelphna. Rev. William J. Sauer, pastor of the church, officiated.

To the strains of the wedding march, played by Mrs. C. P. Horrigan, the bridal party took their places before the altar banked with palms, ferns and flowers.

The bridesmaids were Miss Agnes Miskall of East Liverpool, who was gowned in orchid chiffon, wore a hat of black lace and carried a bouquet of pink rosebuds, and Miss Kathryn McDonnough of Parkersburg, W. Preceding and during the ceremony Miss Julia McDonnough of Parkersburg sang "Oh! Promise Me" and "At Dawning."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white panne velvet. Her veil was caught in place with orange blossoms and rhinestones. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

The bridegroom is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, with the class of 1924, and is a public accountant.

Following the ceremony a reception and wedding breakfast was served in the home of the bride's parents, covers being arranged for 20 persons.

Among the out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. William J. Quigley Sr. of Philadelphia, Pa.; Misses Delia, Julia and Katheryn McDonnough, P. J. McDonnough and Bernard McDonnough of Parkersburg, W. Va., and Joseph Walsh of Philadelphia.

Work away the small words, the "easy" words, first, and they will give you plenty of clues to the difficult ones.

Commissioners Hold Long Session After Naming Officers.

The new board of county commissioners got a regular work-out after they were sworn in Monday. In fact more business was brought before them than the old board had to attend to for several months.

By way of levity, Patrick McNicol, of East Liverpool, one of the retiring members of the board, stood before the new board a minute after he left his chair and petitioned the new board for the improvement of the river road "extending from the eastern termini of East Liverpool and the Ohio-Pennsylvania state line to Midland, Pa."

"We have no money for a job like that," replied Commissioner J. C. Kelly.

"You were a member of this board of commissioners?" queried Commissioner Conrad Berg.

"Yes, I was," replied Mr. McNicol.

"Then why in the dickens didn't you improve the road while you were on the job?"

The old board of commissioners required about an hour to wind up all old business. A few minutes were spent in the new members of the board being congratulated upon their taking seats as public officers, the first to congratulate Mr. Kelly and Mr. Bye being County Commissioner Berg.

It was Mr. Kelly who made the motion that Mr. Berg be elected chairman of the board as the law provides.

Mr. Bye made the motion that Lemuel Johnson be continued as clerk of the board.

It was following these motions that Mr. McNicol went before the new board and asked that the "Midland road be improved."

It was a short while after Mr. McNicol had made this request, when John T. French, residing in the west section of West township was introduced to the new board and made the first protest. Mr. French declared that "60 per cent of the people of West township did not want the East Rochester-Georgetown road improved as it had been planned."

The commissioners seemed stunned.

"This is the first time that any objections has ever been made about the improvement of this road since I have been a member of this board," put in Mr. Berg. "This road has been graded for the last three years and never a voice has been raised against the surfacing of it. What's it all about?"

Mr. French explained that the people he represented did not oppose the surfacing of the 2.44 miles of the road north of East Rochester, but that his friends were opposed to the route north of that terminal point.

"You'll have to show us something more," continued Mr. Berg. "You'll have to get a petition asking for a relocation of the road before we can do anything. "You understand," Mr. Berg suggested, "that this road has been graded for more than three years. Not a voice has been raised against the surfacing."

"Well, you see that two of the old trustees of West township wanted an improved road past their property, and the new road would be of greater benefit to the township," said Mr. French.

"Bring in your petition and we'll give it every consideration," declared Mr. Kelly and the conference was at an end.

Then came along the trustees of Hanover township. Frank Cox of Kensington, a member of the board of trustees, explained to the commissioners that the trustees had $42,000 they wanted to put into the improvement of the Hanover-Salem road and wanted the commissioners to "come along."

"We'll do what we can, but what's the matter with taking this matter up with the state highway department and having a three-way agreement wherein the trustee, commissioners and state share in the cost," said Mr. Berg.

"Well we have the money and we want to do something," declared Mr. Cox.

Several years ago the state highway department approved the plans for the improvement of this road in Hanover township from Hanover north to the Butler township line. No grading on this road has been done in Hanover township, although the road had been graded in Butler township.

Mr. Cox was of the opinion that some grading and surfacing could be done on this road this year, but it was the opinion of the commissioners that grading should be done this year and the road surfaced its entire length next year.

The improvement of this road will be discussed between the commissioners and the Hanover trustees within a few weeks.

Another interesting road project looked with favor upon by the new commissioners is the improvement of the East Palestine-Negley road from Crum's hill to the East Palestine corporation line.

County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk has notified the commissioners that it will cost approximately $34,000 to improve this strip of highway with hillside paving block on an 8.6 per cent grade.

The commissioners were of the opinion that the road should be made on a grade of seven per cent and surfaced with concrete. Another estimate is sought by the commissioners on this basis.

However, it has been agreed that when this road is ready for letting, bids will be asked for both brick and concrete top. Should the road be graded to 7 per cent, about 5,000 additional yards of grading will be necessary, the additional grading being in limestone rock.

The improvement of the Elkton-Negley road is also on the program for improvement during the coming year, and also the resurfacing of the Elkton-Lisbon road.

Touching Reunion In "Life's Greatest Game" at Ceramic

A family reunion which for real pathos and drama has seldom been surpassed in the annals of motion picture production forms the big closing scene of Emory Johnson's sixth F. B. O. triumph, "Life's Greatest Game," at the Ceramic theatre Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. The picture, which is the high water mark of its brilliant director thus far, despite such previous successes as "The Third Alarm" and "The Spirit of the U. S. A.," is destined to set up new box office records, if its pre-views in Los Angeles and vicinity can be taken as a criterion.

The theme deals with the difficulties of Jack Donovan, his wife, and young son. Through the machinations of an unscrupulous gambler, Jack, who is a major league pitcher and star of the old-time Chicago Cubs, becomes estranged from his family. On the eve of their departure for Europe, the husband is brought to believe his wife unfaithful, and departs from the house in anger. The Titanic, on which Mrs. Donovan and Jackie Jr. sail, is lost at sea, and the names of the mother and child appear on the casualty list.

For 20 years Jack Donovan goes on with his baseball career, always mourning the loss of his family. Meanwhile young Jack grows up, becomes a college baseball star, and is picked up by a big team scout. Eventually he lands as a rookie with the team his father manages, the New York Giants. Eventually, he, too wins a world's series, and turns apparent defeat into victory.

It is then that father and son come to know their real relation, for the boy has been playing under an assumed name. Subsequent developments form a most engrossing tale.

Cod Liver Oil Now in Tasteless Tablets

Greatest Flesh Builder

No more will weak, thin, unfortunate children cry in protest when the nasty, fishy-tasting, horrible-smelling cod liver oil is brought out.

Medical science progresses rapidly, and now you can get at your druggist's real, genuine cod liver oil in sugar-coated tablets that young and old can take with ease and pleasure.

Even the run-down and skinny grown-ups, who ought to take cod liver oil, because it really is the greatest vitamine food and builder of healthy flesh in the world, will feel extremely joyful when they read this welcome news.

Of course, doctors have been prescribing cod liver oil in tablets under another name for several years, but it is only of late that one can walk into a drug store and get a box of these flesh-producing tablets just as easy as a bottle of cough syrup.

Thin, run-down, anaemic men, women and children who need to grow strong and take on flesh are advised to get a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, and if you don't gain 5 pounds in 30 days just get your money back.

One woman gained fifteen pounds in five weeks, according to her own doctor — another ten pounds in three weeks. A very sickly child, aged nine, twelve pounds in seven months, and now plays with other children and has a good appetite.

Just task for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets. Anderson, Larkin, Carnahan and Mathew's Medicine store or any good druggist will tell you that they are wonderful flesh and health builders. Only 60 cents for 60 tablets, and don't forget that they are wonder workers for feeble old folks.

Be sure and get McCoy's, the original and genuine.

Greatest Flesh Builder

No more will weak, thin, unfortunate children cry in protest when the nasty, fishy-tasting, horrible-smelling cod liver oil is brought out.

Medical science progresses rapidly, and now you can get at your druggist's real, genuine cod liver oil in sugar-coated tablets that young and old can take with ease and pleasure.

Even the run-down and skinny grown-ups, who ought to take cod liver oil, because it really is the greatest vitamine food and builder of healthy flesh in the world, will feel extremely joyful when they read this welcome news.

Of course, doctors have been prescribing cod liver oil in tablets under another name for several years, but it is only of late that one can walk into a drug store and get a box of these flesh-producing tablets just as easy as a bottle of cough syrup.

Thin, run-down, anaemic men, women and children who need to grow strong and take on flesh are advised to get a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, and if you don't gain 5 pounds in 30 days just get your money back.

One woman gained fifteen pounds in five weeks, according to her own doctor — another ten pounds in three weeks. A very sickly child, aged nine, twelve pounds in seven months, and now plays with other children and has a good appetite.

Jus task for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets. Anderson, Larkin, Carnahan and Mathew's Medicine store or any good druggist will tell you that they are wonderful flesh and health builders. Only 60 cents for 60 tablets, and don't forget that they are wonder workers for feeble old folks.

Be sure and get McCoy's, the original and genuine.

By Elizabeth Dejeans

He looked down, stood in profound thought. When he looked up, he was smiling faintly, his vivid eyes half appealing, half dominant; it was the expression which had brought him bushels of feminine notes when she had starred in "Bachelors' Quarters;" the expression which would make him beloved of women always. "Kara, dear, let us forget it," he pleaded. "We each have something to forgive, and it will make love the sweeter. Give me a chance—let me win you again. Let us assume that we are as free as on the day when we first met each other—do you remember it? By the Hakidoshi lily pond? I am a better sort than I was, dear. I haven't lived badly these five years. Forgive me what I've said and done in anger—all these years I've both loved you and been angry with you. Hasn't it been the same with you? It must have been." There was earnest pleading in every word. "I'll ask nothing, only the privilege of seeing you often, no more than you gave me before we were married. I shall try to persuade you to marry me all over again." He took her hand and kissed it, laid his cheek against it. "Will you, dear?"

"How can I?" she pleaded. "You don't realize. I have lived a whole lifetime in these five years. I'm not the same girl you knew. I had been sheltered and guarded always—now I am an experienced woman. When I left you, I went to Honolulu. When I didn't hear from you, I went to Russia, to the Karesia. We starved, Rand—not a cent of my income reached me. Oh, I learned all about life! I am not the girl you knew—you would only be disappointed."

"And you emerged Sonya Karesia, a talented woman. I love success, Kara—what you have made of yourself makes me want you the more."

"But I think and feel so differently."

"You just told me that you had been sorry—many times," he objected.

"I have been sorry—that I never really loved you. If I had, I could never have left you. I have wanted love and a husband and children and a home—I have been lonely enough to die, often and often. But I had rather go on to the end of my days, as I am, than to make another mistake, disappoint you, hurt you more than I have."

Rossiter kept her hand in his clasp. "And you come to it by degrees, didn't you—the intention to free yourself if you could and look for all those things that lie right here, now, in your little hand?" He smiled at her, a fugitive sort of smile.

"Yes," she confessed.

"Well, I've told you to consider yourself free and myself as a suitor. Nobody knows, there will be no embarrassment to you. You can hardly refuse me that small favor, Kara?"

Karesia realized how well he knew her; how utterly impossible it would be for her to refuse. He knew what had kept her as she was all these years, the feeling of a duty thrown aside in an hour of anger and disgust, deep in her the feeling that she had no right to seek freedom.

"If you wish it," she said. "But I can promise nothing."

He caught her to him and kissed her. "There is nothing on earth I wish more! I am not asking you to promise anything—I'm going to make you love me. I want you to see my house, your house—and meet my friends. They'll be interested to meet Sonya Karesia—they like people who do things well. And I am as proud as a king of you." He started for the door, turned, and looked at her. "There will be no violence, I promise you, Kara. John Dascome thinks twice before he shoots—before he does anything. You'll know all about it in time."

XXI

After the door had closed on Rositer, Karesia breathed herself back to calmness; to utter weariness and depression, rather. She had done the best she could, and as honestly and as wisely as she could; why think of it? There was the girl upstairs to be considered.

Karesia smoothed her hair and went up to her. Mary Bliss was kneeling beside the bed, changing the damp cloths on Clarice's forehead. She lifted her filmed gaze to Karesia. "She's so pretty," she mumbled softly. "She's getting better." For the first time, Karesia saw what might be taken for a smile on Mary Bliss' twisted face.

Even in her flushed stupor, a limp thing in their hands when she and Mary Bliss had undressed her, Karesia had been struck by the girl's beauty. Clarice was less flushed now and ser slightly parted lips were lovely in line and color. Rich auburn hair, wavy and bobbed, formed a halo about a face whose features were as clear-cut as those of a cameo, exquisitely chiselled features, a face classic in outline, wonderfully beautiful. Her brows and lashes extremely thick and long. She was a slim young thing, very young, not more than seventeen or eighteen, Karesia judged, and as lovely of body as she was of feature, as exquisitely fair as an opening rose. Had her mother been as beautiful? Karesia wondered . . . . And her child drunk! Like any bedraggled woman of the street! The pity of it! "She is suffering for the sins of her parents," Dascome had said, and for the first time Karesia thought definitely of Dascome's wife—another ache added to her collection.

Karesia asked Mary Bliss, "Are you tired? Shall I do that now?"

Karesia brought her a footstool to sit on. Then she moved about lightly, made a place in her closet for Clarice's clothes, and selected a neglige for her use. On a chair lay the diamond-studded locket with a slender hain attached which they had removed when they undressed her; the girl had the locket next her bosom—it had not been worn for ornament. Karesia took it to her dressing table. Then a suddenly formulated desire, a swift longing to know what Dascome's wife had been like, urged her to open the locket.

It was not a woman's face she saw framed in the gold; it was Rossiter's face, faintly smiling, expressive eyes appealing yet dominant, the look that had brought her to him when she was somewhat older than Clarice but less experienced. As Rossiter had looked at her only a few moments before.

BIG MINSTREL SHOW TONIGHT

Al G. Field Galaxy of Stars at Ceramic Theatre.

"An African Barber Shop," with Nick Hufford, Harry Frankel, Harry Shunk, Jack Kennedy and Johnny Healy, is one of the features of the Thirty-eighth annual edition of the Al. G. Field Minstrel show, which comes to the Ceramic theatre Tuesday evening.

These clever comedians are known throughout the country, and their comedy keeps the audience in a constant uproar. Nick Hufford has been with the Field organization for many years, and is billed as "a loose page from the book of fun." Harry Frankel has gained fame in vaudeville and musical comedy, and Harry Shunk doubled for Heath and McIntyre in "Hello Alexander," last season. Johnny Healy is the original "Old Black Joe," and hischaracterization is one of the most appealing ever seen on the stage.

The Al. G. Field Minstrels come to East Liverpool with all the old favorites who have become famous on the minstrel stage.

Grand Opera Really Combination of Drama, Tragedy and Comedy

What is Grand Opera?

That is the question asked by thousands each year. Mainly by those who have never attended a complete performance of a lyric masterpiece. Is grand opera "a lot of noise, shouted in a foreign tongue by a bunch of Wop singers who can keep going by the week?" as one man described it. Is it highbrow entertainment, for the select few who know—or think they know something about musical technique?

Grand opera is drama, tragedy and comedy, the same as is seen in any theatre where legitimate performances of plays are presented. It is the setting of naratives based on age-old situations of love, hate, jealousy, and greed, to immortal music, which for sheer beauty, cannot be duplicated elsewhere. Itis a human, gripping, exquisitely lovely production, which combines the arts which please the eye, delight the ear and satisfy the imagination. That is grand opera.

Barriers of language fall before the perfection that is insisted upon in grand opera. It matters little what the exact words of the French or Italian opera are, when the artists so clearly portray the story that a child of ten would understand it.

It is not exclusive entertainment for the "highbrow." Do not the little cobblers, the bootblacks, the newspaper vendors throng to hear the opera? Are not the galleries of the great opera houses packed by the middle and poorer classes of every community, whose souls appreciate the beauty of the performances? And are they not just as well entertained as the gorgeously gowned matrons, the sleek men of the Diamond Horeshoe and the parquet floor? Grand opera is universal; it is the entertainment for everyone. There is no one, irrespective of station, position of mentality who does not respond to sheer beauty of scene or tone, and therefore the opera appeals to all.

Fortune Gallo, impresario of the San Carlo Grand Opera company, which is engaged for a brief local visit at the Ceramic theatre Thursday, January 15th, affords an eloquent example of the almost unlimited possibilities that exist in this country. Of Italian birth he came to the United States as an immigrant at the age of seventeen with exactly twenty-nine cents in the world. Love of music led his activities in that direction, first in association with bands and later with lyric organizations. Today the San Carlo Company, the greatest touring grand opera organization in the world, exists as a monument to his tireless efforts.

Past and present owners of Al. G. Field's Minstrels, at the Ceramic tonight.

BIG MINSTREL SHOW TONIGHT

Al G. Field Galaxy of Stars at Ceramic Theatre.

"An African Barber Shop," with Nick Hufford, Harry Frankel, Harry Shunk, Jack Kennedy and Johnny Healy, is one of the features of the Thirty-eighth annual edition of the Al. G. Field Minstrel show, which comes to the Ceramic theatre Tuesday evening.

These clever comedians are known throughout the country, and their comedy keeps the audience in a constant uproar. Nick Hufford has been with the Field organization for many years, and is billed as "a loose page from the book of fun." Harry Frankel has gained fame in vaudeville and musical comedy, and Harry Shunk doubled for Heath and McIntyre in "Hello Alexander," last season. Johnny Healy is the original "Old Black Joe," and hischaracterization is one of the most appealing ever seen on the stage.

The Al. G. Field Minstrels come to East Liverpool with all the old favorites who have become famous on the minstrel stage.

Grand Opera Really Combination of Drama, Tragedy and Comedy

What is Grand Opera?

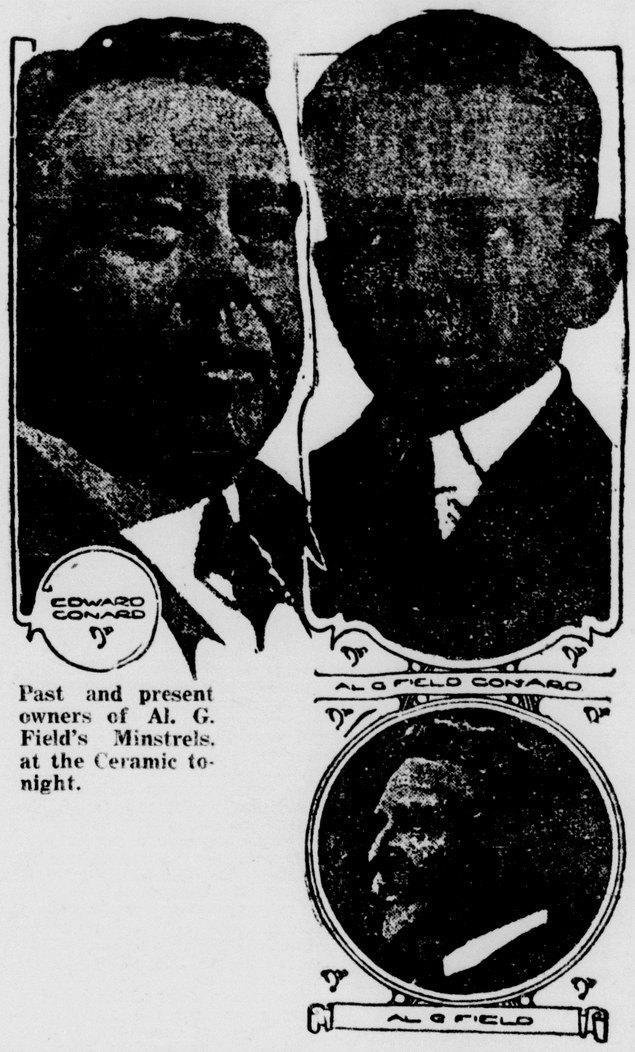

That is the question asked by thousands each year. Mainly by those who have never attended a complete performance of a lyric masterpiece. Is grand opera "a lot of noise, shouted in a foreign tongue by a bunch of Wop singers who can keep going by the week?" as one man described it. Is it highbrow entertainment, for the select few who know—or think they know something about musical technique?

Grand opera is drama, tragedy and comedy, the same as is seen in any theatre where legitimate performances of plays are presented. It is the setting of naratives based on age-old situations of love, hate, jealousy, and greed, to immortal music, which for sheer beauty, cannot be duplicated elsewhere. Itis a human, gripping, exquisitely lovely production, which combines the arts which please the eye, delight the ear and satisfy the imagination. That is grand opera.

Barriers of language fall before the perfection that is insisted upon in grand opera. It matters little what the exact words of the French or Italian opera are, when the artists so clearly portray the story that a child of ten would understand it.

It is not exclusive entertainment for the "highbrow." Do not the little cobblers, the bootblacks, the newspaper vendors throng to hear the opera? Are not the galleries of the great opera houses packed by the middle and poorer classes of every community, whose souls appreciate the beauty of the performances? And are they not just as well entertained as the gorgeously gowned matrons, the sleek men of the Diamond Horseshoe and the parquet floor? Grand opera is universal; it is the entertainment for everyone. There is no one, irrespective of station, position of mentality who does not respond to sheer beauty of scene or tone, and therefore the opera appeals to all.

Fortune Gallo, impresario of the San Carlo Grand Opera company, which is engaged for a brief local visit at the Ceramic theatre Thursday, January 15th, affords an eloquent example of the almost unlimited possibilities that exist in this country. Of Italian birth he came to the United States as an immigrant at the age of seventeen with exactly twenty-nine cents in the world. Love of music led his activities in that direction, first in association with bands and later with lyric organizations. Today the San Carlo Company, the greatest touring grand opera organization in the world, exists as a monument to his tireless efforts.

Runyon Says

Fred Merkle is Probably Smiling. Baseball Now Wants His WISDOM. One He Was Called Game's Dunce. Here's That "Greatest" Argument. The Value of Amateur Boxing.

Copyright, 1925, International Feature Service, Inc.

BY DAMON RUNYON

FRED MERKLE may return to the big leagues as a coach. A coach is supposed to be a man of superior baseball knowledge—a wise man.

Merkle, now with Rochester, in the International League, is wanted by the New York Yankees to handle young pitchers, to direct base running and to perform the other duties assigned to a coach.

Fred Merkle, as a youngster, gained vast notoriety sixteen years ago as a sort of baseball dunce. In an important game between the New York Giants and the Chicago Cubs Merkle, then a member of the Giants, failed to touch second.

If you are too young to remember the incident your father can tell you all about it. It was the chief topic of baseball discussion at the time.

For years Merkle traveled the National League circuit with the reputation, quite undeserved, as baseball's most stupid player.

He was called "bonehead." In fact, Merkle and his play produced this term—now a common expression. To "Merkle" was to commit a dumb act.

Merkle must have undergone the keenest mental torture and humiliation all those years. The average man would have been driven into obscurity, perhaps to some rash behavior. Of course, Merkle's mistake was greatly exaggerated. The same play had been made time and again in big league baseball and gone unnoticed.

It is an unfortunate fact that mistakes is sport are often grossly magnified.

A young football player may muff a punt in a big college game and be recalled years afterward only by that one incident. An error of this sort has even been known to seriously affect a sensitive soul in later life.

SPORT IS NOT THAT IMPORTANT.

Markle, rather a thoughtful man, is perhaps smiling ironically over the Yankees' effort to secure him for his baseball wisdom, and recalling the words of Friedrich Von Logan:

"Though the mills of God grind slowly, yet they grind exceedingly small; Though with patience He stands waiting, with exactness grinds He all."

You can always stir up an argument in sport by an expression of opinion.

That's what makes sport interesting Everybody has an opinion.

Mr. T. E. Higgins, of Orange, N. J., isn't a tall in accord with the opinion put forward in this column that Christy Mathewson was the greatest pitcher of all time.

Mr. Higgins says a pitcher should be judged from every angle—his endurance, number of runs earned against him, individual feats, percentage of victories.

On this basis Mr. Harding thinks Denton T. Young, called "Cy," is entitled to the distinction of being called the all-time greatest.

Many old-timers will probably agree with Mr. Higgins. "Cy" Young, long since retired from the game, but still alive, was a tremendous pitcher.

The writer long ago, musing on the scarcity of Jewish heavyweights, said he could name but three—Yale Okun, Dan Lieber and Dan Bright, the Englishman.

He forgot a fourth, Murray Gitlitz, of New Haven, a member of the Olympic team of 1924, who has turned professional. Gitlitz holds

Attempt to Force Landis to Expose Scandal 'Dope'

PRESBYTERIANS ARE VICTORS

Junior and Senior Teams Win Games From Baptists.

First Presbyterian basketball fives were victorious over the First Baptist aggregation in Sunday school league contests played last night on the First M. E. floor.

The Presbyterian Juniors had an easy time with the Baptist Juniors, winning 41 to 0, while the Presbyterians won the main game from the Baptists by the score of 25 to 11.

The game between Seniors was rough at times.

The Baptists found the Presbyterians defense hard to penetrate for the Baptists could only toss the ball in the nets three times during the contest for double pointers.

The Presbyterians took the lead at the start and held it all through the game, the first quarter ending 11 to 5.

In the second quarter the Presbyterians increased their lead, adding five more points to their tally while their opponents failed to score, the count standing 16 to 5 at the end of the first half.

During the third quarter the Presbyterians slightly increased their lead over their opponnets, leading 21 to 8 at the close of the period.

The playing in final quarter was just as rough as the other three, the Presbyterians finding the basket for four more points while their opponents was making three. Both fives were off in their chances to score from the foul line, the Baptists missing 23 out of 28 chances while the Presbyterians could not make good only five out of 19.

Mutt Cooper, the dimutive forward for the Presbyterians, was the scoring star of the game, tossing the ball in the nets six times for field goals.

Bough and Todd were the other important factors in the Presbyterians victory.

G. Mackey, Wilson, and Kittridge were the outstanding players for the First Baptists.

In the Junior contest, Feit, Wildblood, Todd and Swaney were the stars for the Presbyterian Juniors, while Parsons, Kittridge, and Fugate played the best for the Baptists.

100,000 Signatures Expected to Petition Calling Upon "Czar" of Baseball to Reveal Details to Public.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—The O'Connell-Dolan skeleton in baseball's closet was playing castanets with its knee caps today as a result of the action of George Kelly and Sammy Bohne, of the Giants and Reds, respectively, in attempting to team up with the discredited Jimmy O'Connell on a Pacific coast basketball team.

The action indicated that all is not eau de cologne in Denmark and crystallized sentiment in favor of Judge Landis making public the complete testimony in baseball's latest scandal, something he has declined to do to date.

Several minor leaguers were involved in the venture, but that is of slight consequence. Neither is the fact that an attempt was made to evade the issue by having Kelly and O'Connell play alternate games nor that O'Connell was subsequently let out by the coast management in order to save Kelly further embarrassment.

The thing that has smote the public right between the eyebrows is that Kelly was one of three players absolved of complicity in the O'Connell business and that some 15 months ago Bohne was called upon the carpet to explain a story that appeared in a Chicago publication, charging him with attempted game jugglery at the behest of gamblers. Pat Duncan also was involved in the charges. He has been wafted out of the major leagues in the last month or so, for reasons not altogether clear.

These are the men who planned to identify themselves with what John A. Heydler terms "a self-confessed fakir." If John has his way, both will suffer suspension, even though it was only the spirit and not the letter of baseball's dignity that was flouted. But the end is not yet.

Only a few hours before this latest development of the scandal was aired, a local newspaper had started a campaign by which it was hoped the fans would force Landis' hand in the matter of the O'Connell-Dolan testimony. The publication in question is printing a petition to the judge to be signed by fans who wish to know about the matter. The petition reads in part:

"As a baseball fan who supports the game at the box office, I feel that I am entitled to all the evidence you may have discovered in the Dolan-O'Connell bribery scandal. I realize that you may be withholding some of the evidence in order to further your investigations into the matter but believe that the time has come when all the testimony pretaining to the scandal be laid before the public."

Those behind the campaign frankly state that they expect to obtain 100,000 signatures, no less, to the petition.

It may or may not, however, have an effect on Landis' policy of dignified silence, the judge being a man of granite, right or wrong. But it would seem to indicate the temper of the public provided that uncertain medium of sentiment responds in the manner expected.

If the public does respond, it will indicate that it is far from satisfied that Judge Landis was justified in blacklisting Cozy Dolan on O'Connell's testimony and giving absolution to Kelly, Frank Frisch and Ross Young, charged by the same man with having guilty knowledge of the attempted bribery.

NURMI READY TO HIT BOARDS

New Records Anticipated in Tonight's Races.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—Paavo Nurmi, featuring the finest set of running legs in the history of athletics, will display his flying shanks before the American public for the first time tonight at Madison Square Garden in what has been tremed "the race of the century." Just what race is referred to is not made clear. Nurmi will go to the post in two races, a mile and five thousand metre event, and in each he will take on the greatest runners this side of the Atlantic.

He will be a lone Finn against the flower of America's athletic colony, yet the man who won four races at the Paris olympics will have the crowd with him. The pro-Nurmi sentiment has been fostered not only on account of his great ability but because the cards seem stacked against him. He will find the board floor tracks just as difficult to negotiate as did Josef Guillemot, the Frenchman, several years ago.

He will also find Willia Ritola, a fellow countryman, waiting for the gun in the five thousand metre race but not with the extended hand of friendship. The compatriots are bitter enemies.

On form alone, Nurmi would be an odds—on favorite to win both events. But with the existing conditions, the critics give Ritola better than an outside chance to defeat Nurmi at five thousand metres and also look for the rejuvenated Joie Ray to give the Finn the race of his life at the mile. Jimmy Connolly, Lloyd Hahn, Walter Higgins, Leo Larrivee and Lowendahl, a second rate field, make up the rest of the field in this race.

Nurmi has been declared to be in excellent condition for his American debut and has requested that special timers be placed at 1,500 metres and three miles during the two races. This indicates that he hopes to break no less than four records during the evening.

Will Devote Entire Time to Gym Classes and Athletic Teams

Move Made by Board of Education to Promote Physical Program as Well as Mental; Plan Expected to Boost Sports in General.

O. V. Boone.

O. V. Boone, of Hookstown, former New Castle high school sports mentor, who, since the fall of 1923 has been coaching East Liverpool scholastic squads, will be placed in charge of all school athletics here as director of physical education, beginning with the second semester which starts the latter part of the month.

His appointment was made by members of the board of education last night.

Up until the present time, Mr. Boone has been coaching athletic squads at the local school and, in addition, instructing students in scholastic work.

Under the new order he will drop his work as class instructor and devote all his time to the promotion of physicial education.

Superintendent of Schools F. P. Geiger was instructed by the school board to secure another teacher who will take Mr. Boone's place in the class rooms.

Tentative plans of the board of education call for the organization, by Mr. Boone and school officials, of classes in gymnasium work, where physicial education will share attention with the mental. These classes will be for both girls and boys and undoubtedly will call for as much attention from the student as his regular course of studies.

Under the new plan, Boone will also keep a watchful eye on the upper grades, encouraging athletics among the future high school students. His advice will be sought in the organization of football, baseball basketball and other teams in grades. This method is expected to improve high school athletics thru the preparation of potential stars of the gridiron or cage while they are still in the grade departments.

In the opinion of members of the board of education the gymnasium, under present conditions, is practically useless, excepting for basketball. They asserted that it should be used more for balancing of physical development with mental instruction. In order to put into effect their plans it was necessary to engage a full time instructor.

Boone first took charge of the football squad in the fall of 1923 after joining the local school staff. He later handled the basketball and other squads. He continued with a similar program at the start of the 1924 term, handling both football and basketball squads.

RACE SCHEDULE STILL SECRET

Atlanta and Aurora, Ill., May Land Dates, However.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 6.—Aurora, Ill., and Atlanta will be granted racing dates in the Grand Circuit, when the stewards announce their schedules, it was authoritatively learned today. Atlanta will probably see the trotters and pacers for one week, beginning October 12, while Aurora may be given dates between Columbus and Kalamazoo. The schedule is still a carefully guarded secret, and may not be announced today.

A veil of secrecy was also thrown about the proposed changes in the rules, which would provide for claiming races in the slower classes, classification of horses upon the "win race" basis, rather than time as at present, and registration of trotters and pacers in a manner similar to that now used for running horses. Prediction was made, however, that probably all of these innovations, marking radical changes in the Grand Circuit rules, would be adopted.

MEEHAN ACCEPTS NEW YORK OFFER

NEW YORK, Jan. 6—Although John F. "Chick" Meehan, Syracuse football coach, is said to have been in receipt of offers from Nebraska and Southern California, a definite report was in circulation today that he had accepted the offer of New York university and had even gone so far as to lease a house for his family on University Heights, this city.

Notification to this effect is said to have been wired Harry Sthuldreher, all-American quarterback at Notre Dame, and other candidates for the post, made vacant by the resignation of Tom Thorp.

Of course, Merkle's mistake was greatly exaggerated. The same play had been made time and again in big league baseball and gone unnoticed.

It is an unfortunate fact that mistakes is sport are often grossly magnified.

A young football player may muff a punt in a big college game and be recalled years afterward only by that one incident. An error of this sort has even been known to seriously affect a sensitive soul in later life.

SPORT IS NOT THAT IMPORTANT.

Markle, rather a thoughtful man, is perhaps smiling ironically over the Yankees' effort to secure him for his baseball wisdom, and recalling the words of Friedrich Von Logan:

"Though the mills of God grind slowly, yet they grind exceedingly small; Though with patience He stands waiting, with exactness grinds He all."

You can always stir up an argument in sport by an expression of opinion.

That's what makes sport interesting Everybody has an opinion.

Mr. T. E. Higgins, of Orange, N. J., isn't a tall in accord with the opinion put forward in this column that Christy Mathewson was the greatest pitcher of all time.

Mr. Higgins says a pitcher should be judged from every angle—his endurance, number of runs earned against him, individual feats, percentage of victories.

On this basis Mr. Harding thinks Denton T. Young, called "Cy," is entitled to the distinction of being called the all-time greatest.

Many old-timers will probably agree with Mr. Higgins. "Cy" Young, long since retired from the game, but still alive, was a tremendous pitcher.

The writer long ago, musing on the scarcity of Jewish heavyweights, said he could name but three—Yale Okun, Dan Lieber and Dan Bright, the Englishman.

He forgot a fourth, Murray Gitlitz, of New Haven, a member of the Olympic team of 1924, who has turned professional. Gitlitz holds

Attempt to Force Landis to Expose Scandal 'Dope'

PRESBYTERIANS ARE VICTORS

Junior and Senior Teams Win Games From Baptists.

First Presbyterian basketball fives were victorious over the First Baptist aggregation in Sunday school league contests played last night on the First M. E. floor.

The Presbyterian Juniors had an easy time with the Baptist Juniors, winning 41 to 6, while the Presbyterians won the main game from the Baptists by the score of 25 to 11.

The game between Seniors was rough at times.

The Baptists found the Presbyterians defense hard to penetrate for the Baptists could only toss the ball in the nets three times during the contest for double pointers.

The Presbyterians took the lead at the start and held it all through the game, the first quarter ending 11 to 6.

In the second quarter the Presbyterians increased their lead, adding five more points to their tally while their opponents failed to score, the count standing 16 to 5 at the end of the first half.

During the third quarter the Presbyterians slightly increased their lead over their opponnets, leading 21 to 8 at the close of the period.

The playing in final quarter was just as rough as the other three, the Presbyterians finding the basket for four more points while their opponents was making three. Both fives were off in their chances to score from the foul line, the Baptists missing 23 out of 28 chances while the Presbyterians could not make good only five out of 19.

Mutt Cooper, the dimutive forward for the Presbyterians, was the scoring star of the game, tossing the ball in the nets six times for field goals.

Bough and Todd were the other important factors in the Presbyterians victory.

G. Mackey, Wilson, and Kittridge were the outstanding players for the First Baptists.

In the Junior contest, Feit, Wildblood, Todd and Swaney were the stars for the Presbyterian Juniors, while Parsons, Kittridge, and Fugate played the best for the Baptists.

100,000 Signatures Expected to Petition Calling Upon "Czar" of Baseball to Reveal Details to Public.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—The O'Connell-Dolan skeleton in baseball's closet was playing castanets with its knee caps today as a result of the action of George Kelly and Sammy Bohne, of the Giants and Reds, respectively, in attempting to team up with the discredited Jimmy O'Connell on a Pacific coast basketball team.

The action indicated that all is not eau de cologne in Denmark and crystallized sentiment in favor of Judge Landis making public the complete testimony in baseball's latest scandal, something he has declined to do to date.

Several minor leaguers were involved in the venture, but that is of slight consequence. Neither is the fact that an attempt was made to evade the issue by having Kelly and O'Connell play alternate games nor that O'Connell was subsequently let out by the coast management in order to save Kelly further embarrassment.

The thing that has smote the public right between the eyebrows is that Kelly was one of three players absolved of complicity in the O'Connell business and that some 15 months ago Bohne was called upon the carpet to explain a story that appeared in a Chicago publication, charging him with attempted game jugglery at the behest of gamblers. Pat Duncan also was involved in the charges. He has been wafted out of the major leagues in the last month or so, for reasons not altogether clear.

These are the men who planned to identify themselves with what John A. Heydler terms "a self-confessed fakir.". If John has his way, both will suffer suspension, even though it was only the spirit and not the letter of baseball's dignity that was flouted. But the end is not yet.

Only a few hours before this latest development of the scandal was aired, a local newspaper had started a campaign by which it was hoped the fans would force Landis' hand in the matter of the O'Connell-Dolan testimony. The publication in question is printing a petition to the judge to be signed by fans who wish to know about the matter. The petition reads in part:

"As a baseball fan who supports the game at the box office, I feel that I am entitled to all the evidence you may have discovered in the Dolan-O'Connell bribery scandal. I realize that you may be withholding some of the evidence in order to further your investigations into the matter but believe that the time has come when all the testimony pretaining to the scandal be laid before the public."

Those behind the campaign frankly state that they expect to obtain 100,000 signatures, no less, to the petition.

It may or may not, however, have an effect on Landis' policy of dignified silence, the judge being a man of granite, right or wrong. But it would seem to indicate the temper of the public provided that uncertain medium of sentiment responds in the manner expected.

If the public does respond, it will indicate that it is far from satisfied that Judge Landis was justified in blacklisting Cozy Dolan on O'Connell's testimony and giving absolution to Kelly, Frank Frisch and Ross Young, charged by the same man with having guilty knowledge of the attempted bribery.

NURMI READY TO HIT BOARDS

New Records Anticipated in Tonight's Races.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—Paavo Nurmi, featuring the finest set of running legs in the history of athletics, will display his flying shanks before the American public for the first time tonight at Madison Square Garden in what has been tremed "the race of the century." Just what race is referred to is not made clear. Nurmi will go to the post in two races, a mile and five thousand metre event, and in each he will take on the greatest runners this side of the Atlantic.

He will be a lone Finn against the flower of America's athletic colony, yet the man who won four races at the Paris olympics will have the crowd with him. The pro-Nurmi sentiment has been fostered not only on account of his great ability but because the cards seem stacked against him. He will find the board floor tracks just as difficult to negotiate as did Josef Guillemot, the Frenchman, several years ago.

He will also find Willia Ritola, a fellow countryman, waiting for the gun in the five thousand metre race but not with the extended hand of friendship. The compatriots are bitter enemies.

On form alone, Nurmi would be an odds—on favorite to win both events. But with the existing conditions, the critics give Ritola better than an outside chance to defeat Nurmi at five thousand metres and also look for the rejuvenated Joie Ray to give the Finn the race of his life at the mile. Jimmy Connolly, Lloyd Hahn, Walter Higgins, Leo Larrivee and Lowendahl, a second rate field, make up the rest of the field in this race.

Nurmi has been declared to be in excellent condition for his American debut and has requested that special timers be placed at 1,500 metres and three miles during the two races. This indicates that he hopes to break no less than four records during the evening.

Will Devote Entire Time to Gym Classes and Athletic Teams

Move Made by Board of Education to Promote Physical Program as Well as Mental; Plan Expected to Boost Sports in General.

O. V. Boone, of Hookstown, former New Castle high school sports mentor, who, since the fall of 1923 has been coaching East Liverpool scholastic squads, will be placed in charge of all school athletics here as director of physical education, beginning with the second semester which starts the latter part of the month.

His appointment was made by members of the board of education last night.

Up until the present time, Mr. Boone has been coaching athletic squads at the local school and, in addition, instructing students in scholastic work.

Under the new order he will drop his work as class instructor and devote all his time to the promotion of physicial education.

Superintendent of Schools F. P. Geiger was instructed by the school board to secure another teacher who will take Mr. Boone's place in the class rooms.

Tentative plans of the board of education call for the organization, by Mr. Boone and school officials, of classes in gymnasium work, where physicial education will share attention with the mental. These classes will be for both girls and boys and undoubtedly will call for as much attention from the student as his regular course of studies.

Under the new plan, Boone will also keep a watchful eye on the upper grades, encouraging athletics among the future high school students. His advice will be sought in the organization of football, baseball basketball and other teams in grades. This method is expected to improve high school athletics thru the preparation of potential stars of the gridiron or cage while they are still in the grade departments.

O. V. Boone.

In the opinion of members of the board of education the gymnasium, under present conditions, is practically useless, excepting for basketball. They asserted that it should be used more for balancing of physical development with mental instruction. In order to put into effect their plans it was necessary to engage a full time instructor.

Boone first took charge of the football squad in the fall of 1923 after joining the local school staff. He later handled the basketball and other squads. He continued with a similar program at the start of the 1924 term, handling both football and basketball squads.

RACE SCHEDULE STILL SECRET

Atlanta and Aurora, Ill., May Land Dates, However.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 6.—Aurora, Ill., and Atlanta will be granted racing dates in the Grand Circuit, when the stewards announce their schedules, it was authoritatively learned today. Atlanta will probably see the trotters and pacers for one week, beginning October 12, while Aurora may be given dates between Columbus and Kalamazoo. The schedule is still a carefully guarded secret, and may not be announced today.

A veil of secrecy was also thrown about the proposed changes in the rules, which would provide for claiming races in the slower classes, classification of horses upon the "win race" basis, rather than time as at present, and registration of trotters and pacers in a manner similar to that now used for running horses. Prediction was made, however, that probably all of these innovations, marking radical changes in the Grand Circuit rules, would be adopted.

MEEHAN ACCEPTS NEW YORK OFFER

NEW YORK, Jan. 6—Although John F. "Chick" Meehan, Syracuse football coach, is said to have been in receipt of offers from Nebraska and Southern California, a definite report was in circulation today that he had accepted the offer of New York university and had even gone so far as to lease a house for his family on University Heights, this city.

Notification to this effect is said to have been wired Harry Stuhldreher, all-American quarterback at Notre Dame, and other candidates for the post, made vacant by the resignation of Tom Thorp.

Runyon Says

two decisions over his contemporary of the amateurs, Yale Okun.

Gitlitz showed considerable promise as an amateur. The writer has not seen him in action since he turned professional. He is twenty-three years old, weighs around 175 pounds and is six feet tall. He should get much heavier.

Gitlitz's record would indicate that he hasn't had much luck as a professional so far. He has had two six-round bouts and lost the decisions in both—one to Fred Mace, the other to Al. Rood.

However, early defeats may be more profitable than victories to a youngster. They may teach him a certain humility, may prevent him from getting "swelled head" over his prowess.

Gitlitz as the writer recalls him from the amateurs, has plenty of natural ability. With proper experience he should become a real good fighter.

Speaking of amateur boxing, Mr. Charles L. Ornstein, of Baltimore, calls attention to the fact that the National Amateur Athletic Union's junior boxing championships will be held in that city March 11 and 12.

This is a most important torunament in amateur circles. It will draw contestants from Detroit, New York, Boston, New Haven, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, St. Louis, New Orelans, Buffalo and Cleveland. There will be bouts in every class.

Baltimore had its first experience with amateur boxing three years ago, when the South Atlantic A. A. U. championships were held there. For three nights One Hundred and Fourth Medical Regiment Armory was packed.

The South Atlantic A. A. U. includes Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, and the District of Columbia. The last tournament produced Sergeant Lester Mayle, heavyweight, and Adolph Lefkowitch, middleweight, who were members of the Olympic team with Gitlitz.

In New York amateur boxing has gradually taken hold of public pugilistic interest, until now the tournament held at Madison Square Garden are always well attended.

The New York "ringworms" have learned that they see more actual fighting in one night at an amateur tournament than in a month of professional boxing.

Many of the best known and most promising professionals of the day came from the New York amateur tournaments, among them Paul Berlenbach and Larry Estridge, whose recent battle drew over $50,000 in the Garden. A couple of years ago these young fellows often apeared in the same ring for prizes.

You cannot discount the value of experience in the amateur bouts to a young boxer.

He meets all varieties of pugilistic style. It is a great training school.

A successful amateur does not always make a successful professional but the writer is inclined to think the amateur schooled boxer has the same advantage over the ordinary youngster starting out in pugilistic professional life as the collegian over the boy without any education.

The growth of amateur boxing is such that the writer will not be surprised if in the next ten years ALL the professional champions will have come from the amateur tournaments.

two decisions over his contemporary of the amateurs, Yale Okun.

Gitlitz showed considerable promise as an amateur. The writer has not seen him in action since he turned professional. He is twenty-three years old, weighs around 175 pounds and is six feet tall. He should get much heavier.

Gitlitz's record would indicate that he hasn't had much luck as a professional so far. He has had two six-round bouts and lost the decisions in both—one to Fred Mace, the other to Al. Rood.

However, early defeats may be more profitable than victories to a youngster. They may teach him a certain humility, may prevent him from getting "swelled head" over his prowess.

Gitlitz as the writer recalls him from the amateurs, has plenty of natural ability. With proper experience he should become a real good fighter.

Speaking of amateur boxing, Mr. Charles L. Ornstein, of Baltimore, calls attention to the fact that the National Amateur Athletic Union's junior boxing championships will be held in that city March 11 and 12.

This is a most important torunament in amateur circles. It will draw contestants from Detroit, New York, Boston, New Haven, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, St. Louis, New Orelans, Buffalo and Cleveland. There will be bouts in every class.

Baltimore had its first experience with amateur boxing three years ago, when the South Atlantic A. A. U. championships were held there. For three nights One Hundred and Fourth Medical Regiment Armory was packed.

The South Atlantic A. A. U. includes Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, and the District of Columbia. The last tournament produced Sergeant Lester Mayle, heavyweight, and Adolph Lefkowitch, middleweight, who were members of the Olympic team with Gitlitz.

In New York amateur boxing has gradually taken hold of public pugilistic interest, until now the tournament held at Madison Square Garden are always well attended.

The New York "ringworms" have learned that they see more actual fighting in one night at an amateur tournament than in a month of professional boxing.

Many of the best known and most promising professionals of the day came from the New York amateur tournaments, among them Paul Berlenbach and Larry Estridge, whose recent battle drew over $50,000 in the Garden. A couple of years ago these young fellows often apeared in the same ring for prizes.

You cannot discount the value of experience in the amateur bouts to a young boxer.

He meets all varieties of pugilistic style. It is a great training school.

A successful amateur does not always make a successful professional but the writer is inclined to think the amateur schooled boxer has the same advantage over the ordinary youngster starting out in pugilistic professional life as the collegian over the boy without any education.

The growth of amateur boxing is such that the writer will not be surprised if in the next ten years ALL the professional champions will have come from the amateur tournaments.

EAST END

PRAYER SERVICES NOW IN PROGRESS

Rev. J. C. Culp, pastor of the Boyce Methodist Episcopal church, spoke at the prayer service held last evening in the Second United Presbyterian church.

The meeting this evening will be held in the Second Presbyterian church. Rev. J. O. Campbell, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, will deliver the sermon.

Members of the various churches are uniting in these services.

TOWNSHIPS SEEK HIGHWAY FUNDS

Beaver county commissioners will be called upon soon to act on requests for road improvement funds as a result of the passage of the bond issue for roads and bridges last November.

Several sections of the county have announced that funds will be sought for improvements and the number of requests will likely be increased before the advent of spring.

Aid Society Meeting.

Ladies Aid society of the Boyce Methodist Episcopal church will meet this evening with Mrs. Forest Harmon at her home in Island avenue. Mrs. Clarence Bailey will assist the hostess.

Plants Resume.

To Enforce Auto Law.

State police have been instructed to arrest automobile owners who operate their cars without having secured new licenses. The state highway department has turned down requests for a time extension and directed that arrests be made if the law is violated.

"Pancakes and Plenty Of Them;" Popular American Slogan

"Pancakes And Plenty of Them."

This is an American slogan that seems to become more and more popular every year, judging from the number of pancakes consumed in this country. According to the Aunt Jemima Mills Company, one of the largest manufacturers of pancake flour, the sales last year on their brand alone provided the public with 500,000,000 pancakes, figuring 24 to the package.

Pancakes are no longer seasonal, either, according to Aunt Jemima. Buckwheat Cakes still reach the height of popularity in winter, but other pancakes are eaten the year round. There is also a tendency to serve pancakes at other meals than breakfast. Lunch, supper and "between meals" all come in for a share. Even as a dessert, pancakes, with plenty of syrup, are a growing favorite.

The uniformly good results to be obtained, and the ease and simplicity of preparing pancakes from ready mixed, self-rising flour, largely accounts for the increase, according to Aunt Jemima.

MORRISTOWN—William Walker, local farmer, is mourning the loss of his Airdale puppy, along with 700 feet of lumber. The dog, it is thought, submitted to capture, without sounding an alarm, when thieves took the lumber.

Dangerous Coughs Go Quickly With Old-Time Pine-Tar Honey

Perhaps the best remedy ever discovered for a persistent cough that has hung on and on, and which may develop into a more serious condition, is that old-time tried and proved medicine that our parents and grandparents relied on—Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar Honey. The prompt relief is almost magical, and a day's use will often break up a bad cough or chest cold entirely. Doctors say the pine tar quickly loosens and removes the phlegm and congestion which are the direct cause of the cough, also healing soreness, while the honey both soothes irritation and gives a pleasant taste.

But be sure you get the genuine and original Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar Honey, and no other. There have been many imitations, but the original is still the best, as it is scientifically compounded of just the right proportions of pine-tar, honey and other healing ingredients which the best doctors have found to aid in quick relief. For coughs, chest colds, bronchitis and almost every other throat irritation, including children's spasmodic croup. Often stops a severe cough overnight. Dr. Bell's is only 30c at any good druggists.

Goes to Prison for a Thrill; Can't Get Out

Ray Snodderly, 16, was given a 25-year sentence for robbery in Council Bluffs, Iowa, 40 minutes after he confessed. Now he says he confessed just to get his name in the papers. His mother backs him up with the statement that he was in Wichita, Kan., with her at the time of the robbery. The judge ruled the sentence would have to stand until the pardon board acts, next June.

WELL ONE DAY IN BED THREE

Wyandotte, Michigan. — "After my baby was born I did not do my own work for six months and could hardly take care of my own baby. I always had a pain in my right side and it was so bad I was getting round shoulders. I would feel well one day and then feel so bad for three or four days that I would be in bed. One Sunday my mother came to see how I was, and she said a friend told her to tell me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So the next day I got a bottle and before it was half taken I got relief. After I was well again I went to the doctor and he asked me how I was getting along. I told him I was taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and he said it did not hurt any one to take it. I am always recommending the Vegetable Compound to others and I always have a bottle of it on hand."—Mrs. HENRY HOLLISTER, R. F. D. No. 1, Box 7, Wyandotte, Mich.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a dependable medicine for all women. For sale by druggists everywhere.

BERKELEY, Cal. — Edward Lewis, 30, was sentenced to six months in jail because he attempted to flirt with the athletic wife of a Berkeley policeman.

Mrs. Bernice Wilson, former University of California co-ed and now assistant swimming instructor, said she was accosted by Lewis, who invited her to "take a walk." Mrs. Wilson countered with a stiff right to the chin, and while Lewis was still groggy from the blow, she summoned her husband, Patrolman O. W. Wilson.

Members of the various churches are uniting in these services.

TOWNSHIPS SEEK HIGHWAY FUNDS

Beaver county commissioners will be called upon soon to act on requests for road improvement funds as a result of the passage of the bond issue for roads and bridges last November.

Several sections of the county have announced that funds will be sought for improvements and the number of requests will likely be increased before the advent of spring.

Aid Society Meeting.

Ladies Aid society of the Boyce Methodist Episcopal church will meet this evening with Mrs. Forest Harmon at her home in Island avenue. Mrs. Clarence Bailey will assist the hostess.

Plants Resume.

To Enforce Auto Law.

State police have been instructed to arrest automobile owners who operate their cars without having secured new licenses. The state highway department has turned down requests for a time extension and directed that arrests be made if the law is violated.

"Pancakes and Plenty Of Them;" Popular American Slogan

"Pancakes And Plenty of Them."

This is an American slogan that seems to become more and more popular every year, judging from the number of pancakes consumed in this country. According to the Aunt Jemima Mills Company, one of the largest manufacturers of pancake flour, the sales last year on their brand alone provided the public with 500,000,000 pancakes, figuring 24 to the package.

Pancakes are no longer seasonal, either, according to Aunt Jemima. Buckwheat Cakes still reach the height of popularity in winter, but other pancakes are eaten the year round. There is also a tendency to serve pancakes at other meals than breakfast. Lunch, supper and "between meals" all come in for a share. Even as a dessert, pancakes, with plenty of syrup, are a growing favorite.

The uniformly good results to be obtained, and the ease and simplicity of preparing pancakes from ready mixed, self-rising flour, largely accounts for the increase, according to Aunt Jemima.
